DOVER, England, Sept. 11.—(By telephone to London.)—A hotel in the Dover area frequented by newspaper men was hit by an aerial bomb today—and one whole end of it fell in ruins.

This correspondent, who is now being threatened with a spinal anesthetic in a hospital, happened to be in the wrong end of the top floor at the crucial moment and fell four stories with the collapsing débris.

How It Feels to Be Bombed.

Here is the story of how it felt to be the victim of a direct hit by Fuehrer Adolf Hitler's air force:

Stanley C. Johnstone, temporarily of The Tribune's London staff, and I were talking with two naval officers in room 91 on the west end of the hotel's top floor. An air raid warning was on and antiaircraft fire was potting white spots against the sunset. We paid little attention to this now familiar scene, but I happened to lean out the window and saw 12 Nazi bombers in formation flying directly overhead.

I remarked to my three friends, "Twelve of them are exactly above now. If they have dropped anything it will hit in about 15 seconds."

Hears Bomb Fall Near By.

Then we heard a swishing sound, followed by a terrific explosion outside the window. The bomb obviously had landed in the street outside.

About two seconds later the loudest bang I ever heard went off directly overhead. I afterward learned it must have been within 10 or 15 feet of my head on the roof immediately above—luckily it was an instant contact bomb instead of the penetrating variety. I held my arms over my head instinctively. Everything went black. I was fully conscious as the floor fell away under my feet. I remember congratulating myself at that instant on my luck in being uninjured by the explosion.

Plunges Into Emptiness.

As I dropped into the emptiness all was black. The air must have been full of soot. I expected to land on the next floor below but, to my surprise, I kept on falling for what seemed to be many seconds. A thought flashed across my consciousness that it might be the end for me. I had forgotten the existence of my three friends. I waited—limply—feeling utterly helpless.

Then I landed. It did not hurt, but everything was pitch black. There were sounds of crumbling wreckage and the walls still were falling and bricks were tumbling thru the timbers. I held my arms over my head again and moved my head over a beam that I could

MAKES DOCTORS WAIT WHILE HE PHONES IN STORY

Guy Murchie, THE TRIBUNE war correspondent who was injured by a German bomb in the air raid on Dover, England, yesterday, telephoned his story to his paper's London bureau before being treated for painful leg injuries.

Then he permitted doctors to administer a spinal anaesthetic, deadening the nerves of the lower limbs, and stitch deep gashes in his legs.

"Murchie dictated his story in a slow drawl. He was unhurried, unexcited, and almost detached, as if he were merely reporting someone else's experience. He said there was nothing to worry about, altho one wound required 15 stitches.

"Arthur Mencken, an American photographer in Dover, telephoned that Murchie watched with great interest as his wounds were treated. He said Murchie's prime interest after his injury was first to save other victims."

Agree on Draft Bill, Fixing Age Limit at 21-35

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—Final agreement on the peacetime conscription bill was reached tonight by senate and house conferees. It will be brought up tomorrow for approval in both houses if unanimous consent can be obtained. If not, it will be approved and sent to the White House Friday.

In its final form, the measure fixes the draft age limits at 21 to 35 years inclusive and greatly modifies the so-called plant seizure or dictatorship amendment. The conferees knocked out the Fish amendment which would have postponed action on the draft for 60 days to give voluntary enlistments a trial.

In addition, they rewrote and made more specific a house amendment providing that no person shall be inducted into service until adequate shelter and sanitary facilities have been provided.

Compromise on Age Limits.

The new draft age represents a compromise between the senate limits of 21 to 30 years inclusive and the house limits of 21 to 44 inclusive. The registration probably will be in October, but no men are expected to be called before the November election.

The war department's program calls for drafting 400,000 men by Jan. 1, another 400,000 by next April, and a total of 3,400,000 men for a year of training before the bill expires on May 15, 1945. It is estimated 16,500,000 men will be required to register under the new age limit and that 5,000,000 of them will be available for the draft.

Judicial Review Provided.

The bill now provides that the President may take over and operate industrial plants whose owners refuse to comply with government orders, but only when "the public danger is imminent and impending and the emergency in the public service is extreme and imperative and such as will admit of delay or resort to any other harassment of source of supply."

The President would be forced to declare existence of such an emergency and the secretary of war, or navy, would have to certify the circumstances. Compensation for use of the plants would be subject to judicial review upon appeal by the owners.

F. D. R. Urges Labor to Keep Him in Power

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—In the first avowed "political" speech of his campaign for a third term, President Roosevelt tonight appealed to labor to help keep his administration in power.

He struck out at his opposition with the charge that it sought not only to stop progress in social and labor legislation but would repeal the wage-hour and other New Deal acts.

Mr. Roosevelt also seized the occasion to pledge his support to the Democratic platform plank which promised that American troops would not be sent to fight in foreign lands except in case of attack.

Defends Industry Seizure.

He defended the principle of government seizure of industry for defense purposes. It was a necessary complement of selective universal training of the man power of the nation, he averred.

The President spoke in Constitution hall before a highly partisan audience—members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers [American Federation of Labor], which had previously adopted a resolution indorsing him for another term.

A controversy had raged during the day and remained unsettled tonight concerning a possible Hatch act violation in relation to the payment for broadcasting of the President's speech. The union had offered to pay the $20,000 cost of putting the address on two major networks.

Union to Pay Charges.

The Democratic national committee was prepared to pay for the broadcast, it was announced, when Daniel J. Tobin, president of the union, declared that the committee would be reimbursed by his organization. He said the Hatch act prohibition against campaign contributions of more than $5,000 by any organization would be avoided by splitting the cost among local unions.

Senator Carl Hatch [D., N. M.] denounced this scheme as a violation of the spirit, if not the letter, of the law he sponsored.

BY FRANK CIPRIANI.

Democratic politics and politicians were planted yesterday in the forefront of the income tax trial of William R. Johnson, reputed gambling boss, in the federal District court.

Nathan Cobb.

A government witness quoted Johnson as asserting that he was loaded "with Courtney's men, Kelly's men, Nash's men, and Toman's men," and that he was "taking care of" the henchmen of "Arvey, Gill, Sonnenschein, and some gentlemen from the county commissioners' office."

Johnson and eight of his alleged associates are on trial before a jury in Judge John P. Barnes' court on charges of conspiring to defraud the government of $1,887,864 in income taxes.

Political Tieups Developed.

Yesterday's revelations were a development of previous efforts to inject a political element into the case. Earlier several former gambling house employés had testified they had obtained their jobs thru aldermen. Two of the aldermen, Mathias [Paddy] Bauler [43d] and Hyman L. Brody [39th], were designated by name.

The political figures mentioned yesterday and identified only by last names presumably were State's Attorney Courtney, Mayor Kelly, Patrick Nash, chairman of the Democratic county central committee; County Treasurer John Toman, Ald. Jacob Arvey [24th], Ald. Henry Sonnenschein [22d], and Joseph Gill, clerk of the Municipal court.

Testifies Nearly Four Hours.

The witness was Nathan Cobb, 65 years old, who said he had worked for nearly six years as a gambling shill [a come-on man who poses as a patron and gambles with house money to stimulate the games]. He

SKY BARRAGE REPELS GERMAN PLANES; BRITISH BLAST AT CENTER OF BERLIN

Heavy Blows Also Fall on Hamburg and Bremen.

BERLIN, Sept. 12, Thursday (AP).—British flyers bombed Berlin, Hamburg, and Bremen today as Germany hurled more warplanes at Britain in an unrelenting effort to throw London into complete confusion and cripple its industrial organization.

The raiders bombarded the center of Berlin for 92 minutes, but Hamburg and Bremen apparently bore the brunt of the attack. Informed sources said a series of bombs destroyed apartment houses in the latter two cities, killing and injuring an unknown number of civilians. Incendiary bombs caused a large number of fires.

Bombs Fall in Tiergarten.

Numerous incendiary bombs plummeted to the heart of Berlin this morning, many of them falling into the famous Tiergarten, the city's largest and most frequented park. This was the same area bombed the night before, when the reichstag and the Brandenburg gate were hit.

The Tiergarten is only a short distance from the Wilhelmstrasse, which is lined with government buildings. Adolf Hitler's official residence is only a few blocks away.

The raid, authorities said, was much less intense than the previous day's attack. An incendiary bomb started a fire in a northside factory, but it was extinguished quickly, Nazi spokesmen said. No deaths or casualties were reported in Berlin.

A heavy "curtain barrage" sent up by antiaircraft guns kept the raiders at considerable height over the capital, authorities said, but occasionally the hum of motors could be heard.

Hope to Smash Defenses.

It became obvious that Germany—whether or not it was preparing for land invasion of England—was counting on the incessant pounding of bombs to create such panic in London that the defenses would fail on account of complete dislocation of economic and military activities.

"More planes have departed to strike retaliatory blows," an authorized German spokesman said. This recalled a declaration yesterday that Germany would dump 10,000 planeloads of bombs daily on London.

DNB, official German news agency, reported German bombers successfully bombarded Liverpool and other war-essential cities in southern England shortly after midnight. The same report said all planes of the German bomber group rturned from London, where war-essential targets were bombed successfully.

Report Attack on Convoy.

Military authorities announced the bombing of a 20-ship convoy at the mouth of the Thames. They asserted six merchantmen and one destroyer were set afire and the other vessels were chased back into the estuary.

During the day yesterday the Nazis reported 54 British craft were sent spinning to earth, as against the loss of only 18 German planes.

Southampton, important British port on the channel, was raided, it was reported. The Spitfire airplane works were bombarded.

STRIKE AT HITLER INVASION SHIPS ACROSS CHANNEL

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP).—In concert with Premier Winston Churchill's warning today that a "heavy, full scale German invasion of this island is being prepared," the British admiralty and air force command announced tonight that telling blows had been struck at German concentrations close to English shores.

British planes bombed concentrations of barges along the German held French, Belgian, and Dutch coasts. The attacks were made Tuesday night and until early this morning, thru the mists and rains of early fall.

The Calais [France] docks—only 26 miles from Dover—bore the brunt of one of the heaviest attacks. The docks, basins and shipping there were pounded for three hours. It was claimed the bombs hit "packed barges which lined the whole side of one basin and extended three-quarters of the way across it." The bombing resulted in fires and explosions, it was reported.

Hit Large Merchant Ship.

The lock gates of one basin were bombed, causing a large fire, and other bombs tore up railway tracks. A mile away from the docks a large merchant ship was bombed and set afire.

The Ostend [Belgium] harbor was bombed for nearly eight hours, and salvos of heavy bombs hit barges lying in another port. Other ships were bombed at Boulogne, France.

Two Nazi "E-boats," the fast, vicious little torpedo boats of the sort that would be used in any attempt to cross the channel with soldiers, were believed sunk in an attack on the ports of Calais and Dieppe, France. Flyers bombed Nazi gun emplacements on the French shore across from Dover.

Attack Channel Shipping.

German dive bombers and long range guns united tonight in a heavy bombardment of the English coast to protect Nazi ships maneuvering in the channel in apparent preparation for the expected attempt to invade Britain.

The British, however, made a counter move. The admiralty announced that light British naval forces had begun "strong and repeated offensive action" against Nazi shipping movements and their vital ports.

The assault of German long range guns from the French shore was promptly answered. British shore guns replied with powerful salvos which were aimed principally at a German convoy believed to have been hugging the French shore as it passed down the channel.

Besides the action along the channel, British planes ranged over northern Germany. Naval barracks at Wilhelmshaven were bombed, it was stated. Railway targets were hit at Duisberg and Brussels and airdromes in Germany and occupied territory. The Folke-Wulf airplane factory and the docks at Bremen were bombed.

The air ministry's communique repeated a previous claim that the vital Potsdam station, one of the main railway terminals of Berlin, was bombed.

90 Attackers Shot from Air in Day, English Claim.

BULLETINS.

LONDON, Sept. 12, Thursday (A. P.).—A high explosive bomb crashed early today on the roof of a London newspaper building without inflicting any casualties. The missile cut thru the 15,000 gallon water tank on the roof and dropped to a car parking space in the well of the building.

LONDON, Sept. 12, Thursday (AP).—Germany's fifth nightly mass aerial attack on London was broken into scattered bombings last night and early today by the heaviest antiaircraft defense in the city's history.

The all clear signal sounded in London at 5:36 a. m., ending a night-to-morning air alarm of exactly nine hours.

The British resistance stiffened in the face of German threats to dump 10,000 plane loads of bombs daily on the London area. Everywhere, the hundreds of flying invaders were pursued by the barrage of shells laid in the sky.

Call It "Revenge" Raid.

Britons, who disclosed only yesterday that a German bomb had damaged Buckingham palace, branded the night's attacks a revenge raid for the British bombing on Tuesday night of the reichstag building and the Brandenburg gate in central Berlin.

Indicating London's suffering in four previous nights of raids, it was officially stated that 1,010 persons already had been killed and 4,300 injured—and these figures were inclusive only thru Tuesday.

Indicative of the city's air defense in three daytime raids yesterday, the air ministry announced that 90 German planes had been shot down up to 7:30 p.m. against 17 British craft lost.

Count 20 Explosions.

The dusk to dawn attack—the fourth raid Wednesday — was started at 8:36 p. m. by masses of Nazi planes.

But only about 20 bomb explosions were counted in the city in the first eight hours of the raid. The bombs fell singly or in pairs, instead of in the salvos that marked the previous attacks.

One German plane was shot down in north London and its crew captured. Another plane was brought down south of London.

Roar Sounds Above Guns.

Reports of damage as dawn neared were small, and observations from a midtown building showed few scars on the face of the sleeping capital.

At times, early in the long raid, so many planes were aloft that their roar rose above the sound of the antiaircraft guns.

Once the diminishing drone of many planes indicated a heavy squadron of invaders had withdrawn without dropping a bomb.

To the civilians huddled in shelters, the iron clamor of the guns gave assurance that Lon-

feel just above me. I was worried about the falling chimney walls.

As seconds went by I realized that it might be a lucky escape, for the bombs still were exploding and anti-aircraft fire still resounded in the background. A few shouts and cries could be heard from the mass of débris. As the black soot swirled about I remembered thinking that the hotel chimney sweep must have been negligent lately.

Gradually the air grew lighter as the smoke and soot settled. I snorted to get the fumes out of my nose. After half a minute some light came thru the wreckage and I could see that I was tangled in a mass of timbers that sloped towards the street. The remaining jagged walls of the hotel towered upwards for some 50 feet and I was acutely aware of the possibility of one of them falling on top of me at any moment.

I climbed out of the debris and felt elated to be alive and a survivor of the best firsthand experience of being bombed that any reporter ever walked away from.

Johnstone Climbs Out, Too.

Then I saw Johnstone climb out near me. His face was pitch black with soot. I could hardly recognize him.

We were so glad to see each other we shook hands on the spot. Then we started to climb out.

I heard a girl calling. "Please help me. Please get this beam off me," she cried. Her face showed about 20 feet away in a mass of twisted timbers. Her face was black, but I presently recognized her as the hotel's pretty receptionist. I tried to haul away the timber that was pinning her down. It was wedged in too strongly.

Johnstone, apparently uninjured, went away for help. I continued to struggle with the beam and spoke encouragingly to the girl, who was in great pain but suppressing her agony with effort. Her leg appeared to have been broken and as I took the débris away I could see her clothes were half torn away and she was bleeding badly.

Unable to move the timber from her, I climbed down to the street and luckily found a soldier who got me a saw with which I soon was able to saw the timber away and get the poor girl loose.

About this time I realized I was limping and had some bad cuts about my own legs. After recovering some of my luggage from my room in the undamaged part of the hotel I was taken to a hospital in an ambulance.

Phones Quickly, Operation Near.

The injured girl now is in the next bed to my own after being given a pain killing drug before her operation.

I have just now heard that one of the naval officers with me in the hotel room survived with a few head cuts, but that the other is feared dead. Bombs and guns still are booming in the distance as I write.

I must now phone this story to London because my relatively slight operation comes next.

AIDS IN RESCUE WORK

BY STANLEY C. JOHNSTONE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DOVER, England, Sept. 11, [By telephone to London].—After those of us who were with Guy Murchie in the Dover hotel when it was bombed today had talked him into going to a hospital for treatment of his wounds, I stayed on the scene four more hours. I was trying to get about the only thing that Murchie had been unable to cover in the story he had telephoned to THE TRIBUNE's London office, in spite of painful injuries. That was just who among the hotel's guests and staff were missing.

From the debris we rescued the pocket of Murchie's coat, still containing his camera, with which he has been photographing war scenes. As far as I know all our other effects were destroyed.

Feared Burning to Death

Finally, when everything was cleared up, I went off to clean up and, over a much needed glass of beer and a sandwich in a restaurant nearby, I reflected on my narrow escape.

The only thought I remember from my plunge thru the welter of beams and girders after the bomb struck was not the danger of being crushed, but the danger of being burned to death—that this was the way the people felt when being buried under the mass of burning debris I had seen in the fires which followed German raids on London.

Then I recalled that when the dust cleared away almost miraculously I discovered I could move and began struggling upwards toward daylight above me. After fighting my way up for 12 feet I emerged at the same time as Murchie did. We congratulated ourselves on our escape and then rescued the hotel's reception girl who also was buried in the wreckage.

Goes to Hunt Lost Officer

After that I discovered one of the naval lieutenants who was in my room with us when the bomb struck and managed to extricate him. He was wounded badly on the head and Murchie and I put him in an ambulance and sent him to a hospital.

As the fourth member of our party, another naval lieutenant, was missing, I went back down into the hole from which I had escaped to find him, smashing my way thru my wardrobe, which was supporting the debris. In a pocket in the wreckage my electric torch picked out the officer's arm. He appeared to be dead. At that moment soldiers arrived and ordered me to leave because of the danger that the walls of the hotel might collapse. They worked for half an hour to get the lieutenant out, but found he was dead.

Tonight, along with the other guests of the hotel, I will have to meet the housing problem, which one German bomb caused, as well as possible. I will sleep on cushions on the floor of the restaurant, very satisfied, however, with the escape from the most harrowing experience of my life.

MURCHIE ASKED TO BE SENT TO 'HELL'S CORNER'

Wanted to Be There if Invasion Came.

Guy Murchie, CHICAGO TRIBUNE war correspondent injured in the German bombing of Dover, England, yesterday, has been a member of THE TRIBUNE news staff since 1934. Since May he has been in Europe, augmenting THE TRIBUNE foreign staff's coverage of the war. He has spent most of his time in England.

At his own request he was transferred to the Dover region because he wanted to be at the front in the "Battle for Britain" and on hand there should the Germans attempt to invade Britain from the sea at what has become known as "Hell's corner" because of severe bombings of Dover.

His cables on the military strategy employed by the Nazis and the allies have been studied by Washington military experts, and he has won particular distinction for his excellent eyewitness accounts of the attacks on Dover. Recently he had another narrow escape when his auto was machine gunned by a bomber only 500 feet above his head.

Murchie not only is a writer and reporter of ability, but an artist and photographer, and has supplemented war zone stories with pen and ink sketches and photographs.

Tall [6 feet 5] and endowed with an insatiable curiosity, he is a native of Boston, the 33 year old son of Guy Murchie, attorney, and Agnes Donald, daughter of the rector of Boston's celebrated Trinity church. He studied at Kent, a preparatory school in Connecticut, and was graduated from Harvard, where he rowed on the varsity crew, in 1929.

After his graduation, he traveled around the world, working as a deckhand and salmon fisher and at odd jobs, accumulating material for a book, "Men on the Horizon."

Stanley C. Johnstone, who was slightly injured with Murchie in the bombing yesterday, is an Australian who recently has been assisting THE TRIBUNE's London bureau.

He ranks as something of a military expert, having enlisted in the Australian artillery at the age of 14½ years. Two years after that he was commissioned and several times took active command of batteries. He recently was manager of the Press Wireless Service at Amsterdam.

When we say "unexcelled" we mean just that! We sincerely believe that a finer shirt than Grant's Pennleigh simply could not be produced to sell for 1.00! Compare them with the higher priced shirts you wear—on these points:

1. Pennleighs are Sanforized (linings and interlinings, too). Can't shrink more than 1%!
2. Clex-Processed Collars won't wilt or blister.
3. Materials Pre-Laundered 5 times . . . assures perfect washability.
4. Vat-Dyed Colors guaranteed tubfast.
5. Genuine Ocean Pearl Buttons.
6. Fine, Close Stitching means strong seams.
7. Fancy Patterns designed for more expensive shirts. Finest quality printing known.
8. Standard Full Cut—action back and sleeves.
9. Solid Whites, Blues. Fancies in Blues, Browns, Greens and Tans in stripes, checks, etc. Cellophane wrapped.

MAIL and PHONE ORDERS . . . given prompt attention! Phone Cen. 5837 (or write) and Miss Trotter, Grant's personal shopper, will carefully attend your shirt orders as to size and color wants. Orders of 2 or more shirts delivered FREE.

No wonder Grant's sells over 1,000,000 Pennleighs a year! Isn't it time YOU tried them?

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

ARMY OF 1940! VAST SCHOOL OF SKILLED TRADES

Mule Skinner Gone; It's Mechanics Now.

"Each arm and service provides an attractive opportunity for the man who enlists."—Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commander of the 2d army.

BY HAROLD HUTCHINGS.

These words of Gen. Ford raise many questions about the army of 1940:

What training does it offer recruits? What of the work of the soldier in an army where radio, motor vehicles and complicated automatic and semiautomatic equipment are in use? In what trades or skills can a recruit get training? Would his army training help him if he returns to civil life?

With these questions in mind, a trip to Fort Sheridan, where hundreds of recruits are getting their first tastes of service, was arranged. There were visits with newly enlisted men, many of whom are still learning the basic lessons of the soldier in the one month basic training period prescribed for all new men [and which includes athletics and drill five days a week].

There were visits with experienced soldiers—some with long service and some with less than three years—who have become army specialists, being now mechanics, radio men, electricians, clerks, ordnance experts, etc.

The Coast Artillery.

Because the combatant arms [infantry, artillery, coast artillery, etc.] require a major share of the men of the army, one of these arms was considered first—the coast artillery [antiaircraft]. The coast artillery is represented by a full regiment at Fort Sheridan—the 61st—which is training 535 recruits. This is a motorized unit and it requires drivers and enough motor maintenance men to take care of minor repairs. These men are trained in the regiment.

For the most part, however, the men of this regiment handle the complicated weapons and fire control equipment with which the unit is armed. Operation of the sensitive sound locators used for spotting enemy aircraft; the 60 inch, 800 million candle power searchlights with which planes are illuminated, the 3 inch antiaircraft guns, which are aimed electrically, gives men experience with some of the most complicated products of the armament industry.

Antiaircraft Guns.

In addition, the antiaircraft unit is equipped with .50 caliber antiaircraft machine guns, water cooled weapons used against low flying planes. It expects to be provided soon with 37 mm. antiaircraft weapons which fire a shell a second and, like the 3 inch weapons, operate in batteries of four with central aiming control.

A visit to the motor maintenance garage of the 6th corps area at Fort Sheridan afforded a glimpse of how the army takes care of the major maintenance and repairs on its motors. Army trained workmen, members of company B, 81st quartermaster regiment, do all the work under command of Maj. Fred P. Van Duzee, who explained that the unit is one which conducts what is called in the army, "3d echelon maintenance."

The classifications of maintenance work are: 1st echelon, that which the driver does himself as a matter of routine—air in tires, oil, gas and water service, etc.; 2d echelon, minor adjustments and unit replacement, such as replacement of air filters, etc.; 3d echelon, major repairs and replacement of major assemblies; 4th echelon, complete overhauls and rebuilding.

The garage operates an upholstering shop, paint shop, brake drum regrinder, piston grinder, pin hole grinder, drill press, battery equipment, all of which is operated by enlisted men.

76 Men in Company

The company contains 76 men, of whom only 25 are trained. The others are partially trained recruits who enlisted during the spring and summer. The personnel includes: a cost accountant, a shop foreman [who is a master sergeant], assistant shop foreman, inspector, motor mechanics, welder and blacksmith, battery man, ignition and carburetion men, upholsterers, machinists, lubricant men, painters, body and fender workers, carpenters, stock room managers, and purchasing agent.

Maj. Van Duzee explained that after recruits have had basic training they specialize. Every one in the company has an opportunity to get what the army calls a "rating" which carries a pay increase. Advanced motor training is offered to selected men at Holabird Depot, Baltimore, Md.

Chances in Signal Corps

The signal corps, altho it is not numerically a large unit within the army, offers in recruiting publicity an impressive list of specialist ratings to which enlisted men may aspire. Some of these are: radio operator, telegraph printer operator, line and repair foreman, teletype operator, switchboard operator, linemen, radio electrician and cable splicer.

Fort Sheridan is the home of one of four signal battalions in the army. It is the 50th, a new unit of 12 officers and 275 men [peace strength] now conducting its basic recruit training.

The commander, Lieut. Col. Fred G. Miller, explained that the primary purpose of such an organization is to furnish all means of signal communication for army and corps commanders in the field. This includes telephone, teletype, telegraph, and radio.

Members of such a company, therefore, will specialize and gain ratings, if they qualify, as specialists in a variety of signal corps activities.

Unit to Be Motorized.

The unit, which has not yet received its equipment, will be motorized, having vehicles similar to those used by commercial telephone and telegraph companies.

"Our work parallels that of the commercial industry except that it must be of a more rapid and of a more temporary nature. We place our communications facilities where the commercial facilities leave off," he said.

At Fort Sheridan is one other signal unit—a 16 man detachment of the 6th signal service. This detachment, made up of two sergeants, two corporals, two privates [specialists] and seven recruits, handles the radio and teletype communication for the post.

European Duel Grows Hotter

British and German bombing of enemy bases grew heavier yesterday as Prime Minister Churchill warned his countrymen that an attempt to invade England is very near.

KING MICHAEL FREES PLOTTERS JAILED BY FATHER

Dictator Fights Spread of Anarchy.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Sept. 12, Thursday (AP).—Release from prison of a number of Iron Guardists convicted of plotting against former King Carol was ordered last night by young King Michael. Observers regarded the move as a further attempt to placate the nationalistic organization which forced the abdication of Michael's father.

Ion Antonescu.

Among the Iron Guardists set free was Col. Precup, condemned to life imprisonment in 1934 on a charge of having planned to kill King Carol's ministers and kidnap the monarch.

Students Also Freed.

Another decree freed a number of students who were imprisoned in 1939 on a charge of having tried to kill an official who headed a court martial that sentenced 60 students.

A third decree released a number of Iron Guardist students imprisoned on charges of complicity in the slaying of the rector at Cluj university.

STRIKES AT 'ANARCHY'

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Sept. 11.—Gen. Ion Antonescu, Rumanian dictator, tonight issued a warning that there are signs of growing anarchy thruout the country and that he will not allow it to continue.

Elements of the Iron Guard are said to be getting out of hand in their desire for vengeance, and there is danger of a split in government ranks.

"I gave back liberty to the people and whoever uses it for anarchy becomes enemy No. 1 of that people," Gen. Antonescu warned, adding that any encouragement of disorder would be punished "with all severity."

Gen. Gabriel Marinescu, former chief of police, caught trying to escape to Jugo-Slavia, has been brought back to Bucharest.

JUGO-SLAVS AND ALBANIANS FIGHT AGAIN ON BORDER

BITOLJ, Jugo-Slavia [At the Albanian frontier], Sept. 11 (AP).—Border clashes between the Jugo-Slav army and Albanian irregulars were officially reported tonight after Defense Minister General Milan Nedic issued an order of the day thanking soldiers for valiant action. He asserted that six Jugo-Slavs had been killed and many injured. Unofficial reports said the skirmishes had been going on since May and that there were many more casualties than those mentioned by the war ministry.

INFANT BOY SMOTHERS IN CRIB.

British Let Six French Warships Pass Gibraltar

CEUTA, Morocco, Sept. 11 (AP).—Three cruisers escorted by three destroyers, all flying the French flag, were reported heading for the Atlantic thru the Strait of Gibraltar today. They were unmolested by British batteries at Gibraltar.

[This raises the possibility that some of the French fleet units escaped from the French naval base at Toulon and are joining the British.]

KILLED BY TRAIN IN WINNETKA.

Mathew Lamport, 37 years old, employed by a textile company at 206 South Market street, was killed yesterday when he fell in front of a North Western steam train at the Elm street crossing in Winnetka. He lived at 2100 North Lincoln parkway, Chicago.

GUNS BREAK UP NAZIS' FIFTH BIG RAID ON LONDON

90 of Invaders' Planes Are Shot Down.

don's defenses were offering what seemed to be an adequate answer to the night flying terror.

Masked Raiders Repulsed.

Twice the German planes approached the city in massed formation ready to deal death and destruction and each time the thunderous barrage, fired with the aid of only a few searchlights, scattered the Germans.

[The technique of air defense of London has been altered, A. G. MacDonell, British writer, reported in a broadcast from London picked up in New York. MacDonell said the change was adopted for "a technical reason." He added that new batteries were in action at different points and that the guns kept up their barrage instead of trying to find the Nazis before aiming at them.]

With a shattering and almost incredible roar the guns spoke at the instant a single plane, or a group of planes, was heard.

It was a clear moonlight night; shells broke into red constellations against the background of the stars.

Rolling Thud of Bombs.

Just before midnight, as the noise of antiaircraft and bomb explosions grew ever higher, the rolling thud of bombs could be heard to the north. A thick barrage hung in the sky in front of seven planes.

There was a shrill whine of a diving plane. A blue light swept across the horizon. There was a vivid splash of light in mid-air; a tearing, rending sound, a fierce whining and a great crash followed by three or four smaller explosions. This noise might have come from a plane bursting apart in the sky.

There was no letup in the antiaircraft barrage; a ton of metal was being thrown into the air every ten minutes.

Showers of Shell Bits.

Occasionally the sharp tinkle of a breaking window pane or skylight was heard above the guns and the bombs.

The tremendous concussion of the antiaircraft guns forced pedestrians still abroad to run for the nearest shelter. Stairway observers in midcity were all but knocked from their feet.

Yesterday was like the others of this tragic week. Three times up to last night the air raid sirens had shrieked their warning that German planes were aloft. British fighters drove them off in three daylight attacks. The raiders came as many as 125 at a time.

Bombs fell in the already sorely hit suburbs; the roar of falling explosives could be heard from the southwest and southeast parts of the city.

Dash to Raid Shelters.

As night came on, thousands of the city's people—men and women and children—went by habit into the air raid shelters, taking their coats, their rugs, their baskets of food, ready for what had come every night in the last four—long, heavy assaults from the skies. Then came the fourth alarm, at 8:36 p. m.—at the late dinner hour, just as on Tuesday night.

Taxicabs broke all traffic rules: They tore thru the dark streets without lights, their drivers anxious only to get home to shelter.

In spite of the unending punishment of this city from the sky, it appeared that London's adults would stay here to see it thru. No plans for their organized removal had been made, it was said officially, and not even the 200,000 school children still remaining here would be sent away unless the demand becomes greater than it has thus far.

Few Casualties Tuesday.

An official communique said "preliminary reports indicate that the raid on Tuesday night was less severe and that the casualties were considerably lighter than on the preceding nights."

It was stated 18 persons were killed and 200 injured.

Warehouses and factories on the Thames waterfront and in the city were set afire, and bombs were scattered in South Wales, the Bristol channel district, and western and eastern England, the communique said.

German planes attacked a convoy off the east Scottish coast last night and early today, but the ships reached their destination.

There were some casualties when the Catholic church in the center of London was hit. The church burned, and only the shell of its outer walls was left standing. The explosion ignited a broken gas main.

Four persons were killed in an adjoining district when a big demolition bomb hit a shelter accommodating 5,000 persons.

Still Dig for Bodies.

The London passenger transport board announced that underground [subway] railway services were almost normal except for one or two short sections. Other transportation services reported operation going ahead on all routes, but that some curtailment and diversions were still necessary.

Alternating between frantic efforts to move tons of masonry and silent listening for the tapping of entombed men and women, demolition squads still probed tonight the ruins of the East London school bombed Monday night. Five hundred had taken shelter there and many of the 400 persons killed Monday night were victims of the school bombing.

Indo-China Bridge Blown Up

Approach Cut Off

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 11 (AP).—A Chinese army spokesman declared tonight that Chinese troops had blown up the international railway bridge on the Chinese-French Indo-China border and "destroyed the line to such an extent as to give the Japanese no avenue of approach" to China.

[Reports from Hanoi, French Indo-China, said Chinese troops dynamited and partly destroyed the Laokay bridge over the Red river on the French Indo-China-Chinese boundary. The French owned and operated Hanoi-Kunming railroad crosses the Laokay bridge. The Japanese have been demanding the use of the railway for an invasion of southwest China from French territory.]

Report Appeals by U. S.

SINGAPORE, The Straits Settlements, Sept. 11 [(AP)].—Travelers from French Indo-China reported today the situation there is most critical and that Gov.-Gen'l. Admiral Jean Decoux has sent three telegrams to President Roosevelt pointing out the seriousness of the Japanese demands.

The Japanese were said to have asked for three huge airdromes in Tongking, free use of a naval base at Cam Ranh bay [Annam], and passage of 60,000 troops thru Tongking.

DIG FOR VICTIMS OF NAZI ATTACK ON DOVER AREA

DOVER, England, Sept. 11 (AP).—Rescue squads of soldiers, sailors, air raid precaution workers, and policemen tonight worked to free an undetermined number of persons trapped in the wreckage of buildings damaged by a German bombardment earlier in the day.

The Germans struck with both shells and bombs in the Dover area.

British planes both of the Royal Air Force and the naval command participated in the action. Shortly after these planes roared across the channel, the German guns on the French coast became silent after hours of intermittent shelling.

Belgian Firm Tries to Cut Wages; 2 Directors to Prison

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 11.—Two managing directors of the Belgian firm of De Clerq & Sobry were sentenced to serve six weeks in a concentration camp and were fined 250,000 Belgian francs [the franc was quoted at about 19 cents last May] for attempting to cut employés wages. It was said that when the reduction was announced the firm had 1,300,000 francs, and the directors had recently drawn 500,000 francs for their personal use.

INVASION VERY NEAR, CHURCHILL WARNS ENGLAND

Tells of Germans' Plans; Pledges a Fight.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 11—Prime Minister Winston Churchill, rallying the nation for what he called one of its most critical periods, tonight warned that the German invasion may come very soon.

Winston Churchill.

"A full scale invasion may be launched at any time now upon England, upon Scotland, or upon Ireland or upon all three," he declared in a radio address.

Says Nazi Plans Well Advanced.

The Germans, the prime minister said, have made elaborate plans for an attack, and these plans are in an advanced state. German occupied channel ports are full of ships waiting to sail against England, he said.

The German air attacks, instead of breaking the British morale, rather have kindled a flame which will guide the nation to the ultimate destruction of Adolf Hitler, Churchill declared.

"When I said in the house of commons the other day that I thought it improbable that the enemy's air attack in September could be more than three times as great as it was in August, I was not, of course, referring to barbarous attacks on the civil population, but to the great air battle which is being fought out between our fighters and the German air force," Churchill asserted.

Claims British Advantage.

"You will understand that whenever the weather is favorable waves of German bombers, protected by fighters, often 300 or 400 at a time, fly over this island, especially the promontory of Kent, in the hope of attacking military and other objectives by daylight.

"This effort of the Germans to secure daylight mastery of the air over England is, of course, the crux of the whole war so far, and it has failed conspicuously.

"There is no doubt that Herr Hitler is using up his fighter force at a very high rate, and that if he goes on many more weeks he will wear down and ruin a vital part of his air force. That will give us a very great advantage.

"On the other hand, for him to try to invade this country without having secured mastery in the air would be a very hazardous undertaking.

"Nevertheless, all his preparations for invasion on a great scale are steadily going forward. Several hundred self-propelled barges are moving down the coast of Europe from the German and Dutch harbors to the ports of northern France, from Dunkirk to Brest and beyond Brest to the French harbors in the Bay of Biscay.

"Besides this, convoys of merchant ships in tens and dozens are being moved thru the straits of Dover into the channel, darting along from port to port under the protection of the new batteries which the Germans have built on the French shore.

"There are now considerable gatherings of shipping in the German, Dutch, Belgian, and French harbors, all the way from Hamburg to Brest.

"Finally, there are some preparations made for ships to carry an invading force from the Norwegian harbors. Behind these clusters of ships or barges there stand very large numbers of German troops awaiting the order to go on board and set out on their very dangerous voyage across the sea.

"We cannot tell when they will try to come. We cannot be sure in fact they will try at all, but no one should blind himself to the fact that a heavy, full scale invasion of this island is being prepared with all of the usual German thoroness and method, and that it may be launched at any time now upon England, upon Scotland, or upon Ireland, or upon all three.

"If this invasion is going to be tried at all, it does not seem that it can be long delayed. The weather may break at any time.

A Very Important Week.

"Therefore we must regard the next week or so as a very important week for us in our history. As great as the days when the Spanish Armada was approaching the channel, and Drake was finishing his game of bowls, or when Nelson stepped between us and Napoleon's grand army at Boulogne.

"We've read about the English in the history books. But what is happening now is on a far greater scale, and of far more consequence to the life and future of the world and its civilization than these brave old days in the past.

"Every man and woman will therefore prepare himself to do his duty, whatever it may be, with special pride and care. Our fleets are very powerful and numerous.

Shores Well Manned.

"Our shores are well fortified and strongly manned, and behind them, ready to attack the invaders, we have a far larger and better equipped mobile army than we have ever had before.

"It is with devout but sure confidence that I say let God defend the right. These cruel, wanton indiscriminate bombings of London are of course a part of Hitler's invasion plan. He hopes by killing large numbers of civilians and women and children that he will terrorize and cow the people of this mighty imperial city and make them a burden and anxiety to the government, and thus distract our attention unduly from the ferocious onslaught he is preparing.

"Little does he know the spirit of the British nation or the tough fiber of the Londoner whose forebears played a leading part in the establishment of parliamentary institutions and who have been bred to value freedom far above their lives.

Famous Island Race.

"This wicked man, the repository and embodiment of many forms of soul-destroying hatred, this monstrous product of former wrongs and shame has now resolved to try to break our famous island race by a process of indiscriminate slaughter and destruction.

"What he has done is to kindle a fire in British hearts here and all over the world which will glow long after all traces of the conflagration he has caused in London have been removed. He has lighted a fire which will burn with a steady and consuming flame until the last vestiges of Nazi tyranny have been burnt out of Europe and until the old world and the new can join hands to rebuild the temples of man's freedom and man's honor upon foundations which will not soon or easily be overthrown.

Says "World Marvels."

"All the world that is still free marvels at the composure and fortitude with which the citizens of London are facing and surmounting the great ordeal to which they are subjected, the end of which or the severity of which cannot yet be foreseen.

"It is a message of good cheer to our fighting forces on the seas, in the air and in our waiting armies in all their posts and stations that we send them from this capital city.

"They know that they have behind them a people who will not flinch or weary of the struggle, hard and protracted tho it will be, but that we shall rather draw from the heart of suffering itself the means of inspiration and survival.

"And of a victory won not only for ourselves but for all; a victory won not only for our time but for the long and better days that are to come."

CANADA REPORTS A RISING FLOOD OF WAR PRODUCTION

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 11 (AP).—Canadian war industries, in which more than $200,000,000 has been spent in an expansion program, are pouring out an increasing flood of the implements of war for Canada and Great Britain, Munitions Minister Charles D. Howe announced today.

Charles D. Howe.

Three converted liners will be added to the Royal Canadian navy this fall as auxiliary cruisers, beginning with the Prince Robert, which has been delivered from the yards, and followed in October by the Prince David and the North Star, Howe said.

These vessels, altered and armed to meet requirements of the navy, will form the largest units in Canada's naval service.

Construction of three large explosives plants in Quebec, Ontario, and Manitoba at a total cost of $38,900,000 is far ahead of schedule, Howe said.

He announced that 80,000 Lee-Enfield rifles purchased recently in the United States have been delivered to Canadian troops.

Bomb Damage in Both London and Berlin Revealed by Pictures—Hunt Bodies of Victims as Casualties Mount

Sit Democratically Amid Workers During Raid.

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP).—Britain's king and queen today democratically took their places alongside humble countrymen in an air raid shelter today when German bombers ripped at London, only a few hours after it had been revealed that the royal residence in London, historic Buckingham palace, had been damaged by a German bomb yesterday.

Daring new bombs in a tour of the damaged sections of the city to cheer up the harried citizens of London, the royal couple paused between a "take cover" signal and the "all clear" in a southeast London air raid shelter.

In the bleak half-light of the cavern they sat on hard wooden chairs in the center of the room, ringed by a company of 30 which included overalled Air Raid Precautions workers smeared with the dust of a shattered courthouse next door, policemen, court officials and white-garbed women of the police canteen.

King Waits for Tea.

The king leaned back, crossed his legs and lit a cigaret. The queen smiled all about and a canteen woman bustled nervously to make tea. The tea was still steeping when "all clear" sounded.

"I'm going to wait for some of that tea," said the king.

"This is delicious," exclaimed the queen. "I should never have thought you could produce tea so soon."

The canteen woman beamed proudly.

"Hitler . . . Can't Get Us Down."

"Hitler can knock our houses down, but he can't get us down," a woman declared to their majesties.

"We think you are all wonderfully brave and we are very proud of you," the queen replied.

All the time they were visiting the scenes of Nazi devastation in London yesterday the royal couple knew a delayed action bomb lay buried near Buckingham palace. When the king returned to the city from Windsor castle on Monday, he discovered the time-fused missile had been dropped in the palace yard on Sunday night.

Only household staff members were at the palace when the bomb exploded, a palace attendant said, and they were in an air raid shelter. There were no casualties from the fall of the missile of the explosion, which dug a crater 15 feet deep and 35 feet wide about 10 paces from the glass enclosed swimming pool of the palace.

About 100 windows of the palace were shattered and outside walls were scarred by flying fragments of masonry. Among windows blown in were those of the king's study and the queen's sitting room. "There was little damage inside," a palace aid said.

WINNING TRIBUNE FASHIONS TO BE SHOWN ON TOUR

Garments made from the winning designs in THE TRIBUNE'S $7,500 American Fashions contest will be shown thruout the central west after their display in the two fashion shows in W-G-N audience studio on Oct. 2.

Thru arrangements made by the W-G-N talent division, 40 original creations, including garments made from the 25 prize winning fashion designs, will be displayed on a tour which will begin Oct. 4. The impressive new styles will be worn by professional models, chosen for their grace and charm, and an authority on fashion, directing the presentation, will interpret the influence of the winning designs on American fashions.

Two Shows Already Booked.

Two bookings were announced yesterday by Noel B. Gerson, director of the talent division. The Chicago Uptown Civic council will sponsor a showing of the garments Oct. 9 in the Aragon ballroom, and the Evansville [Ind.] Printing corporation will sponsor one Oct. 16-18 in the Coliseum in Evansville.

However, tickets still are available for the two brilliant fashion shows in the W-G-N audience studio the afternoon and evening of Oct. 2. The winning designs, which already are being acclaimed as revolutionary in the field of American fashions, will be exhibited for the first times at these shows.

The 40 best designs, selected by a board of fashion experts from the 12,491 sketches submitted in the nation-wide contest, are now being made up into garments. All will be modeled at the two W-G-N shows, with Travis Banton, noted Hollywood designer, as commentator. He will describe the garments for the benefit of a coast to coast radio audience.

Twenty-five Winners to Get Prizes.

Not until after the fashion shows will the winners be known. At this time a cash award of $3,000, 1 of $2,000, 3 of $500, and 20 of $50 each will be made to the 25 designers whose creations have been adjudged best.

Tickets for the afternoon show are $1; for the evening show, $2. Any profits will go to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., for distribution to charitable organizations. All seats are reserved, but applications must be made by mail. They are being filled in the order of receipt. Checks or money orders should be made out to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and mailed to Ticket Manager, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

SAYS LETTERS HINT NAZIS ALREADY HAVE ATTEMPTED INVASION

New York, Sept. 11 (AP).—The New York Sun says letters received by French residents here indicate the Germans already have attempted to land forces in England, with disastrous results.

The letters give few details, but say that the German invading fleet set out from St. Malo with the intention of landing on the west coast of England. One letter, from Paris, was written by a French official acting in liaison with the German army of occupation. It said:

"Paris is full of German officers, who are having a wonderful time. They are only hoping they will be allowed to stay here. Especially they hope and pray that they will not be chosen to participate in another disastrous attempt to debark troops in England."

Italians Say British Fleet Sails East from Gibraltar

BERLIN, Sept. 11 (AP).—The Berlin radio today broadcast a dispatch from Milan, Italy, that a British fleet had sailed into the Mediterranean from Gibraltar. Previously, said the dispatch, which quoted the Italian newspaper Il Corriere della Sera, several British cruisers had steamed from Gibraltar into the Atlantic.

PRESIDENT SAYS LABOR IS STILL SHORT OF GOAL

Visions Day When All Will Have Pensions.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 (AP).—The text of President Roosevelt's address tonight to the teamsters' union convention in Constitution hall here follows:

"Mr. Tobin, members of the convention:

"During the last weeks, in several sections of the east, I have been inspecting the progress of our national defense. I have gone thru navy yards and private yards to watch the building of destroyers, submarines, and aircraft carriers; I have visited aviation units to see our modern fighting planes; I have been in our great gun factories where I have seen the most modern guns of all types, swiftly being molded into shape; I have visited camps where young Americans are receiving training and instruction in the tactics of the warfare of today.

"Thru it all there was the impressive conviction that America is rising to meet the ever-growing need for an adequate physical armed defense of the country.

"Labor Force" Necessary.

"Tonight in a very real sense, I feel as I stand here that I am visiting another type of national defense, equally important in its own way in meeting the needs of the times. Enduring strength to a nation and staying power in an emergency definitely call for an efficient and determined labor force carrying on the processes of industry and trade. And when I speak of a 'labor force' I very definitely include those who toil in their fields as well as those who toil in industry. Teamsters will be the first to assert that farmers labor too.

"It is one of the characteristics of a free and democratic modern nation that it have free and independent labor unions. In country after country in other lands, labor unions have disappeared as the iron hand of the dictator has taken command. Only in free lands have free labor unions survived.

"When union workers can assemble with freedom and independence in conventions like this, it is proof that American democracy has remained unimpaired—and it is symbolic of our determination to keep it free.

Unions Once Un-American.

"Yours is now one of the great international labor unions of America. You can remember, however, other days—days when labor unions were considered almost un-American by some individuals in our land. You can remember when it was rare indeed for an employer even to consider collective bargaining with his workers; when it was the common practice to discharge any worker who joined a union.

"You can remember when employers sought to meet threatened strikes by demanding that their government—federal or state—call out armed troops. You can remember when many large employers resorted to the un-American practice—still unfortunately followed in some sections of the country—of hiring labor spies and setting up private arsenals to ferret out members of a union.

"The cause of labor has traveled forward since those days, over a road beset with difficulties, both from within its membership and from without. Your own organization is an outstanding example of the progress which has been made. By 1933 your membership had dropped to 70,000. Within the last seven years you have grown to a membership of 500,000.

A Principle Becomes Law.

"In those same seven years organized labor as a whole has become stronger in membership, in influence, and in its capacity to serve the interests of the laboring man and woman and of society in general, than at any other time in our history. Much of this progress has been due to the one thing which this administration, from the very beginning, has insisted upon—the assurance to labor of the untrammeled right to organize and to bargain collectively with their employers. That principle has now become firmly imbedded in the law of the land; it must remain as the foundation of industrial relations for all times.

"The principle has the support today not only of organized labor as a whole, but also of hundreds of thousands of decent, practical, forward-looking employers. A decade ago a minority of employers were willing to accept the principle of collective bargaining; today the majority of employers gladly adopt it.

Child Labor Outlawed.

"And with that foundation, the last seven years have seen a series of laws enacted to give to labor a fair share of the good life to which free men and women in a free nation are entitled to as a matter of right.

"Fair minimum wages are being established for workers in industry; decent maximum hours and days of labor have been set, to bring about an American standard of living and recreation; child labor has been outlawed in practically all factories; a system of employment exchanges has been created; machinery has been set up and strengthened and successfully used for the mediation of labor disputes. Over them all has been created a shelter of social security—a foundation upon which is being built protection from the hazards of old age and unemployment.

"The progress of the last seven years has been difficult. It has been beset by obstruction and by bitter propaganda from certain minority groups in the community who had been accustomed for too many years to the exploitation of the great mass of people who worked for them. It was the same type of opposition to which I had become accustomed during my entire public career, dating back to my first election to the senate of the state of New York thirty years ago this autumn, continuing thru my service for nearly eight years as assistant secretary of the navy, and my service during four years as governor of the largest labor employing state in the union.

Recalls 1936 Campaign.

"You will remember that kind of opposition in the campaign of four years ago when certain employers, politicians, and newspapers—all of whom are now active in this campaign—in an effort to mislead and intimidate labor, went to the extent of putting untrue electioneering notices in pay envelopes in order to smash the new social security act and force its repeal by electing its enemies.

"That kind of opposition comes only too often from those who regularly for three years and eight months block labor's welfare, and then for four months loudly proclaim that they are labor's true friends—from those who love the laboring man in November but forget him in January.

"In spite of that opposition the vast majority of our small business men have now become convinced that the gains of labor are the gains of the entire interdependent community, and that the welfare of labor is indispensable to the welfare of all. They know now that their best customer is a satisfied, adequately paid worker with a feeling of security against unemployment and poverty in his old age.

Still Far from Goal.

"We are still, however, quite distant from the objective which we seek—the security and the high standard of living for every man, woman, and child which the resources and man power of America make possible.

"Our advance has been accomplished with patience and deliberation. That is the democratic way; that is the road which leads to lasting results. Here in America we have kept our feet on the ground; our progress has been steady and sure; we have not been misled by illusory promises.

"Events abroad have shown too late the result of the other kind of methods—promises of swift, revolutionary relief; seductive pictures of panaceas; short cuts to prosperity and plenty, pictured as simple and easy—all of these have led to the same cruel disappointment. For these promises people yielded up their liberties and all that made life dear. In exchange they have received only the rationing of their news, the rationing of their religion, the rationing of the clothes upon their backs, and the rationing of the bread upon their tables.

Urges Broader Benefits.

"Our progress must continue to be a steady and deliberate one—we cannot stand still, we cannot slip back. We must look forward to certain definite things in the near future. For example, the benefits of social security should be broadened and extended; unemployment insurance should cover a larger number of workers. Our old age pension system must be improved and extended; the amount of the pension should be increased, and, above all, these pensions must be given in a manner which will respect the dignity of the life of service and labor which our aged citizens have given to the nation.

"It is my hope that soon the United States will have a national system under which no needy man or woman within our borders will lack a minimum old age pension which will provide adequate food, clothing and lodging to the end of the road—without having to go to the poorhouse to get it. And I look forward to a system which, in addition to this bare minimum, will enable those who have faithfully toiled in any occupation to build up additional security for their old age which will allow them to live in comfort and happiness.

People Must Decide.

"The people must decide whether to continue the type of government which has fostered the progress to date, or whether to turn it over to those who by their action, if not always by their word, have shown their fundamental opposition to the main objectives toward which we have worked in the past and to which we are definitely committed for the future.

"There are some who would not only stop now the progress we are making in social and labor legislation, but would even repeal what has been enacted during the last seven years—all on the plea that an adequate national defense requires it. They would seek unlimited hours of labor. They would seek lower wages. They would seek the cancellation of those safeguards for which we have all struggled so long.

"I still believe, however, as I did when I said on May 26 last: 'We must make sure in all that we do that there be no breakdown or cancellation of any of the great social gains which we have made in these past years. . . . There is nothing in our present emergency to justify a retreat from any of our social objectives—conservation of resources, assistance to agriculture, housing, and help to the underprivileged.'

Nation Must Be United.

"Our mighty national defense effort against all present and potential threats cannot be measured alone in terms of mathematical increase in the number of soldiers and sailors, or of guns or tanks or planes. Behind them all must stand a united people whose spiritual and moral strength has not been sapped thru hunger or want or fear or insecurity. The morale of a people is an essential supplement to their guns and planes.

"I am convinced that a breakdown of existing labor and social legislation would weaken rather than increase our efforts for defense. Continuance of them means the preservation of the efficiency of labor. It means the return to work of several millions still unemployed.

The employment of additional workers and the provisions for overtime payments for overtime work will insure adequate working hours at decent wages to do all that is now necessary in physical defense. We will not overlook the lesson learned in Europe in past years.

"At times, internal obstacles to the growth of labor unions have come in those rare instances where the occasional scoundrel has appeared in position of leadership. Labor unions are not the only organizations which have to suffer innocently for the crimes and misdeeds of one or two of their selfish and guilty members. The rule applies to all organizations, to all trades and professions alike.

"I cannot add to the terms of condemnation which your president, my old friend Dan Tobin, included in his report to your convention in which he said:

"' . . . It is indeed pitiful and heartbreaking and seriously depressing to find that amongst our enormous membership, composed of clean men, fathers of families, Americans of the purest type—to find amongst this membership some creatures so bereft of decency and honor as to bring disgrace upon the international union.'

No Room for Racketeers.

"Labor knows that there is no room in the labor movement for the racketeer or the strong arm man. Government is determined to help labor unions clean their house of those few persons who have betrayed them.

"In this great crisis has come proof that organized labor, as well as all other groups of our citizens, is aware of its own responsibilities. I have called on representatives of labor to serve, and have placed them in responsible positions to take part in the defense work of their government. From the very start, representatives of labor, including your own distinguished president, have shared in formulating and administering the program.

"I am particularly glad to be able to say that the A. F. of L., the C. I. O., and the railroad brotherhoods are all loyally coöperating in this effort with the national defense commission and with the army and navy. This coöperation in the task of national defense will, I hope, encourage closer and more friendly relations between these great labor organizations.

"I know that America will never be disappointed in its expectation that labor will always continue to do its share of the job we now face, patriotically and unselfishly.

Each Must Do His Share.

"In our search for national unity as the basis of national defense, it is necessary and it is fair that every human being in the United States contribute his share. This applies both to those who train in the fighting forces and to the forces of workers behind the lines.

"It is equally necessary and fair that every dollar of capital in America also contribute its share. Just so long as we continue to call upon men to train for combat, and for service behind the lines, will we also continue to call upon the industrial plants of the nation for the service which they can give.

"Capital and industry as well as labor and agriculture are responding, and I know will continue to respond.

Principle of Eminent Domain.

"The nation, thru its elected representatives, is now adopting the principle of selective universal training of its young men. On the same principle, no reasonable person can object to giving the government the power to acquire the services of any plant or factory for adequate compensation, if the owner refuses to make its services available to the defense needs of the nation.

"This is nothing new in American life. The principle of eminent domain or eminent use is as old as democratic government itself. It merely permits government to acquire or to use, for a fair and reasonable price, any property which is necessary for its proper functioning.

"The overwhelming majority of our munitions and other defense requirements are now manufactured by private enterprise under private management. We continue that process. It is only in the rare, isolated case that the owner of a plant will refuse to deal with his government in a fair way.

"But if and when such case does arise, the government cannot stand by, helpless in its efforts to arm and defend itself. No business is above its government; and government should be empowered to deal adequately with any business which tries to rise above its government.

War Talk 'Propaganda.'

"In all of these plans for national defense, only those who seek to play upon the fears of the American people discover an attempt to lead us into war. The American people will reject that kind of propaganda of fear, as they have rejected similar types which are 'occasionally' spread at election time. They know that against the raging forces loose in the world the best defense is the strongest preparedness—fighting men and equipment in front, and fighting industry and agriculture behind the lines.

"Weakness in these days is a cordial invitation to attack. That is no longer theory; it is proven fact—proved in the past year.

One Supreme Determination.

"I hate war now more than ever. I have one supreme determination—to do all I can to keep war away from these shores for all time. I stand, with my party, upon the platform adopted in Chicago:

"We will not participate in foreign wars, and we will not send our army, naval, or air forces to fight in foreign lands outside of the Americas, except in case of attack.'

"Let us have an end to the sort of appeasement which seeks to keep us helpless by playing on fear and by indirect sabotage of all the progress we are making. 'Appeasement' is a polite word for misdirected partisanship.

"In our efforts for national defense, fine teamwork has been developed—and you teamsters know what the word 'teamwork' means.

"The continuance of this teamwork, after the present emergency is over, will have consequences of lasting good to the nation as a whole. It will enable us to enjoy an internal security transcending anything heretofore known.

"Ours is a great heritage; we are determined with all our effort and might to keep it intact. The workers in the factories, the farmers on the land, and business men in plants and offices are awake to the perils which threaten America. No selfish interest, no personal ambition, no political campaign can sway the majority will of our people to make America strong—and to keep it free."

HOUSE KEEPS WILLKIE BACKER AS ATTORNEY IN NLRB INVESTIGATION

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 (AP).—The house committee investigating the National Labor Relations board decided today to let Edmund M. Toland continue as its volunteer counsel, after wrangling for an hour on whether it was advisable in view of his enthusiastically voiced support for Wendell L. Willkie for President.

Edmund M. Toland.

Representative Arthur D. Healey [D., Mass.] raised the question whether an inquiry directed by Toland in these circumstances could be impartial and the attorney retorted that his committee services were "no more offered for the cause of Wendell Willkie than they were for the cause of Mahatma Ghandi."

Toland said he had resigned as counsel, but that since the committee's investigation was incomplete, his services still were available without compensation until completion.

DEFEATED DEMOCRAT CANDIDATES RETURN TO THE HARMONY KEY

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 11 [Special].—Defeated Democratic candidates who said harsh things about their luckier opponents in last spring's primary campaign have come back to the harmony key.

Lieut. Gov. John Steele, who broke with Gov. Henry Horner's slate in the primary to run for governor, is now touring downstate areas with the gubernatorial nominee, Harry B. Hershey. He called Hershey "my good friend" at meetings in McLeansboro and Carmi this week, and Hershey asserted Stelle had demonstrated his "truly great qualities as a sportsman."

John C. Martin, nominee for state auditor, declared that his erstwhile opponent, Auditor Edward J. Barrett, is virtually managing his campaign. Hershey and Senator James M. Slattery are leading separate motor caravans on a tour of southern Illinois counties.

HOUSE PASSES NEW NATIONALITY CODE TO ROUT FIFTH COLUMN

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 (AP).—Urged by President Roosevelt to act with as little delay as possible, the house today, by voice vote, passed legislation designed to help rout fifth columnists and prevent alien communists, Nazis and Fascists from becoming United States citizens.

The measure, a proposed new nationality code, now goes to the senate. No opposition was voiced in house debate.

The measure, said Representative Edward H. Rees [R., Kas.], drastically eightens provisions regarding eligibility for naturalization. Explaining the bill to the house, he also said that it would withdraw citizenship from thousands of nominal citizens who have not been in this country in years. It also would take away the citizenship of Americans who serve in the armed forces of another country, or vote in a foreign election.

SEN. LA FOLLETTE HITS SHIP TRADE AS STEP TO WAR

Blasts Weakening of Our Own Defense Lines.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 [Special].—The release of 50 destroyers to Great Britain is a step on the road to war, declared Senator Robert M. LaFollette [Prog., Wis.] tonight in a radio address under auspices of the America First committee, which has headquarters in Chicago.

For long months, he said, interventionists have been using trick phrases like "steps short of war," and America is weakening its own defense strength by sending war materials across the ocean. He urged the election of men to the house and senate who will vote against a foreign overseas war.

"In spite of new phrases cooked up by the best word jugglers in the business," said LaFollette, "we are going, step by step, down the same road we took in 1916 and 1917.

"We must decide whether we are going to war in the old world. Propaganda in the movies, over the radio, in the press and by word of mouth seeks to play upon our emotions. Fear and hysteria are being fomented. Jitters are being cultivated in the hope the people will not be able to think straight.

Reviews Year's Campaign.

"The process of switching the signs on the road to war began a year ago when the people were told that repeal of the arms embargo would make our neutrality more secure, altho the interventionists knew it could have only the opposite result.

"Once the interventionists got the arms embargo repealed, they were not satisfied with opening our munitions markets to the allies. The next step was to turn over arms, ammunition, planes and implements of war from our own army and navy. These included the latest deliverable types of war equipment.

"Their most recent move was the famous destroyer-base lease deal, revealed when the administration generously notified the congress that it had traded 50 American destroyers to Great Britain. We could have had these bases in exchange for the old war debt.

"The hocus-pocus under which American destroyers, equipped with the latest protection devices and armament, become 'obsolete' and 'over-age' should not deceive us. Under this definition, 50 per cent of the combat vessels in the United States navy could be declared 'over-age' and yet we know our navy is our first line of defense.

Predicts Call for Men.

"Unless we stop in our tracks, there will be no end to the policy of taking everything Britain wants and labeling it 'surplus' or 'obsolete.' The next step after over-age destroyers will be middle-aged battleships. Then it will be youngish cruisers. In the end they will be calling for our right-aged sons.

"In this last session of congress alone I have voted for appropriating more than 15 billion dollars for the upbuilding of our national defenses. But all the time we are voting more money to prepare to defend this hemisphere against all comers we are dissipating strength by sending huge quantities of guns, planes, and warships across the ocean. Now the interventionists are demanding that the latest type planes and tanks, our secret bomb sight and other indispensable war materials to be sent abroad.

Rips at Hysteria.

"We must set ourselves to the task of building an impregnable America, with military might, economic security and spiritual well-being. We cannot do these things if we allow ourselves to be whipped and buffeted about by hysteria. We cannot preserve our American freedom by participating in war, because as soon as we do, we will become a dictatorship just like the dictatorships abroad whose destruction would be our announced war objective.

"A subtle, diabolically clever and powerful effort to sneak up on our blind side has been going on for long, weary months. Unless the citizens of America wake up quickly and exert their influence to stop our progress toward war, it will come."

Cosmeticians' Choice

WILMA HALL.

Miss Wilma Hall, operator of a beauty shop at 1748 East 55th street, last night was named the Glamor Girl of 1941, at least so far as the American Cosmeticians' National association is concerned. Experts of that body, in convention in the Hotel Sherman, chose Miss Hall because of the style of her hairdress, her "beauty, charm and carriage." Miss Hall, 24 years old, lives at 5510 Cornell avenue. She is five feet six inches tall, has hazel eyes and black hair.

ARMY FROWNS ON PLAN TO EXTEND R.O.T.C. TRAINING

Not Necessary at This Time, Officers Say.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—The war department feels that expansion of the Reserve Officers Training corps in the public schools and universities of the land is wholly unnecessary at this time, it was officially stated today.

Maj. Frank L. Beals, assistant superintendent of schools at Chicago, said last week that the number of R. O. T. C. enrollees in Chicago's public high schools could be doubled if the war department provided the necessary funds. More than 300 schools thruout the country have applied for R. O. T. C. units for which no funds are available, he noted.

Marshall Explains Stand.

The reasons for denial of additional R. O. T. C. funds were stated by Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, in a recent appearance before a congressional committee considering the army appropriation bill for the present fiscal year. War department spokesmen said today that Gen. Marshall's explanation was now stronger than ever in view of the certainty of passage of the conscription bill.

Gen. Marshall was asked by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. [R., Mass.] why the army did not favor increasing the number of R. O. T. C. units.

Favors Smaller Groups.

"I do not favor it at the present time," Gen. Marshall answered. "The present output of the R. O. T. C. units is far more than enough to augment our total reserve officer strength by about 3,300 a year and still take care of attrition. We only need about 118,000 reserve officers for our M-day requirements.

"As a matter of fact, it would be better in some respects if we had a lesser number because then the training money would go further and general efficiency would improve. The larger the group the less the individual will get in the way of satisfactory training."

PLAN TO HECKLE WILLKIE LEAVES HIM UNDISTURBED

Can Expect Such Tactics, Says G. O. P. Nominee.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rushville, Ind., Sept. 11.—Wendell Willkie is not disturbed, he said today, over reports that the Kelly-Nash Democratic machine plans to slip hecklers into the laboring groups the Republican Presidential nominee will address in Chicago next Friday at the start of his western campaign tour.

Willkie, asked during a press interview late today whether such rumors had reached him, replied that they had.

"They don't disturb me," he added. "I expect the Kelly-Nash machine to do all it can to defeat me by any means. That great statesman, Mayor Edward Kelly, is a principal adviser of the President, along with Boss Flynn." [Edward J. Flynn, chairman of the Democratic National committee].

"I see where Boss Hague [Frank Hague, mayor of Jersey City, N. J.] has ruled out voting machines as unnecessary," the nominee added sarcastically.

Plans Conference with McNary.

These statements were made at Willkie's second press interview of the day. At the first he announced that he will meet his running mate, Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, tomorrow in Indianapolis to plan campaign strategy a few hours before the Willkie special train leaves Rushville for a comprehensive tour of 18 middle western and western states.

Senator McNary will fly to Indianapolis from Washington with Congressman Joseph W. Martin Jr., chairman of the national committee, and Willkie will meet them at the airport, accompanied by Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, the nominee's floor general at the Philadelphia convention.

These four will confer for an hour or so, then McNary and Martin will fly back to the capitol and Willkie will return here to board his train. Citizens are planning a sendoff for him complete with band and fireworks.

Blasts at Third Term.

For a time during his second meeting with reporters today Willkie reversed the usual procedure and acted as interviewer. His subject was Frank E. Gannett, New York state publisher and an unsuccessful contender for the nomination won by Willkie.

After Gannett had termed the third term a major issue and said he hoped it would be accented more and more as the campaign proceeds, Willkie took over.

"Do you know," he began, "of any arguments against a fourth or fifth term that don't exist against a third?"

"None," Gannett replied.

Willkie said it is likely that his speech on the third term will be delivered next Tuesday, Constitution day, in Amarillo, Tex.

Formation of a nonpartisan Colored Citizens Committee for Willkie's Election was announced here tonight by Dean William Pickens of New York, Negro writer and officer of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Among the members are Claude A. Barnett, editor of the Associated Negro Press, Chicago, and Prof. Charles Wesley of Howard university.

"This is not a committee of people who make politics a profession," Dean Pickens said, "but is to consist of citizens and leaders of the American Negro group in various other walks of life who can see that the election of Mr. Willkie is of superimportance for the preservation of American democracy and liberty. The colored American, more than any other American people, need a national administration which will respect their full rights as citizens."

Church Extends Deadline on Annapolis Applications

Congressman Ralph E. Church of the 10th congressional district has extended to midnight tomorrow the time for submission of applications to take the competitive examination for appointment to the United States Naval academy at Annapolis, Md. A bill passed by the house and now before the senate in Washington would increase the maximum age limit for admission to Annapolis from 20 to 21.

SENATOR DENIES FEDERAL PLAN TO RULE INSURANCE

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 11 (AP).—Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.], chairman of the federal monopoly committee, told the American Bar association today there was no move for federal regulation of life insurance companies.

This statement was in reply to an assertion by J. Reuben Clark Jr., a former assistant secretary of state and ambassador to Mexico, that any such regulation would be a "potential threat" to democracy.

Clark, first counsellor of the Church of Latter Day Saints, Salt Lake City, expressed concern at the bar association's 63d annual convention that the government might "take over life insurance as a federal activity."

Neither the monopoly committee nor any affiliated agency, Senator O'Mahoney declared, "has ever recommended or suggested any legislation providing for federal regulation of insurance."

IOWA MAYOR KILLED IN CRASH.

Elkhart, Ia., Sept. 11 [Special].—W. W. Vernon, 46, mayor of Polk City, Ia., and Herschel Lamb, 39, Polk City WPA worker, were killed last night when their auto plunged into a ditch near here.

Dillinger Doctor Jailed; Order Psychiatric Quiz

Dr. Harold B. Cassidy, 38 years old, 4851 North Damen avenue, was taken into custody at his home last night by the Summerdale police who received complaints about him, and sent to the Psychopathic hospital for examination. Dr. Cassidy assisted in an operation that changed the facial features of the notorious outlaw, John Dillinger. After Dillinger's death he was tried for harboring the criminal, convicted and placed on probation. Dr. Cassidy was found guilty last April of driving while intoxicated and was sentenced to ten days in jail.

REPUBLICAN.

What Price Good Neighbor Policy?

BY CARLISLE BARGERON.

(Assigned by Republican National Committee.)

The story of Mr. Roosevelt's good neighbor policy, on the opposite side of the page the other day, was incomplete. For the little drama we are about to relate to you we are mostly indebted to Mr. Marquis W. Childs of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, a Pulitzer prize winner for outstanding newspaper reporting, a noted author and magazine writer. You can also find it in the Congressional Record.

Edwin S. Smith (top) and Senator Joe Guffey.

In 1938 the communist government of Mexico reciprocated the New Deal's "good neighbor policy" by seizing some $400,000,000 worth of American owned oil property. In those days the revolutionary Cardenas government and the New Dealers were as thick as fleas. One of our leading New Dealers, Edwin S. Smith, member of the National Labor Relations board, went down to Mexico City and attended a meeting of the Communist Labor federation. At the meeting they sang the "Internationale," and as our Mr. Smith harangued the delegates the communist flag hung over him. This visit was subsequently returned by Mr. Vincente Toleando, the communist labor chief. The Washington New Dealers were enraptured by him.

Protests on Oil Seizures.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull over a period of several months sent repeated protests about the oil seizures to the Mexican government, but the evidence is convincing that as fast as he did so the New Dealers would tell the Mexican ambassador in Washington not to take the protests seriously.

Then Mr. W. R. Davis, an internationally known oil operator, came into the picture. He arranged to barter the seized oil with Germany. Here our government was helping the Mexican government to remain in power by paying an artificial price for its silver for which we have no use; the Mexican government was seizing the property of American citizens, and another American citizen, in turn, was trading this property to Germany to help it prepare for war. It was a fine state of affairs, indeed.

Gifts to the New Deal.

But this isn't the last of it. Thru Mr. Childs' enterprise it was revealed that Mr. Davis was probably the LARGEST SINGLE CONTRIBUTOR TO THE NEW DEAL CAMPAIGN OF 1936.

It has never been fully developed just exactly how much Mr. Davis gave the New Dealers. He turned over $291,286 to Mr. Walter A. Jones, a Pennsylvania oil operator. Some of it, Mr. Davis has said, went to Mr. Jones as salary, the rest as campaign contributions. Mr. Davis has said that $50,000 went to the Democratic national committee as a loan.

"The remaining funds received by Mr. Jones were used," Mr. Davis has said in a letter which Mr. Childs acquired, "principally in the following manner: About $100,000 for the purpose of paying for radio broadcasts and canned speeches, as I call them; about $75,000 in the state of Pennsylvania alone; the remainder was given to certain senators supporting the administration, whose names I am not privileged to mention, to further their campaigns."

Gets New Deal Approval.

In his story in the Post-Dispatch of April 6 Mr. Childs relates that Mr. Davis had written he had OBTAINED PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S APPROVAL for his German trade plan at a conference at the White House in May, 1936. It was after he obtained this approval, the famous Davis letter said, that he decided to go down the line for the New Deal!

It was a rather ambitious plan for "world trade" which Mr. Davis says he discussed with Mr. Roosevelt. He also says that Mr. Roosevelt never carried out the "promises" he made. Mr. Davis' famous letter disclosed him to be quite bitter about the whole business.

Senator Joe Guffey of Pennsylvania, one of the prime movers in the third term brigade, figured in Mr. Childs' disclosures. It developed that a short while before the oil seizures took place he had taken Mr. Jones down to Mexico City. Joe indignantly denied that he was involved any more than to be of some assistance to his friend Jones. He would do most anything for "Walter Jones," he exclaimed. A few months ago he and Jones were opponents in Pennsylvania's senatorial primary campaign, but just what the setup was in that instance—whether it was a bona fide fight or not—the Pennsylvania political writers can best say, perhaps the Philadelphia Inquirer's John Cummings.

When the oil matter was given an airing on the senate floor Joe screamed that Mr. Childs' story was a "lie." Mr. Childs sued him for $50,000. Subsequently Joe apologized and said the facts contained in the story were "substantially true."

DEMOCRATIC.

(Provided by the Democratic National Committee.)

The Republicans like to describe themselves as the guardians of sound fiscal and economic policies. No "visionary schemes" or "brain trust" philosophies for them. And yet a major factor in bringing on the severe depression of a decade ago was the reckless disregard of sound banking legislation by three successive Republican administrations.

Leo T. Crowley.

The people still have painful memories of the wholesale collapse of banking institutions in the anxious days which preceded President Roosevelt's entrance into the White House early in 1933. Few realize that the gradual breakdown of the savings system had commenced as early as 1922. The record shows that to be a fact, and, as a result, nearly a whole generation of thrifty people were the victims.

The Federal Deposit Insurance corporation has been in existence for more than six years, and during that period it has made an excellent record in stabilizing and safeguarding the nation's banks. In fact, its position today is so strong that no responsible person, in congress or out of it, would dream of calling for its demise.

The Republicans, of course, claim a share of the credit for setting up the corporation. They claim that a Republican senator first introduced the bill. Maybe so. But the Hoover administration declined to pass it and the Republican platform of 1932 spoke of deposit insurance as one of the Democratic "heresies" which the G. O. P. leaders had managed to kill off in the preceding congress. It was a "crackbrained" scheme then. The idea was still prevalent that if the government merely waited out the depression the storm clouds would pass.

When the Banks Were Toppling.

In the four years before President Roosevelt's inauguration there were 6,035 bank suspensions in the United States. The number does not include the 3,413 banks which were unable to open after the banking holiday. The figure 6,035 rolls off the tongue so easily that it is difficult to imagine the toll of suffering and hardship brought on by these failures, most of them in small communities.

Farmers were unable to dig up mortgage payments to stave off foreclosure. Home owners were in the same fix. Small merchants and business men in many instances were deprived of their reserve capital. Buying power was drastically cut.

Since the FDIC was established bank failures have been reduced to an average of 51 a year. And that tells only a part of the story. The depositors are 98 per cent insured against loss, because deposits are insured up to a maximum of $5,000, which covers nearly all accounts.

Assets Highest in History.

The FDIC has also been highly successful in conserving the assets of closed banks, cutting down losses to stockholders. There were only 14 national bank failures in the period between 1934 and 1939.

The 5,184 active national banks had total assets of more than $35,000,000,000 on March 26, 1940, the highest ever reported in the system. Total deposits on the same date reached an all time peak of nearly $32,000,000,000, more than $7,500,000,000 above the figure for 1928. Reserve savings of that size show a strong public faith in the security of the banking system.

[Leo T. Crowley, who has been chairman of the FDIC, recently announced he would give up that post to become an executive of a private company.]

The Securities and Exchange act was another Democratic heresy which had the almost unanimous opposition of the sound finance advocates whose short-sighted policies brought on the stock market collapse.

Safeguards for Investors.

Under their theory of conserving assets the value of listed securities on the "big board" in New York had shrunk to $18,700,000,000 in 1933. The total value is now above $40,000,000,000. No financial system could stand the reckless, and very often crooked, practices which flourished in the gaudy days of the boom market. One holding company purchased securities at $50,000,000 on one day and sold them the next for twice that sum.

The Securities Exchange commission does not guarantee securities or even pass on them. It does, however, insist that the full truth about an issue be made available to the public BEFORE an issue is put on the market for sale. The purpose is to protect investors from palpable fraud.

Since the act went into effect nearly 400 bucket shop operators have been prosecuted and sent to prison.

The public seems to be bearing up under these Democratic heresies fairly well. Stock promoters may resent their loss of personal liberty, but even the Republicans in congress are deaf to their outcries.

THE WORLD TOMORROW.

The British bombed the unused Reichstag building and other public buildings in Berlin. Previously the Germans had dropped a bomb which damaged Buckingham palace. The two nations at increasing tempo are hurrying to pound each other to pieces. The result? Who knows? The battle to decide the fate of Europe is just warming up. It is what we have come to call total war. It spares no one. It might reduce Europe to a wilderness of destitution for a generation. Presently even peace will be only a lesser calamity.

In the world of tomorrow the United States may be the one reservoir in which western civilization has retained the essentials of recovery. That is a possibility. It is not a certainty. It is not a certainty if the country remains in the hands of the persons who now control it. Capt. Corpening's story in Tuesday's TRIBUNE of what happened to the French army, which he rates lowest in the world's military forces, confirms many other reports of the destruction of French morale. This was shockingly different from the morale of the France of 1914-'18. Plainly the Popular Front government disintegrated the character of the French people just as Roosevelt's popular front has been doing here for nearly eight years.

If we are not to rot the way the French rotted we must get rid of the New Deal in November.

ALASKA TO PANAMA.

Pork barrel artists are never slow about dressing up their projects to suit current popular interest and it is, therefore, not surprising that various members of congress should be pressing a number of political turnpikes with the plea that they are essential to national defense.

Generally speaking, our existing highway system is adequate to defense needs. Where there are real deficiencies they can be met by proper use of current federal and state road building appropriations. No new appropriations are needed within the continental United States. Where we do need highway building for defense purposes is across our own borders, to provide land routes to our vital outposts in Alaska and Panama.

In its pleas for a defensive alliance with Canada THE TRIBUNE has already pointed out the value which both nations would derive from a modern military highway across British Columbia to Alaska, where American air and naval bases protect western Canada as well as our own Pacific coast against incursions from the orient. The construction of that highway should be one of the first matters taken up by the Canadian-American defense commission.

Supply and reinforcement of our Alaskan garrisons now depend upon the long and tedious steamship trip thru the coastal sounds and fjords of British Columbia and southern Alaska. The route is open to attack in the absence of our fleet in other waters. Construction of an inland highway is a feasible project on which much preliminary work has already been done. Sheltered behind the northern continuation of the Coast range, it would be safe from attack from the sea.

Of this highway of nearly 2,000 miles the province of British Columbia has already constructed some 830 miles as far north as Hazelton, B. C. Most of this road would have to be rebuilt, however, to carry heavy traffic. North of Hazelton some 1,100 miles of wholly new construction would have to be done.

The construction job is difficult, but no more so than many that American highway engineers have already done. It would require a sizable expenditure of money, from $15,000,000 to $50,000,000, according to different estimates, but would be well worth it for defense alone. There would be a large collateral value in opening Alaska to motor tourists and in providing a land route for freight shipments to inland Canadian and Alaskan points.

With proper maintenance there is no reason why the route could not be made an all-season one. The valleys it traverses do not have exceptionally heavy snowfalls, most of the moisture being abstracted from the prevailing winds before they cross the coastal mountains. Snowfall, according to those familiar with the project, rarely exceeds 30 inches, a fall which the highway departments of our middle western states frequently handle without difficulty.

The present season is too late for construction, but arrangements can and should be made this winter to start work next spring. British Columbia has suggested that the United States finance the road in return for free passage for its armed forces thru Canada, and that the province maintain it. This does not seem unreasonable, particularly if we are allowed to use American labor on the project.

The proposals for an international highway thru Panama to South America are even older than those for the Alaskan highway, but with the exception of recently opened highways to Mexico City, which now extend a short distance south of there, it exists only on paper. The safety of the canal now depends on the navy. It would be rendered doubly safe if it were possible to rush troops overland in an emergency.

One of the most ill considered of Mr. Roosevelt's so-called defense schemes is his proposal for a $500,000,000 subsidy to South American nations. For a tenth of that sum the Panama highway could be extended thru southern Mexico and the Central American republics. Such an expenditure, if we got in return treaties for passage of our military forces, would pay valuable dividends in defense, which is more than can be said of the South American subsidies.

THOMAS JEFFERSON AND LOUISIANA.

Mr. Roosevelt modestly presented his destroyer-island deal to the country as the greatest accomplishment of its kind since the Louisiana purchase. Tammany Ed Flynn and some of his other hatchet men have picked up the song and elaborated it. Their purpose is to portray the founder of the Democratic party and the great opponent of the third term as pursuing an unconstitutional course in the Louisiana purchase comparable to that of the President in the destroyer deal.

"In the matter of the Louisiana purchase," claims Tammany Ed, "Jefferson effected the deal for the Louisiana purchase and later informed congress about the accomplished fact. This is identical with the method pursued by President Roosevelt in the destroyer trade."

The methods were not identical, nor did President Jefferson's actions parallel in any important respect those of President Roosevelt. Jefferson negotiated the treaty for the purchase, submitted it to the senate for ratification, and the senate ratified it. The house also approved the purchase by its authorization of the stock paid for the territory.

Jefferson thus followed the constitution faithfully in negotiating a treaty, as was his undoubted power, and in then submitting the treaty to the senate for ratification. He did not inform congress of an accomplished fact. What he did was not valid until the senate ratified it, and this fact he recognized.

His doubts as to the constitutionality of his action were entirely separate from the procedure he followed. As a strict constructionist, he doubted the power of the government, thru any of its branches, to acquire additional territory in the absence of explicit permission to do so in the constitution. He considered proposing a constitutional amendment to enable the United States to extend its territories, but was persuaded by his followers that the treaty making power vested in the President and the senate included the power of adding territory to the Union.

Mr. Roosevelt, in arranging for the lease of the bases, made a treaty, whether he is willing to call it so or not. He did not submit it to the senate for ratification. He arranged for a payment in kind, the destroyers, and did not ask the approval of the house of representatives, in which all appropriations must originate. Mr. Roosevelt wasn't following Jefferson's footsteps, but those of Napoleon, who sold Louisiana in violation of both the French constitution and the treaty with Spain by which he had acquired his claim to it.

Tammany Ed will do well to confine his promotion of the third term dictatorship to matters with which he is familiar, such as political machines and alliances with gangsters, and leave historical parallels to some one who has read a book.

DEMOCRATS AGAINST THIRD TERM.

Ten of the most respected and learned lawyers in Chicago, Democrats all of them, have published a pamphlet in which they announce their opposition to the third term. It would have been easy for these men to say nothing in this campaign, vote for Willkie on election day, and let it go at that. Only a strong sense of their responsibility as citizens could have prompted them to announce publicly their private convictions.

Four of the 10, William Tracy Alden, John D. Black, Tappan Gregory, and Carl R. Latham have served with distinction as presidents of the Chicago Bar association. Another, Floyd R. Thompson, was elected and reëlected on the Democratic ticket to the Illinois Supreme court and became its chief justice. He left the bench in 1928 to accept the Democratic nomination for the governorship of Illinois. Still another who has always been active and influential in the party is Francis X. Busch, who was Mayor Dever's corporation counsel. Julius F. Smietanka held the important position of collector of internal revenue in a Democratic administration. The others, Alexander Reichmann, Harry B. Sutter, and Henry F. Tenney have also been loyal Democrats.

This is no ordinary list of names. If any one had set himself the task of making a slate of 10 Democratic lawyers in Chicago who command wide respect as lawyers and as Democrats most of these names would have been included, of necessity. The 10 men had nothing to gain from making their declaration public; if any of them have political ambitions, they have done themselves a great injury by their act.

Nevertheless, they have taken their stand and taken it publicly. It is not to be expected that the views they have expressed will influence the army of Democratic pay rollers supported by federal, state, and local taxpayers, but the declaration of principle which these 10 men have signed will be read with close attention by many hundreds of Democrats whose votes are not for sale.

Editorial of the Day

NO MORE WELSBACHS.

[New York Herald Tribune.]

News that the Welsbach company of Gloucester City, N. J., has gone out of business is surprising not because the making of gas lights has become outmoded but because the company was able to hold on for so long. The Welsbach mantles, once used for lighting in millions of homes and public places thruout the world, were the visible symbols of the "gas light era." They supplied the illumination for the Gay Nineties, when the police wore helmets, when the rich had champagne and lobster suppers, when baseball players wore mustaches, and when life moved with a quaint ponderosity. The odd part of the whole Welsbach story is that the gadget was foredoomed to extinction when it was invented in 1884 by Carl Auer, Freiherr von Welsbach, an Austrian; for our own Thomas A. Edison, five years earlier, had demonstrated the electric light. And it was not until 1890 that Auer learned the trick of making his mantles give off a white light. Electricity was slow in catching on—relatively speaking, that is—and the Welsbach boomed until it had spread over the globe wherever gas could be obtained. The story is ended now. The Welsbach mantle is a relic, a reminder of grandfather's heyday, which means nothing at all to the new generation.

The Nazi philosophy, that one man should do the thinking for all, is the ideal system—provided the one man is an all-wise god.—Akron Beacon Journal.

REMEMBER JACK BINNS?

S O S is not the original radio signal of distress for ships at sea. We knew that, but we couldn't remember what the old call was, altho it was slanged about for several years just as S O S is now. We wandered around the Tribune's editorial floor, asking miscellaneous journalists and telegraph operators, but they all insisted that we were wrong.

So we checked up on Jack Binns, the original radio hero, who flashed his call from the sinking S. S. Republic on Jan. 23, 1909, and later became the central character of a play entitled "Via Wireless." The signal was C Q D, standing for "Come quick; disaster." But the files nearly misled us, for THE TRIBUNE's report scrambled the letters into C D Q which might be taken to signify, "Come damned quick."

The London cockney changes many long "a" sounds into "i" ["I s'y," etc.], but the highbrows around the Oxford region gargle "i" sounds into long "a" ["refained" for "refined"]. The English humorous weekly Punch often kids the Oxford dialect.

But how did it happen that when we said "How much?" to a clerk in a chain store in Waterloo, Ia., the young lady, meaning a dime, answered, "A daime"?

RAVINIA IN SEPTEMBER.

To vacant chairs and empty lawn
An orchestra tonight plays on,
Plays endlessly a theme so old
That David heard it from the fold
Before he went to play for Saul,
And Priam from the city wall
Could hear it as he walked alone
Before the pillage of his throne.

This is the symphony of grass,
Of locusts and of years that pass,
The throbbing beat of summer ending,
Harvest coming, orchards bending:
Now the counterpoint of crickets,
Now the tree-toads from the thickets;
And at length in mournful note
The doleful owl. The phrases float
Across the park but no one listens;
Stars are out; the wet grass glistens;
Season's ended, laughter's gone,
But still an orchestra plays on,
And on, and on, and on. . . .

Geoff.

Niles Center, Please Note.

A number of engaging ideas are advanced on the meaning of the word "Skokie" [Sept. 6]. That it is of Indian origin is undisputed altho its tribal parentage is vague, and a definite decision has not been made between the two translations, "swampy" and "red land."

The Foxes called themselves a variety of names, musquaka, miskokie, miskokig, miskwakig, to quote a few, all of which mean red land people. Misko is for red and aki for land. A Franciscan monk, Father Chrysostom Verwyst, O. F. M., who was a missionary among the Chippewas for 50 or 60 years, backs this theory. He wrote, "The Mi in Miskokie is short and apt to be overheard or not noticed by whites as is often the case, so the word would sound to them as Skokie instead of Miskokie."

The other school of thought insists upon "swamp." The Handbook of American Indians gives the word muskoki, an Algonquin term, as meaning low, wet land; muskeg is the Chippewa word for marsh; W. H. Stennett called skokie a Potawatami word for shaking, trembling, or quaking land, which might be construed as indicating a marshy region.

My favorite solution of the problem is that advanced by Robert Kennicott in an article printed in the Illinois State Agricultural Society Transactions, 1856-'57, volume 2, page 681. This authority on Indian languages gave the meaning of "wabskokee" as a wet prairie. Our only regret is that still another syllable was lost along the trail and that Niles Center will not bear the charming and significant name Che-wabskokee, "big, wet prairie." C. G. F.

SUCCESS STORY.

(With profuse apologies to Leigh Hunt.)

I made the Line today, I did!
'Most knocked me down before I sat down!
Life, you brute, who love to kid
Us would-be poet-gals, mark that down!
Say I'm lonesome, say I'm sad,
Say love and wealth will never be mine,
Say this isn't poetry—but add:
I made the Line!

Summer Still Is Queen.

Piles of leaves burning at the curb, boys kicking footballs, and tranquil hazes in the air denote approaching fall. However, in too eager anticipation of autumn, we are likely to forget the fact that Queen Summer will reign until Sept. 21. Often, the last days of her rule are the best.

Her scepter is the full blown goldenrod; her robes the glow of morning and evening skies; her realm the harvest fields and bending orchards. In Chicagoland she holds court with royal glory on the lake where sailboats bow in homage to her and cloud shadows move with special dignity. Summer still reigns! Pay tribute to her now, and thus store up happy memories against the coming conquest of the cold! Newcomer.

CHAULMOOGRA OIL AND DIATHERMY IN ARTHRITIS.

THE employment of heat for the relief of pain has been the recourse of physicians for centuries. The reason is clear. We need to bring more fresh blood to the aching region and we can do so readily by raising the temperature. The plan provides a sort of flushing with generous quantities of fresh nutritive material, at the same time supplying healing agents—more white cells—for the attack upon bacteria. Primitive peoples utilized warmed rocks to create steam, and the sweat baths of our Finnish friends constitute a survival of this practice. Today we have hot water bottles and electric pads. But none of these devices affords much penetration. In other words, the rise of the thermometer is blocked by the skin, which acts as an insulator.

In consequence, diathermy—a high frequency current of high voltage—has been resorted to. In this way the temperature of internal tissues can be elevated with excellent results.

But is this a panacea for all forms of arthritis? The answer is definitely "No." In the atrophic type blood vessels are absent. Therefore, the joint cannot withstand the sudden heating process. In fact, symptoms will increase decidedly. If electricity is of value in these cases it is the steady galvanic current which is quieting and hence will ease distress.

In a recent report E. J. Burnett cites certain examples of hypertrophic [not atrophic] arthritis which were greatly benefited. One of the victims was barely able to get about thru the use of canes. He had lost much weight, altho his heart and arteries were in good condition. Considerable enlargement of the knuckles of both hands was observed and the surrounding parts were swollen and tender. Motion was limited in all directions. When the arms were moved at the shoulders, cracking sounds were heard. The knees were the worst, with extreme overgrowth of bone around the "hinges." Definite signs of disease were found along the entire length of the spinal column.

Because of the peculiarly favorable effect of chaulmoogra oil on some of these sufferers, this drug was administered and diathermy was used over most of the thickened portions of the involved sites. The treatments were given daily, moving from one affected area to another until each was taken care of not less than once every five days. Within 60 days the patient was free from all discomfort and stated that he desired to return to work. He was able to bend forward and touch the floor with his fingertips. All signs of "popping" had ceased and there was no tenderness on pressure.

There seems to be some reason to believe that the oil plus the electrical heat brought about this improvement, altho no single factor designed to raise resistance was omitted. These included high caloric, high vitamin diets, massage, and at least 10 hours of sleep every night. Search for infection disclosed pus laden tonsils—which were removed. No other bacterial focus was located.

We may look upon this management as worth while in selected cases. The malady in general causes so much disability that physicians must be alert to every possible aid. In no other condition are we confronted with such stubborn resistance and every potential remedy must be investigated thoroly.

TO PEEL OR NOT TO PEEL.

C. D. writes: My friend claims that fruits should be peeled in order to prevent infection. I claim they should not, as the skin contains most of the vitamins. Who is right?

REPLY.

Both. The least we can do is to wash all such edibles. But fruits—like people—are not all alike. Apple skin, if thoroly chewed, is of value. Peaches, however, should be pared as the outer covering contains a substance to which many persons are sensitive and to which they will react. Many persons are fond of potato skins. They apparently need the minerals which are provided.

A FOOTLOOSE KIDNEY.

S. V. writes: Is it possible to have a floating kidney for years without being aware of it?

REPLY.

Yes. Perhaps it does not wander any great distance. In fact, this organ is not held snugly in place—particularly when one loses weight. Unless there is some interference with the outflow of urine, a displacement may not be of great importance.

PREGNANCY AND ANEMIA.

A. R. writes: Is it safe for an anemic woman to have children?

REPLY.

Why not remedy the anemia? If your blood cannot be built practically to normal, I would advise against it.

Test Your Facts

Below each of the following questions are listed three answers. Make your choice, turn to page 33 in the Want Ad section for the correct answers and mark your score:

1. How long is the time from new moon to new moon?

A YOUNG DOCTOR'S PROBLEM.

Chicago, Sept. 9.—Being a native born citizen and subject to the draft, it was my privilege to fill out a questionnaire offering my services when called. When that day comes it will be necessary for me to turn the key in my office door, step out of my sole means of building for the future, and serve my country as best I can.

Now, what have our government and the American Medical association done to make firm our place in our communities when we return? They have allowed refugee doctors to come into this country by the hundreds. Will they enlist or be drafted? O, no, they are aliens and will only be registered and fingerprinted and permitted to stand as big "Vienna specialists," and when we poor boobs get back we have nothing but a dusty office and a stack of bills to be paid.

My case is by no means unique; it applies to all men who have their own business and are subject to the draft. The price of patriotism, it seems to me, is a bit costly, when such a situation is allowed to get started with no protection for a true American when he returns, so my answer to "Can America Be Invaded?", is that the invasion is well on its way. M. D.

WALNUTS: HELP YOURSELF.

J. S. V.

Chicago, Sept. 10.—Regarding the inquiry of Gus Hoffman in the Voice: There is an abundance of black walnuts on the highways between Beloit and Orfordville, Wis. Also on the highway between Orfordville and Janesville. There is also a fine group of good hearted farmers in that vicinity who will, I am sure, allow you the use of the southern top of one of their corncribs to dry them on—providing, of course, that you shuck them yourself, and wear the brown stain on your fingers all winter. KVALE.

ADVICE TO A "LITTLE GUY."

Chicago, Sept. 9.—H. S. Porter in the Voice of the People tells about the "troubles of the little guy." He will find as many small men holding down office jobs as big men; in fact, personnel men say that generally large men do not fit into office jobs. Many office managers prefer small and medium sized men.

Small men are not a rarity; there are as many small men as large men. What Mr. Porter is suffering from is a case of inferiority complex. He should take up jiu-jitsu. I think it would do wonders for him in the way of building up his faith in himself. I myself am a graduate of Jiu-Jitsu institute and I know whereof I speak.

Don't forget, Mr. Porter, that no one thinks any more of you than you do of yourself. ROBERT W. CARTER.

POWER OVER UNION FUNDS.

Chicago, Sept. 9.—The late Matthew Taylor's experiences with gangdom should convince union members that no one man, or no small group of men, should be given the power to control the union's funds. This power should be in the hands of the membership alone, and then no one from without or from within can walk away with the union's funds. No gangster would tell 3,500 elevator operators to kick in, or else, and no crooked union official would steal that which he could not touch.

Crooked union officials who have access to the union's funds will continue to use them for their own personal benefit, and gangsters will continue to muscle in so long as the present loophole is open. When the state puts the union's purse in the hands of the membership, there will be effective protection against it. We cannot tell gangsters to be good gangsters. Neither can we tell crooked union officials to be good. We can disarm them so that they cannot be otherwise.

THE TRIBUNE could do much to carry the idea into state legislation.

OUR BURIED STOCK OF GOLD.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 12.—Twelve hundred soldiers stopped overnight in Champaign last week en route to Fort Knox, Ky., to guard our 21 billion dollars' worth of gold holdings—70 per cent of all the yellow metal in the world.

Miners all over the world are paid to dig the element from the bowels of the earth, then it is buried here, and heavy cordons of soldiers guard the graveyard at heavy expense to the taxpayer.

A constructive suggestion. The writer has just returned from a brief vacation trip which included some of Canada and Mexico. Why cannot the law be changed so that bona fide travelers in the ordinary course of travel carry gold with them to a reasonable maximum amount and thus stimulate the movement of the metal, and then our plethora of gold would justify itself as a medium of international exchange. FORNEY WINGARD.

Chicago, Sept. 10.—Germany had three kaisers in 1888: William I., Frederick IV., William II. of the world war.

Great Britain had three kings in 1936: George V., Edward VIII. [abdicated], George VI. of the present.

The United States had three Presidents in 1841, in 32 days: Van Buren, William Henry Harrison, Tyler.

Also for the second time, in 1881: Hayes, Garfield [assassinated], Arthur.

ABOUT MARATHON RACES.

Chicago, Sept. 10.—Much has been published in your column about marathon racing at some of our Chicago horse tracks.

The Anti-Cruelty society has had many letters and telephone calls concerning these races, complaining against the practice of racing horses to the point of exhaustion. Our board of control agrees with the basic thought in these complaints. We have had agents witness a couple of these races in order to gather evidence that might be used to rectify the conditions.

The people can do much to help rectify such conditions by letting the state racing commission, as well as the operators of the tracks, know in no uncertain terms that they do not approve of such races. The average horse at our tracks today is trained for short races. They are not in condition to sprint four miles. Present indications are that these marathons turn out to be sprints which, of course, overtax the horse long before the finish line.

If the people will express their views they will help the animal protective forces materially in their efforts to accomplish some needed corrections.

CAMPAIGN IN PULPITS.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 9.—In many churches yesterday a proclamation from the President was read from pulpits. It urged that the day be set aside as a day of prayer for this great democracy.

The President has done more than any man or set of men in history to ruin this democracy, and to make this request six weeks before election seems an insult to the intelligence of the American people. It is probably the only time a Presidential proclamation, with the exception of the Thanksgiving proclamation, has ever been read in our churches. If this political skullduggery is allowed to go on we will soon be having the "Fireside Chats" relayed thru our pulpits.

It is time the thinking people of this country made an analysis of this situation with which we are confronted, and unless we can get this colossal egotist and his trained baboons out of Washington this fall the song will be "God Help America," not "God Bless America."

1. If by this you mean that an Indiana lawyer was associated with him, then we would not see anything even technically irregular.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Sept. 12, 1918

Americans under Pershing smashed at the salient of St. Mihiel, which had been held by the Germans since September, 1914. A feint at Belfort had led the Germans to underestimate the seriousness of the St. Mihiel drive. After four hours of artillery fire the attack was carried out with a comparatively small loss of men. All objectives were reached by the afternoon of the next day, and 16,000 prisoners were taken.

ASHURST BLAMES HIS DEFEAT ON 'WASHINGTONITIS'

Lost in the 'Cosmic Realm of Statesmanship.'

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—The defeat of Senator Henry F. Ashurst of Arizona, a veteran of 28 years' service, in yesterday's Democratic primary was regarded by his colleagues as a political phenomenon that defied explanation.

Some New Dealers attributed Ashhurst's defeat to his vote against the administration's peace time conscription bill, which his opponent, Judge Ernest W. McFarland, supported. The senate noninterventionists, however, refuted this claim, pointing out that Ashurst supported the administration's foreign policy in all other respects and that such noninterventionist foes of conscription as Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan and Senator Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota were renominated overwhelmingly in Republican primaries yesterday.

Fifth to Lose This Year.

Ashurst was the fifth member of the senate to be defeated in this year's primaries. The others were Senator Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.], an anti-New Dealer on domestic issues but a supporter of the administration's interventionist foreign policy and coauthor of the conscription bill; Senator Rush D. Holt [D., W. Va.], an anti-New Dealer on both domestic and foreign policies; Senator Lynn J. Frazier of North Dakota, a noninterventionist radical Republican, and Senator William H. King [D., Utah], who, like Senator Burke, has supported the administration on foreign but not on domestic issues.

Senator Ashurst said he knew he was destined for retirement from public life long before conscription became an issue. He attributed his defeat to "Washingtonitis."

"I am an old man and I have been here too long," he said. [He will be 66 on Friday.] "I became too much preoccupied with the cosmic realms of statesmanship and did not give enough attention to patronage matters. The people felt that I was too big a man in my own estimation for Arizona."

Introduced Court Bill.

Courtly and urbane, with a gift of turning cynical epigrams, Ashurst is one of the most popular members of the senate despite his support of many New Deal measures for which he had no more stomach than the outspoken anti-New Dealers. An avowed apostle of inconsistency, he introduced President Roosevelt's bill to pack the Supreme court in 1937 a few days after he had delivered a pompous address condemning all proposals to usurp the power of the judiciary, whether directly or by "indirection, circumlocution, tergiversation, and periphrasis."

Yet as chairman of the judiciary committee, Senator Ashurst was credited with doing as much as any other member of the senate to kill the court packing bill, which he introduced. While constantly giving it lip service, he said he courted "hesitation, neglect, and delay," and prolonged the hearings until the country was sufficiently aroused to insure defeat of the scheme.

Ask Reduction of School Zone Limit on Cigaret Sale

An amendment to the city's cigaret ordinance to permit the sale of cigarets up to 100 feet from school and church properties was recommended to the city council yesterday by the license committee. The present limit is 300 feet. Ald. Thomas P. Keane [31st], chairman, of the committee, said the change would make the ordinance conform with the limits of the tavern ordinance, which permits taverns up to 100 feet from schools and churches.

NAME CHICAGOAN TO KLAUS POST IN RACE NEWS WAR

James Lewis, assistant to United States Attorney William J. Campbell, has been appointed successor to Samuel Klaus, special assistant attorney general, as director of the federal government's drive against racing information services, it was learned yesterday.

Klaus was a special prosecutor loaned by Attorney General Robert H. Jackson to prepare indictments against Moses L. Annenberg and his associates on charges of evading income taxes and violating the federal lottery laws. He returned to Washington last week to resume his duties there.

At the time he was transferred Klaus was presenting evidence to a federal grand jury which is investigating the "bootleg" racing news services that sprang up after Annenberg pleaded guilty to an income tax indictment and dissolved his news agencies. Lewis is expected to continue this work and to prosecute two indictments returned last August. These accuse Charles W. Bidwill, head of Bentley, Murray & Co., Inc., a printing concern, and James M. Ragen Sr., general manager of the defunct Nationwide News Service, Inc., with violations of the lottery laws in disseminating racing information to handbooks.

STICKNEY GETS 4 YEARS TO PAY BOND HOLDERS

The village of Stickney will have four years to collect a tax levy of $34,000 to satisfy holders of delinquent bonds according to an agreement announced yesterday by Joseph Lustfield, village attorney, and Thomas Mason, attorney for Donald Denison of Detroit, Mich., a bond holder.

The agreement was announced after Attorney Mason withdrew his motion to vacate an order entered by Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward last July approving the distribution of the levy over a period of four years. The bondholders previously had sought to compel the village to raise the fund in one year.

Most of the bonds were issued for general obligations. Neither interest nor principal has been paid on them.

From FLIGHT 1 to FLIGHT 47,844

AT DAWN, September 8, 1920, the first coast-to-coast air mail flight took off from New York with post-office sponsorship. The small, single-engined plane had few instruments. Its pilot had no communication with the ground. And he flew only during daylight. Three days later Flight 1 reached San Francisco.

Twenty years later—September 8, 1940—United Air Lines' famous "Continental" took off from La Guardia Field, New York, at 5:30 p. m., and flew to California overnight, following the same route from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The big Mainliner sleeper, scheduled on coast-to-coast Flight 47,844, was manned by a crew of two pilots and a stewardess. At their disposal was every modern airplane and airway facility. The accommodations for its passengers were luxurious. Next morning, at 7:40 a. m., they stepped out in San Francisco after a restful night's sleep. Their fare was less than $150—compared with the $400 charged the first transcontinental passengers.

Thus, this month, United's Main Line Airway marks its Twentieth Anniversary. Flight 47,844 reflects the great pioneering of the U. S. Post Office Department, followed by the engineering progress achieved during United Air Lines' world record experience of 175,000,000 miles of flying.

United's Main Line Airway parallels the Old Overland Trail, historic route of the explorers of the West, the covered wagon, the stage coach, the Pony Express, the first transcontinental railroad, telegraph and highway. On this original cross-continent airway were developed most of the outstanding service features of airline travel, as well as the important scientific achievements that make possible modern airline service.

For twenty years this airway has ranked as the world's busiest long distance air route. Today, great fleets of Mainliners span its length overnight, to provide you swift, dependable, economical air transportation between the most important cities of the East, the Middle West and the entire Pacific Coast.

United Air Lines Nation-wide System, over which United has flown 175,000,000 miles, is today a vital link in the national defense program

AWED TAXPAYER SEES BOOM TOWN OF BUROCRATS

Washington—a Monster of His Own Creation!

[This is the fourth of a series of articles by Philip Kinsley describing a cross-country bus trip and telling what the average man who rides the buses of America thinks and says about the approaching election.]

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 [Special].—Washington presents a bewildering spectacle of beauty and extravagance to the average bus tripper, who is herded with his kind thru miles of marble halls and given glimpses of a life which bears little resemblance to anything he has known in his home town. He is proud and a little frightened at the excesses of democracy, the tremendous, top-heavy city of burocrats that has grown from such simple beginnings.

It is hard to realize that he is a part owner, thru his taxes, in all this magnificence.

Washington, he is told, is the greatest boom city in the country. It may not be a healthy sign of the times that while other cities have lost or stood still in population the national capital has leaped ahead. It now has 665,000 inhabitants, and will have a million, visitors are told, as soon as the national defense program gets under way.

And 50,000 New Clerks.

Two hundred millions spent in new buildings, 50,000 new clerks, and the sound of the builders' hammers heard on every side. And nothing under it all but the money of the common people, the little people who flock to it every day by the thousands to visit its various shrines.

Pa and Ma from Marion county, Michigan, are a bit overwhelmed by it all and Ma's feet hurt long before the tour is done. She is a fat and comfortable woman who wears a white net over her gray hair instead of a hat. Pa strips down to his suspenders, for it is hot. His shoulders are stooped with work and his hands hard and rough. They have been on a visit to their daughter in New York, who is married and his children, and now want to see the capitol before going home.

Pass Dolly Madison Home.

Once in the bus they are given a glimpse of the White House, where the flag is flying, showing that the President is in residence.

"But that does not mean his wife," says the guide.

They go by the old home of Dolly Madison, now the Cosmos club, and sold, they are told, for $1,000,000 to the government for a new office.

They come to another large block of buildings. This was built, they are told, by a man who borrowed money from the RFC and then leased the building to the RFC.

Still another big apartment building is being torn down, bought for $3,000,000 by the government to make way for another office.

They pass along the Avenue of Presidents and Embassy Row, and another great apartment building, with 1,200 apartments, owned, it is said, by Queen Wilhelmina. The former kaiser of Germany is also said to be a heavy owner of Washington property.

First Touch of Democracy.

They pass by great hotels, the Wardman Park, where the candidate for vice president lives, the new Shoreham, the Mayflower, which has on its walls a picture of the Pilgrim Fathers' compact, the first touch of democracy in the new world, but which bears no other resemblance to those days.

But Washington itself seems to bear no resemblance to the state of mind during the struggle for independence, when congress adopted a resolution declaring that "we will, in our several stations, encourage frugality, economy, and industry, promote agriculture and the arts and manufactures of this country, and will discountenance and discourage every species of extravagance and dissipation."

Pa says that the farmers out his way are getting tired of Roosevelt and that he, himself, is going to vote for Willkie.

"But maybe they will come in for Roosevelt at the last," he says.

They are taken to the capitol and shown the old part of the building where the British soldiers went when they burned it in 1814. They see the 3 story red brick building which housed the first postoffice, and wonder at the transformation. It takes a guide to get thru a building now. Everything is guided by bells. Life is like a prison.

An Army of Clock Watchers.

The clerks are like an army, an army that watches the clock and is ready to dash for the door at 4:30 in the afternoon. Visitors move from point to point by bells. Legislators come in to vote at the sound of a bell. They voted away five billion dollars the other day, Pa is told, in 45 minutes, at the sound of a bell.

Pa shakes his head at this and many other things.

"I don't like this third term business," he says. "And I don't like the way they are lining up WPA fellows in my country, just like they did before."

For Willkie—But Doubtful.

A lawyer from California on the bus feels the same way about it. Also he is against the President because of his court packing tactics, altho he voted for him twice.

Three other Californians are of similar voting mind, for various reasons, yet they all doubt that Willkie can carry California. A couple from Tennessee feel the same way. They are for Willkie but do not see how he can carry the state.

"The Crump machine will steal the votes necessary," says a Memphis man.

So it runs thru this group. The only Roosevelt man is a cook-steward, who has come to town to get a job in a federal prison and who is going to see his senator about it and bear down on him.

The town is filled with carpetbaggers of today, lawyers and lobbyists, with brief cases and secret conferences.

Hotel lobbies and bar rooms are filled with delegations seeking something from Washington. The talk is of influence, of "seeing" somebody. The proximity to the Atlantic seaboard makes for a strong consciousness of European developments, just as the Pacific coast is always exercised about the Japanese menace. The national capitol really should have been in the Middle West, somewhere near where Pa and Ma live, and then, perhaps, the constant pressure, the preoccupation with England, would not be so strong. Or perhaps Ma and Pa are wrong, and the whole liberal, religious, independent tradition is going out of the window for some sort of impersonal monster of government that Washington seems in danger of becoming.

Pa's solution is for a decentralization, even now. He would move agriculture away from its marble palace out near the actual soil. He would move commerce out where commerce is practiced. He would get away from this whispering gallery of intrigue and unreality, from the sense of government, all fear of government. But he may be out-dated.

Signs as Volunteer

Mrs. Edward Willkie of La Grange, sister-in-law of Republican candidate, with Werner Schroeder, Illinois national committeeman, when she signed yesterday as member of Republican Volunteers.

A Willkie enrolled to work for Willkie yesterday. She is Mrs. Edward E. Willkie of La Grange, sister-in-law of Wendell L. Willkie, Republican nominee for President. She offered her services through the Illinois Republican Coördinating committee, 69 West Washington street, for which she will organize a woman's division. Her husband has obtained leave of absence from his position as vice president of Libby, McNeil & Libby to campaign with Willkie. "This will be the most effective thing I can do," Mrs. Willkie said. "It surely should keep me busy."

'WILLKIE MEANS WHAT HE SAYS,' SO FORD IS FOR HIM

'Competent for the Job,' Says Auto Maker.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 11 (AP).—Henry Ford formally indorsed Wendell L. Willkie today, declaring: "I am completely satisfied that he means to do exactly what he says and is competent to do it without evasion or excuse."

Henry Ford.

In a written statement Ford spoke of the Republican Presidential nominee as a "business man who understands what this country needs first and needs most."

The automobile manufacturer visited Willkie at Rushville, Ind., Monday but waited until he returned to Detroit to make public his statement.

Measures Up to His Words.

"I had never met Mr. Willkie until last Monday," Ford said, "and I called on him at Rushville to see if the man himself measures up to his words.

"I was strongly attracted toward Mr. Willkie by what he said in his acceptance speech about his disapproval of all forms of intolerance, for I believe in helping oppressed peoples.

"Mr. Willkie believes there is no room in America for class discrimination and I am certain that he will be a great influence for real national unity.

Knows What Country Needs.

"Mr. Willkie is a businessman and understands what this country needs first and needs most. The economic question is paramount: it is the basis of defense, prosperity, and everything else. Until the country gets back to work and earns good wages it is not in a position to do anything properly. Mr. Willkie has had practical business experience and knows this."

CHURCH GROUPS PROTEST BAN ON ANTI-NAZI FILM

Representatives of church groups and the Civil Liberties committee called at Mayor Kelly's office yesterday to protest the ban on "Pastor Hall," an anti-Nazi film based on the story of the Rev. Martin Niemoeller, whom the Nazis have imprisoned. The film was banned by the police censorship board, headed by Lieut. Harry Costello. Many of the board's former decisions have been reversed after protests.

The protesting delegation included Dr. James M. Yard, executive secretary of the Chicago Council of Jews and Christians; Neil Hansen, representing the Chicago Congregational union; Frank D. Finlay of the Chicago Church Federation, and Ira Latimer, executive secretary of the Civil Liberties committee.

Finlay said the group was "alarmed" at the prospect that the banning of films might lead to restriction of religious liberties. Their protest will be given to Mayor Kelly when he returns to the city.

500 Celebrate Opening of Chicago-Savanna Road

Sycamore, Ill., Sept. 11 [Special].—Five hundred persons in motor caravans from Chicago and Savanna, Carroll county, came here today to celebrate the opening of Illinois route 64, from Chicago to Savanna. The event was sponsored by the West and Fox Valley area councils of the Chicago Motor club and the Sycamore Chamber of Commerce. Charles M. Hayes, motor club president, congratulated the state on its excellent roads. Charles P. Casey, director of public works and buildings in Illinois, pledged continuance of good road building and thanked the people of the state for their coöperation.

I STOLE BALLOTS, SAYS WITNESS IN VOTE FRAUD CASE

Confesses to Clear Wife and Daughter.

The trial of five officials of the 19th precinct of the 29th ward for alleged vote frauds in the last mayoral election turned into a little family party yesterday in County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki's courtroom.

Earl Gray, an employé of the board of appeals, who is the Democratic precinct captain, was called as a witness by Special Prosecutor John Cashen. Gray, who lives at 3849 Arthington street, refused to testify on the ground that to do so might incriminate him. His wife, Catherine, who served as a Republican judge, and his daughter Helen, a Democratic judge, are among the defendants.

Judge Orders Him Seized.

Judge Jarecki promptly ordered Gray taken into custody, saying: "I'm tired of people putting other people on the spot. Here is a man putting his wife and daughter on the spot by refusing to testify."

Mrs. Gray leaped to her feet and cried out: "My husband's testimony won't put me on the spot."

Gray then was recalled and decided to talk.

Tells of Ballot Thefts.

After explaining that his confession was being made to clear his wife and daughter, Gray said that on election day he and another precinct captain stole 30 voters' applications and filled them out with registered names. Then, he said, they stole 30 ballots.

After marking the ballots, Gray said, they contrived, to slip eight of them into the ballot box while the judges and clerks had their backs turned. They destroyed the other 22 ballots, he said. Gray was held by the state's attorney's office.

The others on trial are Melvin Weiss, 26, of 3809 Polk street, Republican judge; John Antonelli, 27, of 919 South Springfield avenue, Democratic judge, and George Jacobs, 28, of 3811 Polk street, Republican clerk.

Courtroom Scenes

(Story in adjoining column.)

Earl Gray, whose refusal to testify in the trial caused judge to remark that his action was putting wife and daughter "on spot." The wife denied her husband's testimony would injure her case. He then returned and admitted part in fraudulent voting.

JURY IN MURDER TRIAL HEARS HOW RUSSELL ESCAPED

The flight of Jack Russell, Oklahoma outlaw, which led to the kidnap-murder of William Scott Hamilton, Kansas flour salesman, was described to a jury of seven women and five men yesterday in the federal District court of Judge Charles E. Woodward, where Russell is on trial for the slaying for the second time.

William H. Riddle, a guard at the Oklahoma prison at McAlester, Okla., where Russell was serving a term for robbery, told of taking the defendant into town to visit an oculist on July 11, 1939, the day he escaped. Riddle left his gun in a drawer in a hotel room, and Russell, seizing it, bound him and fled.

Robert E. Brown, 73 years old, a McAlester photographer, told of being forced to drive Russell to Pittsburg, Kas. It was there that Russell stopped Hamilton and made him drive to Ringwood, in McHenry county, where the salesman was slain. After the slaying Russell went to Kenosha, Wis., where he forced another motorist, Bud Egholm, 24, to drive him back to Elgin. Egholm and Champ Turner, owner of a filling station at Cass, Ark., where Russell was captured, also were witnesses.

Russell was sentenced to death in his first trial last Nov. 22, but won a new trial because improper evidence was permitted to reach the jury.

IDA M. TARBELL, LINCOLN WRITER, BACKS WILLKIE

New York, Sept. 11 [Special]. — The Republican national committee made public today a letter from Ida M. Tarbell, noted biographer of Abraham Lincoln, announcing her support of Wendell L. Willkie for President. Miss Tarbell said:

"I voted twice for Mr. Roosevelt, but from the beginning I have feared that the methods of Mr. Roosevelt were in danger of defeating his ends. He is not a sound administrator, too much of an improvisor, too little patience. He wants to do it all by himself.

"One of the advantages of our constitution is that it enables us to use men of different kinds of talents. As I see it, we need a change of administering what is valuable in the New Deal. All that is good in Mr. Roosevelt's program stands a better chance of final realization thru Mr. Willkie's handling than thru Mr. Roosevelt's.

REP. ALLEN SEES WILLKIE SWEEP IN FOUR STATES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—A November election sweep for Wendell L. Willkie in Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, and Iowa was predicted by Representative Leo E. Allen of Illinois, Republican regional director for the four states, in a report today to National Committee Chairman Joseph W. Martin Jr.

Representative Allen.

"I have made a thoro check and recheck with newspaper men, members of congress and numerous others in the four states," reported Allen, "and there is no doubt but that Willkie will sweep all of them in November. The sentiment thruout the country is entirely different from 1936. The rank and file of the people are enthusiastic over Willkie.

"My district in Illinois is always Republican but this year it will give Willkie 10,000 more votes than has been given any other Republican candidate in the last 12 years."

Representative Allen represents the 13th district composed of six counties in the northwestern corner of Illinois. His home is in Galena.

NEW DEAL CRITIC TALMADGE IS FAR AHEAD IN GEORGIA

Dickinson, Vandenberg Win in Michigan.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Incomplete returns from Georgia's Democratic primary last night indicated victory for Eugene Talmadge, one time critic of the Roosevelt administration, in his bid for a third term as governor.

In popular votes he assumed a lead of better than 2 to 1 over Columbus Roberts, his nearest opponent, and the returns indicated that his margin under the state's system of county unit voting would be even larger.

There are 410 unit votes divided among Georgia's 159 counties, smallest counties having two, largest six. Each county's unit votes go to the candidate polling a popular vote plurality in that county and to win the gubernatorial nomination one man must gain a clear majority of the unit votes. If none gets the required 206, the two high men meet in a run off October 2. Simple unit vote pluralities decide statehouse races. Talmadge apparently had 322 units.

Arizona Governor Loses.

Highlights of Tuesday's primaries were:

ARIZONA—Gov. Bob Jones, seeking renomination on the Democratic ticket, was defeated by Sidney P. Osborn, Phoenix publisher. Senator Henry F. Ashurst was defeated by Judge Ernest W. McFarland.

MICHIGAN—Republican Gov. Luren D. Dickinson won renomination for governor. Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, was the Democratic choice. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg's senatorial opponent will be Frank Fitzgerald, Detroit Democrat.

MINNESOTA—Gov. Harold Stassen, Republican, was renominated for governor. His opponents will be former Gov. Hjalmar Petersen, Farmer-Laborite, and probably Ed Murphy, St. Paul attorney, who was leading the Democratic contest. Republican Senator Henrik Shipstead's opponents will be John E. Regan, Democrat, and former Senator Elmer A. Benson, Farmer-Laborite.

Jones' Candidates Win.

LOUISIANA—Candidates indorsed by Gov. Sam H. Jones appeared to have ousted five of the state's eight Democratic representatives in Congress. Another did not seek reëlection. Two others face run-offs.

VERMONT—Gov. George D. Aiken named to succeed the late Senator Gibson on the Democratic ticket.

NEW HAMPSHIRE—Dr. Robert O. Blood defeated James C. Farner for Republican nomination for governor by a narrow margin. Farner said he would ask a recount.

WASHINGTON—Former Senator Clarence E. Dill won the Democratic nomination for governor, defeating the incumbent, Clarence D. Martin. Mayor Arthur B. Langlie of Seattle won the Republican nomination. Rep. Monrad Wallgren [Dem.] will oppose Stephen F. Chadwick [Rep.], past national commander of the American Legion, for United States senator.

'Cause Unknown,' Verdict in Air Crash Killing 25

Leesburg, Va., Sept. 11 (AP).—The death of 25 persons in an air liner crash here Aug. 31 was attributed to "accident, cause unknown," today by Dr. John A. Gibson, Loudoun county coroner, after an inquest at which 18 witnesses were heard. The witnesses testified that the Pennsylvania-Central Airlines ship fell during a heavy rainstorm and intense lightning display. It was the nation's worst commercial aviation accident.

GRANDMOTHER OF 19 DIES AT CAPRON.

Capron, Ill., Sept. 11 [Special].—Mrs. Minnie McMullin, 70 years old, died in a Belvidere hospital yesterday. She was born in Ireland. Five daughters, 3 sons, 19 grandchildren ,and 2 great-grandchildren survive.

20,000 TO RALLY AT REPUBLICAN FROLIC SUNDAY

Barrington Is Scene of Huge Barbecue.

More than 20,000 persons are expected to attend an old-fashioned barbecue Sunday afternoon in Barrington sponsored by Republicans of Cook, Lake, and McHenry counties. The rally will be held in North Side park on Northwest highway. Free barbecued meats and coffee will be served to every one. Prizes and entertainment are part of the program.

Speakers will include Dwight H. Green, candidate for governor; Wayland Brooks, candidate for senator, and Judge Oscar F. Nelson, candidate for state's attorney. The celebration is sponsored by the Cuba Township [Lake county] Republican club, with Mrs. Henry T. Roberts of Barrington in charge of arrangements. It has grown to such proportions that it is now a tricounty affair. Special effort is being made to get an attendance of farmers and industrial workers. Republican headquarters expect it to be the largest event of its kind ever held in this part of the country.

Many Contests Planned.

There will be races, contests between eight softball teams, horseshoe, egg throwing, rolling pin pitching contests, and prizes for the oldest Republican and the oldest Willkie Democrat. Farm boys and girls in the 4-H clubs are to compete for a prize as healthiest boy and girl.

The winners are to be given Willkie crowns by Green and for the day will have the title Lord and Lady Barrington. There will be old style barn dancing. As a gate prize Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, of the Pomeroy farms, which specializes in prize winning Berkshires, have given a blue ribbon $1,500 sow. Republicans and Democrats are invited.

Named Indiana Aid.

Western headquarters of the Republican national committee yesterday announced the appointment of State Senator Albert Ferris of Milton, Ind., as farm field man for Indiana. He will work in conjunction with the Republican state headquarters at Indianapolis.

Oren Root Jr., of New York, head of the Associated Willkie clubs, will be in Chicago today to meet midwest club chairmen. Minnesota, Illinois, Nebraska, Iowa, Wisconsin, Missouri, Michigan, Indiana, and Ohio will be represented. The meeting will start at 11 o'clock in the Blackstone hotel.

FISH EXPECTS U. S. TO ENTER WAR IF ROOSEVELT WINS

Flora, Ill., Sept. 11 (AP).—Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.] made the prediction at a Republican rally at the Clay county fair here today that "if President Roosevelt is reelected this country will be in war within 60 days."

Listing reasons why he will vote for Wendell Willkie, Republican Presidential nominee, Fish asserted in an address condemning the foreign policy of the present administration:

"Above all, I shall vote for Willkie because I am convinced that President Roosevelt is surrounded by interventionists who are determined to involve the United States in foreign wars and because President Roosevelt, by his provocative and inflammatory attacks upon foreign nations, has created a war hysteria that is leading us directly down the path to war."

TAX FRAUD CASE OF ANNENBERG AIDS NEAR JURY

The case of five associates of M. L. Annenberg and the Consensus Publishing company of St. Louis, Mo., charged with conspiring to defraud the government of nearly $80,000 in income taxes for the years 1933 thru 1936, will be placed in the hands of a jury today in the federal court of Judge Walter C. Lindley.

Judge Lindley refused yesterday to grant a motion for a directed verdict of not guilty, but remarked outside the presence of the jury that he did not consider the government had developed a strong case, altho he felt it should go to the jury. Encouraged by this statement, defense attorneys announced that they would submit no testimony, so final arguments were started at once.

Austin Hall, assistant United States attorney, said in his statement to the jury that payment of the Consensus company's entire income in the form of commissions to three defendants and Annenberg's holding company was a device to reduce income tax. Defendants are William L. Molasky; James M. Ragen Sr.; his son, James Jr.; Arnold W. Kruse; his son, Lester, and the Consensus company.

BARRETT TELLS EFFORT TO DRIVE OUT VOTE FRAUDS

An honest count on election day is the most important problem in Illinois, George F. Barrett, Republican candidate for attorney general, said last night in a radio address.

"Election thefts in Cook county have, in several instances, changed the result for all of Illinois. This year I organized the Illinois volunteer committee to stop vote frauds. Our efforts have won the commendation of national leaders.

Calls Johnson the "Big Boy."

Cobb referred to Johnson as the "highest authority," "the big boy," and the "chief" of the gambling houses. He asserted that slot machines were fixed to return 90 per cent of the take to the house. He told of heavy gamblers he had known. He remembered a patron "who carried the name of some big official of our state of Illinois." He identified William R. Skidmore, who was dismissed as a defendant in the present case, as a job getter. All this he told on his word of honor and he added, "Honor is my religion and my word is my honor."

Johnson's purported statements about carrying political followers on his pay roll were first brought out by Earle C. Hurley, an assistant United States attorney. Under Hurley's questioning Cobb identified the political leaders as Courtney, Nash, Toman, and Arvey, and quoted Johnson as saying, "I don't see why they pick on me."

On cross-examination later by Floyd E. Thompson, defense attorney, Cobb omitted Arvey's name and substituted Kelly's name.

Recalls Talk of Politics.

Cobb had testified earlier that he usually worked five nights a week, and suddenly and been cut to two. Accompanied he said, by Clem Graver, a former Municipal court bailiff, he called upon Johnson and asked for additional employment. Johnson, Cobb said, restored him to a five day basis. Then, Cobb said, Johnson and Graver talked politics.

Q.—[By Attorney Thompson.] What was it Johnson said when he was talking to Graver in front of you?

A.—He said, "It is all right. I took care of him [Cobb]." Then he says, "But I am not a politician by profession." He says, "I am running gambling houses." He says, "I do not see why I have to take care of Courtney's men, Kelly's men, Nash's men, Toman's men,"—and he mentioned a few other gentlemen.

Q.—Johnson said right out in this gambling house that he was taking care of Courtney's men, did he? A.—He didn't say it right out in the gambling house. He told it to me and to Clem Graver. We were talking quietly.

Q.—He just said it in ordinary conversation, "I am taking care of Courtney's men, Toman's men, Kelly's men, and Nash's men"? A.—Yes, he says to me, "Pat Nash's men."

Q.—Did he name any others? A.—Yes.

Q.—Who else? A.—Brody.

Q.—Who is Brody? A.—I didn't know at that time. I do now. He is a committeeman, I think, on the northwest side. [Ald. Brody of the 39th ward is also committeeman of that ward.]

Q.—Who else did he mention? A.—Sonnenschein.

Q.—Who else? A.—Must I remember everything that happened with me from the day I was born? I mentioned enough names . . . but he [Johnson] mentioned more.

He Consults His Notes.

Q.—Sure. A.—[After consulting memorandum.]—Gill.

Q.—Who else? A.—Horan. [A Johnny Horan, now dead, was named as a job getter by a witness Tuesday. Dennis Horan, a member of the Sanitary district board, is a brother of Johnny Horan.]

Q.—All right, who else? A.—And he said "Some of these gentlemen from the county commissioners' office."

Tells of Getting His Job.

Cobb testified that he first obtained a job as a shill thru Skidmore, who reputedly is Johnson's gambling partner. That was in 1934. His friend, Graver, took him to Skidmore, he said. [Later Graver denied this, as well as the alleged meeting with Johnson]. Skidmore, Cobb said, wrote a note on a small card stating, "Jimmy, put this man [to work] as a shill." Cobb said he saw James Hartigan, another defendant in the trial, at the Horseshoe, a gambling house, that night, and was given a job as a shill.

"I found out," Cobb testified, "that a shill is the lowest thing I ever heard of in my life. It was a misery to me."

Cobb said he worked at the job against his own dignity. He had once been worth $35,000 and his son and daughter were university graduates, as was another member of his family, a former judge, he testified.

Slot Machine Job Described.

An even worse job was one he had as a change keeper at the slot machines, Cobb asserted. In some houses there were as many as 25 machines. The odds were 9 to 1 against the player, he said. The machines were adjusted, he asserted, by service men from the Mills Novelty company. One woman player played $14 before hitting the jackpot, and received a return of only $3, he testified.

Cobb testified that he worked at various gambling houses, among them the Horseshoe, the Dev-Lin inn, the Lincoln tavern, the House of Niles, the Harlem Stables, and the Casino club. He said he worked only one night at the Casino club, and he remembered seeing "a few gentlemen there." He was asked to name them.

"Well," he replied, "Mr. — carried the name of some big official of our state of Illinois. I am trying to think of his name. We had a lieutenant governor by that name in the past."

Cobb said his employment terminated suddenly in April, 1939, when Jack Sommers, one of the defendants in the case, fired him on suspicion of stealing quarters from a dice table.

Other Ex-Employés Testify.

O'Leary told of working as a shill after spending about three weeks in a shill school. There were six classes a week. Student shills were taught to handle chips and instructed in the fine art of playing dice.

Brenner said he, too, went to school, but he was taught the duties of a dealer, the man who watches the chips on a dice table and sees that bets are not mixed.

Kudesh told of working alternately on political jobs and in gambling houses. His sponsor, he asserted, was his alderman, whom he named as Brody. Brody, he said, introduced him to Johnson at the Harlem Stables in 1937, and a job as a shill resulted.

Later, Kudesh said, he worked as a "ferryman," taking patrons by automobile from one gambling place to another. In between gambling jobs, he said, he worked in the city water pipe extension department, in the county assessor's office, and for the park district.

"Did Hy Brody get you all these jobs?" asked Attorney Thompson.

"Yes, sir," replied Kudesh.

"Who is this Hy Brody?" the lawyer next asked.

"My alderman and ward committeeman," was the reply.

Mrs. Sarah Marciniak and son, Kenneth.

Casimir Marciniak, 20 years old, 127 South Whipple street, appearing before Judge Rudolph Desort in the Superior court, testified yesterday that he was forced into a shotgun marriage last Feb. 27 with Sarah Carrano, 18. Marciniak, who was asking an annulment, said that her father conducted them to Valparaiso, Ind., at the point of a gun. Judge Desort suggested that Attorney Samuel Starr, representing Mrs. Marciniak, amend her cross-bill for separate maintenance to one of divorce. Mrs. Marciniak was awarded $5 a week support for a child born last June 23.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

STATE GETS TALE OF ROMANO LINK WITH NITTI GANG

Terror Charges Probed by Gen. Keehn.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

A story linking Louis Romano, president of the Bartenders and Beverage Dispensers' union, local 278, with the Nitti and Scalise labor racketeer groups, was given yesterday by Don Seager, former business agent of the union, to the state's attorney's office.

Louis Romano.

Meanwhile other complaints against Romano and his followers were being investigated by Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, receiver for the union, who was appointed by Circuit Judge Robert Jerome Dunne.

Seager told his story first to Keehn, who sent him to State's Attorney Courtney's office to repeat it.

Tells of Force-out.

Seager told Keehn his resignation from the union job was forced because he was a partisan of George B. McLane, the elected business representative of the union who brought the court action against Romano which resulted in the appointment of Keehn. He said Romano told a couple of his henchmen, "Take this so-and-so out and make him resign."

"While I was a business agent of the bartenders' union Romano assigned me to get signatures to a petition seeking the ouster of Matt Taylor as president of the elevator operators' union," Seager said.

The signatures were needed by George Scalise, the international president who was then seeking to put Thomas J. Burke in Taylor's job as boss of the union, it was explained. Scalise, a pander, is now on trial in New York City charged with looting the union treasury. Burke is under inquiry here because of charges made by Taylor prior to his death last Friday.

"When I found out I was being used to help Scalise against Taylor I refused to solicit any more signatures," Seager said. "I at first thought the contemplated action was legitimate so I asked several elevator operators to sign. When I told Romano I wouldn't give the Scalise group any more help he told me he would force me out of our union. He did so later."

Seager also gave Keehn a statement tending to confirm the sworn charge of McLane that Romano had once been a bodyguard for Al Capone, the boss gangster who was succeeded in Chicago by Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti.

"Once Romano wanted me to take $5,000 in cash to the Criminal court to put up as bail for some friend of his who was indicted," Seager said. "I told him I wouldn't carry the money out there alone as I was afraid I would be robbed. So he went with me.

"On the way out he boasted to me, 'None of these hoods would dare rob me; you know I used to be Capone's bodyguard.'"

Forwards Other Complaints.

Other complaints that Gen. Keehn forwarded to the state's attorney's office for possible grand jury action concerned the slugging of William Classon, owner of a tavern at 1308 East 47th street, and the discharge of Edward J. Dore, who resided at the Stockyards Inn, and who had been a bartender at the Club Rhumba, 61st street and Cottage Grove avenue.

Classon told Keehn he was in the Club Rhumba June 11 and there encountered Walter [Whitey] Bergan, a business agent of the bartenders' union and one of Romano's followers. He said Bergan was accompanied by three men and demanded to know if he favored the McLane or the Romano faction.

"I told him I was a tavern keeper and not interested in which faction obtained control of the union," Classon stated. "He told me I would have to line up with Romano or get hurt. After a few threats I asked the protection of the owner of the place and he said he would keep Bergan and the others there long enough for me to make a safe exit.

Relates Slugging.

"But before I had gone a half block Bergan and his friends caught up to me and slugged me. I was in the hospital for a long time as a result of my injuries. Bergan was arrested at the time and after several court continuances he was freed by Judge Mason Sullivan one day when I was not present."

Capt. Eugene Barry of the Woodlawn station said yesterday police records showed that Bergan and Francis Wiggins, 6100 Evans avenue, were arrested June 11 on complaint of Classon. Bergan's address was given as 3133 South Union street. Capt. Barry said the charge against them was disorderly conduct and the records showed the case was on the court call for June 14, July 2, July 16, and that it was dismissed July 23.

The complaint to Gen. Keehn from Dore concerned both Business Agent Bergan and the Club Rhumba. Dore said he was approached by Bergan June 7 and asked if he had signed a petition to the circuit court at McLane's request. He said he had.

"Bergan then threatened me with a beating but I told him he couldn't do it." Dore stated. "He then went to Edward McCormick, my employer. That night McCormick told me I was laid off. He said after things cooled down he might be able to rehire me."

Yesterday Judge Dunne allowed Gen. Keehn a drawing account of $1,200 per month for his services as receiver for the union. Keehn's attorney, C. J. McGuire, was allowed $400.

Order Taylor's Body Exhumed in Probe of Union Rule by Gang

A new turn was given yesterday to the investigation of the alleged looting of the treasury of the Chicago Elevator Operators' and Starters' union. State's Attorney Russell W. Keeney of Du Page county announced that the body of Mathew Taylor would be exhumed. Taylor, president of the union, died last Friday after asserting that gangsters had forced him to pay $30,000 as the price of "a few more months of life."

Henry Biehl.

In a petition for authorization of a post mortem examination, which was granted by Circuit Judge Win G. Knoch at Wheaton, Keeney related he had knowledge that "Taylor might have met his death thru poison or violence." Last night he said there was no definite evidence to this effect, but that he intended to be sure Taylor's death actually was due to natural causes.

Buried Near Bensenville.

The labor leader died, supposedly of tuberculosis and diabetes, in a Naperville sanitarium and was buried in the Mount Emblem cemetery near Bensenville. His disclosures of gang troubles were made to State's Attorney Courtney and his first assistant, Wilbert F. Crowley, in the sanitarium. Keeney was not certain when the body would be exhumed.

In Cook county the grand jury and the state's attorney's investigators continued their efforts to get at the real truth of the Taylor charges of gang rule in the elevator union. They were particularly active in looking into his allegations that his payments to "the mob" were made thru Thomas J. Burke, vice president of the Building Service Employés' International union. The international is overlord of the elevator local.

During the day the grand jury quizzed four members of the local's executive board. It was said these men—Albert Matha, Edward W. Hanson, A. J. Rooney, and Earl Strom—testified they remembered nothing about a resolution they ostensibly adopted authorizing a $10,800 payment by Taylor to Burke. They were reported to have asserted they were only "rubber stamp" officials operating under Taylor's dictatorship.

Robert Marcus, treasurer of the elevator union, said he knew of no payments made from the treasury by Taylor to Burke. He did say that Taylor once cashed a $5,000 check and told him he was going to meet Burke in a downtown club.

Unusual efforts were made yesterday to find Kenneth Ashley, missing bookkeeper for the international organization. Ashley is wanted in New York as a witness in the trial of George Scalise, recently ousted president of the Building Service Employes' International union who is charged with stealing union funds. The Cook county grand jury thinks Ashley might be able to shed light on the Taylor charges.

From Frank Joy, 633 South East avenue, Oak Park, an accountant and the father-in-law of Ashley, and from Ray Pratscher, 1112 Wenonah avenue, Oak Park, a friend of the missing man, it was learned that Ashley and his wife were in East Dubuque, Ia., on Labor day.

Seek Woman Beneficiary.

The grand jury also wants to question Mrs. Lena Jacobs, an aunt of Robert Marcus. Marcus said she was a constant companion of Taylor and was often introduced by the former union chief as "Mrs. Taylor." She was named heir to half the Taylor estate in a will filed yesterday, Mrs. Taylor being the other beneficiary.

Henry Biehl, a former business agent of the Taylor union, was reported to have told the grand jury that envelopes sent weekly by Taylor to the office of Burke contained his [Biehl's] salary. This was corroborated by other witnesses. Burke has denied ever receiving any money from Taylor.

READ CONFESSION OF CHILD MURDER IN PORTER'S TRIAL

The state rested yesterday in the trial of Robert Schroeder, 26 years old, charged with the murder last July 17 of Maizie Smith, 8, after Judge Julius H. Miner of the Criminal court had admitted Schroeder's confession into evidence. The body of the child, who had been beaten with a faucet and furnace shaker, was hidden behind a boiler in a basement at 2850 North Central avenue where Schroeder was employed as a porter in a tavern.

Lieut. William Hanrahan and Detectives Walter Scully and Ray Venn told how suspicion was directed to Schroeder after the lieutenant noticed blood on his trousers leg. When more blood was found on his body, the policemen said, Schroeder told them he wanted to make the confession. Harold Smith of 2913 North Parkside avenue, father of the girl, told how Schroeder for several hours prior to his confession had pretended to help search for her.

When defense evidence is submitted to the jury of six men and six women today, Schroeder is expected to testify.

Freed in Robbery Charge; Find Witness Mistaken

Assistant State's Attorney Alexander Napoli disclosed yesterday that a charge of robbery had been dismissed in Felony court against Alfred Liesenfelt, 560 State Line street, Calumet City, a former employé of Brink's Express company. Witnesses who had identified Liesenfelt in the $4,724 robbery of a filling station at 10408 Indianapolis boulevard Sept. 3 were found to have been mistaken. The actual robbers have been arrested and have confessed.

MYSTERY BLAST IN GARY HURLS GROCER 40 FEET

A mysterious explosion in Gary last night wrecked a one story frame grocery at 1936 Carolina street and seriously injured the proprietor, Carl Nicklak, 38 years old.

Nicklak was in his store when the blast occurred. The side walls and front suddenly blew out. Nicklak was hurled 40 feet across the street.

Lieut. Frank Olson of the Gary police, who arrived soon after, said Nicklak murmured "gas—kerosine," then lapsed into unconsciousness. Olson said, however, there was a strong odor of black powder around the wrecked building.

FORMER CHICAGO WOMAN TELLS OF PARIS FLIGHT

Mrs. Daniel N. Eisendrath, widow of a former Chicago surgeon, who was driven from her home 40 miles north of Paris, by the Nazi invasion in May, arrived in Chicago Tuesday. She is visiting her sister, Mrs. Harvey Austrian of Glencoe.

Mrs. Eisendrath told a graphic story of her flight by automobile, over roads crowded by refugees, from her home to Lemons, 200 miles south of Paris. The refugees, she said, were in a state of panic, and some of the towns on the way had been bombed to bits.

A SCOTTISH WAR WAIF, 10, READY TO RESUME GOLF

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

Alistar Ramsey, a 10 year old war refugee, arrived in Chicago yesterday from Glasgow, Scotland, to find refuge with relatives. He stepped from the Lake Shore limited at La Salle street station attired in kilts, a school crested brown flannel jacket and a cap. At his belt a sporran [Scotch purse] held his money snugly and over his shoulder he carried a sack of golf clubs.

Smiling politely, he greeted his new guardians, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Ramsey of Flossmoor, an uncle and aunt with whom he will live for the duration of the war, and two young cousins, Charles, 7 years old, and George, 5, who had on their Ramsey tartan ties.

The young refugee was brought to Chicago by the Ramseys thru direct communication with the American consulate in Britain. He sailed Sept. 1 from Glasgow on the S. S. Cameronia and arrived Monday in New York.

Many Find Haven Here.

There are a number of British refugee children in Chicago who have come here thru the same method. There is no definite record of the number. The United States Committee for the Care of European Children has approved 20 homes here and has received 200 applications from Chicagoans for housing children during the war.

"There were 30 of us unaccompanied children on the boat," young Ramsey explained precisely in a rich Scottish accent. "A good few of the others were with their mothers. We were having a fine time over in Scotland before I sailed. We weren't on rations at all. I hadn't seen a plane or a bomb. I was learning to play golf from a professional when we left. It was a shame, too, because my score was down to 55 for nine holes. Do you have links near your home?"

"Yes, indeed we do," Ramsey answered heartily. "By the way did you have a good time in New York?"

New York Bears Out Movies.

"New York was not bad, not bad, at all," the boy replied. "The skyscrapers seemed to run as big as usual. I've seen skyscrapers before in the movies."

Mrs. Ramsey tucked the boy's arm affectionately in hers. "How do you like what you've seen in America? Is it what you expected?" she questioned anxiously.

"About half and half," was his succinct answer. The "half" started out as if he had meant to say "haunt."

"What family plaid are you wearing?" a bystander asked the boy.

"It is from my mother's family, the MacIntosh's. And I'll have you know," he retorted proudly, "it is not a plaid. It's kilts." He took Mrs. Ramsey's hand and stalked out of the station.

ON FRIDAY 13TH SAFETY FIRST IS A GREAT SLOGAN

It is one thing to flaunt superstition. It is another to court disaster by such flaunting. These are the observations of the Greater Chicago Safety Council as Friday the 13th—tomorrow—advances.

The council looks with disdain upon the person who calmly smashes a mirror merely to defy superstition's curse. The celebrant's chances of being cut by flying glass are too great for comfort. The same applies to the man who deliberately walks under a ladder. Such persons are known to have been deluged by paint and water or injured by falling tools.

"Perhaps the savages had the right idea about Friday the 13th," a spokesman said. "On that day they did as little as possible. Modern life is not so easily adjusted to superstition, but the primitive man knew that the less one deliberately courted trouble, the less one would find."

48 Degrees Yesterday Near All Time Low for Sept. 11

Chicago's low temperature of 48 degrees at 7 a. m. yesterday was within three degrees of the all time minimum for Sept. 11, established in 1917. The chill was attributed to a cold mass of air coming down from Canada. The temperatures warmed up slowly during the day.

SEASONAL FLOW IS SUGGESTED FOR DRAINAGE CANAL

Compromise Offered in Diversion Case.

Seasonal regulation of the flow of water from Lake Michigan into the sanitary canal and the Illinois waterway was suggested yesterday by Monte M. Lemann, special master appointed by the United States Supreme court to hear evidence on Illinois' plea for increased diversion.

Lemann asked: Might not diversion be increased during the summer, to reduce noxious odors arising then, and decreased during the winter when odors are not noticeable?

Made as Compromise.

His suggestion, he said, was made as a possible compromise in the dispute between Illinois and other lake states. The diversion flow, now at the rate of 1,000 cubic feet per second by Supreme court order, formerly was 6,000 cubic feet and more.

Illinois and the Chicago Sanitary district want the flow increased to 5,000 feet until Dec. 31, 1942 when the sanitary district expects to complete its sewage treatment and disposal works. Part of Chicago's sewage is now dumped into the sanitary canal.

Attorneys for Illinois, which contends that the decreased flow has caused a health menace, and for the opposing lake states said they would consider Lemann's suggestion.

Urges a 'Long' Summer.

One of the expert witnesses for Illinois at yesterday's hearing—Dr. Floyd W. Mohlman, director of laboratories for the sanitary district—commented: "The suggestion is practical if by summer months you mean about nine months. The sludge in the bottom of the waterway is inactive during the winter but purification starts when the water warms in summer."

Previously Dr. Mohlman had been pressed by Herbert J. Naujoks, counsel for the opposing lake states, as to whether nauseous odors in the canal could not be reduced by adding chlorine to the water. Dr. Mohlman said this would require about 150 tons of chlorine a day at a cost daily of about $7,500. He added that he didn't think it would be satisfactory because the water's flow would tend to wear off the chorine's effect.

"Unless you have greater dilution [diversion]" he said, "the condition of the waterway at Joliet will be as deplorable next summer as it was last summer."

HOG SHOW OPENS TODAY FOR FARM YOUTHS OF STATE

One hundred forty-seven farm boys and girls from Illinois and Iowa have entered 675 fat hogs of their own raising in the first annual Chicago Junior Market Hog show and sale to be held at the stockyards today and tomorrow. The event is sponsored by the Union Stock Yard and Transit company and is open to 4-H club and vocational agriculture students.

Judging will begin this morning in the International amphitheater at 42d and Halsted streets. The hogs will be sold this afternoon.

Tomorrow's program has been arranged so the group may hear Wendell L. Willkie's talk at 11 a. m. before the live stock exchange building. There will be hog grading and marketing demonstrations at 9 a. m. in the amphitheater and tours of packing plants in the afternoon. The entire program tomorrow will be open to the public.

ORDER OPENING OF 2 BUS ROUTES BY SURFACE LINES

Installation within 60 days of two new bus routes by the Chicago Surface lines was ordered yesterday by the Illinois Commerce commission. One is a six mile route to run from 25th street and Central Park avenue to Kimball and Wrightwood avenues. The second route, about 1½ miles long, will be operated in Division street between California and Monticello avenues.

Both routes were ordered after hearings on petitions from the city. The surface lines, which opposed the installations, have 20 days to ask for a rehearing.

Before installations can be made, approval must be obtained from the Chicago Park district and the federal District court. Both routes run thru some park properties. The federal court has jurisdiction over the lines and must authorize any outlay for new buses.

Motorist Gets 20 Days in Jail as Drunk Driver

Stanley Tucker, 833 33d street, a tunnel worker, was sentenced to 20 days in the county jail yesterday by Judge Joseph B. Hermes in Safety court for driving while intoxicated. His driving privileges were suspended for six months. Vito Francona, 644 North Spaulding avenue, was fined $100 and costs for leaving the scene of an accident.

HAVE MORE CASH, ROBBERS WARN.

Two gunmen last night tied up John Hansen, 56 years old, and took $10 from him in his pastry shop at 7308 Vincennes avenue. Then they warned him he'd better have more money next time and departed.

'Airedale Face' Woman Assists in $3,055 Holdup

Two young men robbed Raymond Carroll of $3,055 in his saloon at 3147 West 79th street early yesterday and escaped in an automobile driven by a woman companion. During the robbery, Carroll told police, he stared thru the window at the woman in the car. "She had a long, thin, ugly face, like an Airedale," he said. "I couldn't forget a face like that in 30 years."

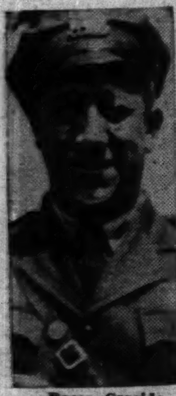
WOMAN AUTOIST KILLS POLICEMAN ON MOTORCYCLE

Sidewipes 3 Cars, Then Smashes Into Store.

State Policeman Rocco Gragido, 45 years old, of 718 Taylor street, was killed yesterday as he sat astride his motorcycle at 63d street and Archer avenue waiting for a stop light to change. He was struck by an automobile driven by Miss Renato Goldacker, 27, of 3525 North Linder avenue. Gragdio was attached to the Blue Island station.



Rocco Gragido.

Miss Goldacker sideswiped three automobiles and a milk wagon before hitting the cycle. Gragdio was dragged 80 feet by the car, which smashed thru the window of a restaurant at 6262 Archer avenue. Miss Goldacker was taken to Columbus hospital with a concussion and possible rib fracture. Oscar Akather, 70, of Burlington, Ia., who was riding with her, also required hospital attention.

Drives Thru Stoplight.

Joseph Good, a county highway policeman, said that a few minutes before the accident he saw Miss Goldacker drive thru a stop light at Harlem and Archer avenues. He followed her to the scene of the crash.

Raymond Kacherwski, 8, of 1630 32d avenue, Melrose Park, was killed by a car on North avenue, between 37th and 38th avenues, Stone Park. The driver was J. T. Ball, a factory foreman, of 302 Madison avenue, Glen Ellyn.

Arthur Alm, 53, of 2236 North Sawyer avenue, a junk man, was fatally injured by a hit and run driver at Elston avenue and Nelson street.

Injuries Are Fatal.

Injuries suffered Monday resulted in the death of August Quincer, 59, of 647 North Homan avenue, a baker, in St. Anne's hospital. He was struck in front of 40 East Garfield boulevard by James T. Jeffries, 6229 South Wolcott avenue, who was charged with reckless driving.

Mrs. Frances Lorenz, 60, of Chicago, was killed Tuesday when her car overturned 10 miles south of Fort Pierce, Fla. She had wintered at Lake Worth for the last 28 years and was returning to Chicago with two friends, Mrs. Anna Knop and Mrs. Alvera Carlson of Lake Worth, who were injured.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 593 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 433 were killed in Chicago, where 16,190 were injured in the same period.

87 Ride in Cars

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 11 (AP).—Their pace slowed to dirge tempo by physical frailty, 19 union veterans of the civil war marched six blocks thru cheering crowds today in the annual parade of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The procession was the highlight of the G. A. R.'s 74th national encampment and there were 106 of the blue-clad old soldiers in it, but 87 of them rode in automobiles.

Some of the marchers could remember when the annual parade had thousands of G. A. R. veterans in the line of march. Today's paraders represented a Grand Army membership of 1,030 — all that remain alive of a roll which numbered some 410,000 50 years ago.

MRS. JOS. CUDAHY OF LAKE FOREST ILL IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy of Lake Forest was reported resting satisfactorily in Passavant hospital last night. She was taken to the hospital in an ambulance which met the train that brought her back from Florida yesterday. Her physician and hospital attendants declined to discuss her illness. Friends, however, stated that Mrs. Cudahy had been ill in the south for some time.

Mrs. Cudahy has been active for several years in social work and cultural pursuits.

Safety Lanes Shorten Hours to 10 Each Day

Hours at the city's automobile safety lanes, beginning today, will be 8 a. m. to 6 p. m., the public vehicle license department announced yesterday. During the summer most lanes operated from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. The lanes are at Long and Berteau avenues, 2019 Fullerton avenue, 67th street and California avenue, 20 North Carpenter street, 6934 Cottage Grove avenue, and east of the Outer drive between Wilson and Lawrence avenues.

AGED MAN FOUND HANGED.

Milledgeville, Ill., Sept. 11 [Special].—James Hanna, 82 years old, lifelong resident of this community, hanged himself yesterday in his room at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harry Teeter, here, according to a coroner's jury verdict. He had been in poor health.

FILM STARS FACE A BUSY DAY; ON W-G-N TONIGHT

Lucille Ball Co-Starred with Maureen O'Hara.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Lucille Ball and Maureen O'Hara, young R-K-O stars, will take a "day off" today from the 14 day 7,500 mile personal appearance tour they are making in connection with the showing of their new movie, "Dance, Girl, Dance." But it will be the busiest of all the busy days they've had since they left Hollywood.

From the moment of their arrival at 8:30 a. m. from Buffalo, N. Y., they will be occupied with getting ready for their joint network radio premiere at 7:30 o'clock tonight over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system. They will be co-starred in "On Stage, Please," a drama specially written by William A. Bacher and Ashmead Scott for the broadcast of In Chicago Tonight. Bacher is the producer of the show.

Theater Appearances Scheduled.

Besides intensive rehearsals there will be sessions today with the photographers and two appearances at the Palace theater—even tho their new picture will not open there until a week from today.

Following their appearances here they will make two more stops—at Indianapolis and Washington, D. C.—and then will fly back to Hollywood for important new picture assignments. Blonde Lucille will go to work Monday in the new R-K-O picture, "Three Girls and a Gob," which Harold Lloyd is to produce. And reddish haired Maureen is to begin work soon in "Down Argentine Way" with Frank Veloz, the noted dancer, as director.

Miss O'Hara is thoroly radio-wise. Prior to coming to America from Dublin 18 months ago she had done much radio work both for Irish broadcasters and for the British Broadcasting corporation. And she has been featured in television.

She's from an Acting Family.

Miss O'Hara comes from a family of actors. Her mother, Rita Fitz-Simon, like her daughter, worked with the Abbey players. Mrs. Fitz-Simon is making the tour with Miss O'Hara. She has a brother and sister also with the Abbey Players.

In "On Stage, Please," Miss Ball and Miss O'Hara play the parts of two of four young actresses trying for the same rôle in a Broadway play.

LABEL AND BOX FIRM PARTNER IS FOUND SLAIN

The body of a man, tentatively identified as Theron W. Childs, was found shot to death early today in a field 3½ miles southeast of Lake Zurich on Cuba road in Lake county. Deputy sheriffs discovered the body near a deserted automobile. A .32 caliber automatic pistol was lying near the dead man, but a preliminary investigation indicated he had been shot in the back, the deputies stated.

The name and a River Forest address were found in his clothing but police of that suburb said he no longer lived there. Irving Randall Jr., of 285 Linden Park place, Highland Park, told police his father and the victim had been partners in the Chicago Label and Box company, 312 North May street. They were first cousins. Police said the Randalls had indicated the tragedy was not unexpected by them.

N. U. RECEIVES $162,000 FROM ABBOTT ESTATE

Northwestern university announced yesterday a gift of $162,000 from the Clara A. Abbott trust for advancement of medical, chemical, and surgical science. Mrs. Abbott, widow of Dr. Wallace C. Abbott, founder of the Abbott Laboratories in North Chicago, previously had given the university $1,500,000 for similar purposes.

The gifts were made by Alfred W. Bays, general counsel of Abbott Laboratories, and Henry B. Shattuck, a retired director, as trustees of Mrs. Abbott's estate, under terms of her will providing that one-half of her estate go to charity. Mrs. Abbott died in 1924.

The new 20 story dormitory on Northwestern's downtown campus has been named Abbott hall as a memorial to Mrs. Abbott and her husband.

TWO CHICAGOANS FACE LIFE TERM IN KIDNAP CASE

Toledo, O., Sept. 11 [Special].—Two Chicago men faced life imprisonment after pleading guilty today in Toledo Federal District court to violating the Lindbergh kidnaping law and conspiracy.

The men, Joseph Weisbrod, and Robert Eppstein, together with Theodore Gell, Detroit, all of whom are 26, pleaded not guilty to the charges. Today they changed their pleas and will be sentenced by Judge Frank L. Kloeb Sept. 1.

The three are accused of having abducted Lynn Lepold, Toledo numbers agent in April, 1939, and to have taken him to Jonesville, Mich., where they robbed him of $3,500.

Weisbrod recently pleaded guilty to the charge of robbery in Lucas county Common Pleas court.

Policeman, 81 Today, Says He's Oldest on Duty in U.S.

August Hendrickson, of Batavia, Kane county, who lays claim to being the oldest active policeman in the United States, will observe his 81st birthday anniversary today. Hendrickson has been a member of the Batavia force for 20 years and is known as a crack shot with a pistol. He is now assigned to traffic duty, and rides a squad car from 6 p. m. to 2 a. m.

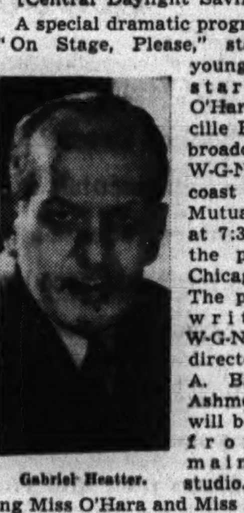
Today's Features

ON W-G-N.
[Central Daylight Saving Time.]

A special dramatic program entitled "On Stage, Please," starring two young Hollywood stars, Maureen O'Hara and Lucille Ball, will be broadcast over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network at 7:30 p. m., on the program In Chicago Tonight. The program, written by W-G-N's producer-director, William A. Bacher, and Ashmead Scott, will be presented from W-G-N's main audience studio. Supporting Miss O'Hara and Miss Ball will be an all-star cast of Chicago actors.



Gabriel Heatter.

Starting at 1:30 p. m., Bob Elson will give a play by play report of the double header ball game between the Chicago White Sox and the Philadelphia Athletics from Comiskey park.

Because of the baseball broadcast, the program Women World Wide, usually heard at 2:15 p. m., today will be heard at 1:15 instead. Women World Wide is conducted by Ruth De-Young Kohler, Chicago Tribune columnist.

Interviews with several members of the Brooklyn Dodger ball club, will be offered on the program Pennant Contenders, on W-G-N and Mutual at 9:15 p. m. Each week this program is broadcast from the home town of one of the eight first division teams. Tonight "Red" Barber and Al Helfer will interview Manager Leo Durocher, Larry McPhail, president, Slugger Dixie Walker, and Pitcher Whit Wyatt.

The Voice of Liberty, featuring Commentator Gabriel Heatter, will be heard at 8 p. m.

Other features:

9 a. m.—The Deacon, featuring Howard Hoffman with a quarter hour of songs and homespun philosophy.

MELVIN TROTTER DIES; WON FAME AS EVANGELIST

Launched 67 Missions in America.

Holland, Mich., Sept. 11 [Special].—Melvin E. Trotter, 70 years old, superintendent of the Grand Rapids city rescue mission, dropped dead today at his Macatawa Park cottage west of here. He was a nationally known evangelist.

Trotter was born in Orangeville, Ill., and was converted at the famous Pacific Garden mission in Chicago in 1897, to which he came as a down and outer. He later became head of that mission and headed the Grand Rapids mission at the same time.

Launched 67 Missions.

He founded 67 missions during his evangelistic career, including ones at Milwaukee, South Bend, Muskegon, Kalamazoo, St. Paul, Pittsburgh, and Los Angeles. He recently completed an autobiography, "These Forty Years." A few years ago he attended the Dwight L. Moody centenary celebration in England in company with Dr. H. A. Ironside of Chicago.

Trotter won a divorce from his wife, Lottie, in 1922 in Grand Rapids after a trial that was filled with sensational testimony. In granting the decree Judge Major L. Dunham ruled that Mrs. Trotter's charges that her husband had been unfaithful and treated her cruelly were not upheld by the evidence.

Member of Union League.

Trotter was a member of the Union League club of Chicago, Rotary International and of the Tuna club of Avalon, Cal. His home was in Grand Rapids, and he is survived by a brother, George, of the Holland mission here.

MERCY FLIGHT WINS TROPHY FOR 11 IN AIR CORPS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 (AP).—Eleven air corps officers and men who flew 3,250 pounds of medical supplies thru bad weather and darkness to earthquake stricken areas of Chile in February, 1939, were named by the war department today as recipients of the Mackay trophy.

At the request of the Red Cross, an army bomber, loaded to capacity and piloted by Maj. Caleb V. Haynes, took off from Langley Field, Va., before daylight on Feb. 4, made a night landing at Panama, night take offs at Panama and Lima, Peru, and landed on schedule at Santiago, Chile, early on Feb. 6. It carried vaccines and other supplies urgently needed in Chile.

OBITUARIES

Michael F. Walsh.

Funeral services for Michael F. Walsh, founder of the Harvard [Ill.] Herald and its editor for 53 years, will be held in the Harvard Presbyterian church Saturday at 2 p. m. with burial in Mount Auburn cemetery there. Mr. Walsh, who was also a Republican leader, died in Augustana hospital here early yesterday at the age of 73. He served 16 years as postmaster of Harvard, was a former member of the Illinois civil service commission, and was formerly director of the state department of registration and education. His widow survives.

Fred I. Gillick.

Fred I. Gillick, retired real estate dealer and banker of Park Ridge, died yesterday in St. Francis' hospital, Evanston. He was 63 years old. The funeral will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. in the Park Ridge Community church, with burial in Town of Maine cemetery. Surviving are his widow, Marian T., two sons, Irving and John, and three grandchildren.

Richard W. Lytle.

Richard W. Lytle, for the last three years treasurer of Porter county, Ind., died of a heart attack yesterday in a reception room in the office of Dr. N. C. Gilbert, 104 South Michigan avenue. A son, John, of 2236 West 109th street was with him. Mr. Lytle was 65 years old and lived in Valparaiso. He leaves his widow, Margaret, two sons and two daughters.

Mrs. Margaret Mugan.

Services for Mrs. Margaret Mugan, who died Tuesday night in her home at 7815 Union avenue, will be held Saturday at 9:30 a. m. from the home to St. Leo's church. Mrs. Mugan was 80 years old and had been a resident of Chicago for more than 50 years. She leaves four sons and four daughters.

Mrs. Marie A. Soravia.

Mrs. Marie A. Soravia, one of the founders and past president of the Italian Women's Club of Chicago, died yesterday in her home, 526 South Elmwood avenue, Oak Park. Services will be held at 720 Lake street, Oak Park, Friday, at 4 p. m. Burial will be in Oil City, Pa. Her husband, Joseph, survives.

Miss Dorothy Ethel Walsh.

Miss Dorothy Ethel Walsh, formerly of Chicago, died yesterday in Bridgeport, Conn., where she had resided for the last five years. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Walsh and the sister of Miss Adelaide Walsh, Dr. Groesbeck Walsh, Mrs. Graham Duffield, and Mrs. Ralph A. Bond.

Mrs. Catherine Warren.

Mrs. Catherine Warren, a resident of the west side for 50 years, died yesterday in her home at 1108 North Waller avenue. She was 78 years old. Mrs. Warren leaves five sons, Jerry, Daniel, Neil, Bart, and Dr. John M. Warren, and one daughter, Mrs. Catherine Moore, all of Chicago.

ONLY $100 STATE TAX IS LEVIED ON CUTTEN ESTATE

An Illinois inheritance tax report filed yesterday in the County court held that $100 is the only assessable state tax against the estate of Arthur W. Cutten, grain speculator. Debts and administration expenses were listed as $2,273,077, while assets within the state amount to $410,536. The small state tax will be levied on a widow's award of $25,000 to Mrs. Maude Cutten of the Drake hotel.

Assets include a 300 acre farm valued at $30,000 near Wheaton, cash of $45,071, and 800 shares of stock in the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, worth $126,400.

A preferred claim allowed for $1,213,375 in federal income taxes has wiped out the claims of other creditors, totaling $675,000. Expenses include $17,500 attorney's fees for Dwight H. Green; $15,000 to the American National Bank and Trust company as executor; $15,000 to I. J. Berkson as a friend of the court, seeking hidden assets; $4,793 for Berkson's expenses, and $7,219 in fees for auditing brokerage accounts and debts. Cutten died in 1936.

Collections on 1939 Tax Bills Show Slight Decline

Collections on 1939 tax bills thru yesterday totaled $132,376,156, compared with receipts of $139,885,842 on 1938 bills on the corresponding date last year, County Treasurer John Toman reported yesterday. Toman predicted the decline will be more than eliminated within the next month when about 50,000 taxpayers now receiving corrected 1939 bills are expected to pay their taxes.

N. U. TRUSTEES O. K. SELECTIVE SERVICE PLAN

Approval of the principle of selective service by the executive committee of Northwestern university's board of trustees was announced yesterday by Franklyn Bliss Snyder, president of the university.

"The university believes in the basic principle of a selective service law to provide a timely, efficient, and democratic method of strengthening the armed forces of the nation," he said. "We must insure the defense which the nation requires. In the present situation the university places itself unreservedly at the service of the nation and is ready at any time to assist in the imperative task of strengthening this defense."

Dr. Snyder said students called to service would receive refunds of tuition paid in advance and would receive recognition for academic work even tho it covered only a portion of a semester.

John J. Moore, Torpedo Expert in U. S. Navy, Dies

Newport, R. I., Sept. 11 (AP).—John J. Moore, 86, known to many naval officers for his contributions to the development of the modern torpedo, died today. He retired as master mechanic in 1926 after 53 years in the government service, which was extended three times by Presidential action. He established a machine shop at the torpedo station in 1882 with four men. The station now employs more than 4,000.

ORDER MANTENO HOSPITAL STAFF FINGER PRINTED

Employés of the state hospital for the insane at Manteno were surprised yesterday by an order that all be finger printed and submit to a search of their rooms and automobiles.

Dr. Walter H. Baer, managing officer, denied that the investigation was prompted by an attempt Aug. 15 on the life of Dr. D. Louis Steinberg, assistant managing officer. He declared the finger printing was a routine matter and the search was to see that no liquor was carried into the institution.

It was announced that Dr. Steinberg, who was fired on by an unidentified assailant, is to be transferred at once, on his own request, to the Elgin state hospital.

HARRIMAN'S SON KILLED IN PLUNGE FROM 'Y' WINDOW

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 11 (AP).—Borden Harriman, 34 years old, member of the famous banking and railroad building family, plunged to his death late today from a window of his eighth floor room in the Central Y. M. C. A.

In the room police found this note: "God's earth is kindlier than some men know." In Harriman's pocket they found 73 cents.

There was a letter in the room from his mother, Mrs. Grace Carley Harriman of New York. She had written: "I have no money to send you. Suggest that you come home."

Young Harriman's father, prominent in New York financial circles, died less than a month ago. Mrs. J. Borden [Daisy] Harriman, minister to Norway, is his aunt. His mother is widely known for her campaigns on behalf of legalized lotteries.

WHY TAKE CHANCES?

Over the past 20 years Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has helped millions to keep "regular"

Delicious—with milk or cream!

Before you buy a laxative cereal, these are some of the things you should know: What's the proof that it's effective? How widely is it used? Has it stood the test of time?

This is ALL-BRAN's record. For 20 years, Americans have looked to this famous cereal as an answer to the problem of common constipation (due to lack of the right kind of "bulk" in the diet).

What research has shown

Distinguished medical men in famous universities have proven over and over again its effectiveness by research. Many physicians have prescribed it. Millions of people have used it.

A million a day

And, now, more than one million Americans every day eat this crisp, delicious breakfast food. Why don't you try it, too? It is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 11.—Within the last two weeks two big studios—20th Century-Fox and Paramount—have practically discontinued their fan mail departments, and other outfits may follow suit. One reason is economy. Another, that fan mail ain't what it used to be, either in bulk or importance.

In the old days the mail a star got was the measure of his popularity, and both star and studio went to great pains to cultivate it. Recently the movies seem to have discovered that there is an even better gauge of popularity—that glass window with a girl behind it at the entrance to the theaters. The box office tells more quickly and more accurately when a star is slipping.

Both Fox and Paramount will maintain maybe one-girl staffs to open and sort letters—but from now on the burden of writing answers and mailing out autographed photos will fall on the stars and their own privately paid secretaries. The movies are getting back to the presound days, when stars handled their own mail and spent small fortunes doing so. One of the greatest believers in fan letters was Colleen Moore, who expended large hunks of her own money yearly.

What will the new setup bring about? Will the stars, realizing that their jobs no longer depend on how many bales the postman brings, shrug off most of what comes in and gradually discourage customers from writing? Or will they work at their correspondence harder than ever?

Before Paramount closed its department I raided what, with delicacy, the department called its "unusual letter" file. All such collections in all studios would make a very goofy book indeed, and here are some samples:

Claudette Colbert got a penny postcard from a woman asking for a photo and saying she'd like to pay the usual dime for it, "but we have a new baby and he takes all of our extra change." Dorothy Lamour got precisely the same communication. So did Madeleine Carroll—and so have many other stars DURING THE LAST FIVE YEARS! That baby has remained new longer than Peter Pan stayed young—unless, of course, the whole thing was true and there were five or six new babies.

Another postcard to Miss Lamour: "I am collecting personal items from famous people. I would like to ask you for a card signed by you and bearing your lip imprint. Do not think me crazy." . . . A doctor wrote asking Fred MacMurray for an old necktie which "will be placed in the form of a star in the center of one of the blocks of my quilt." . . . A 17 year old girl wrote Gary Cooper: "I love to see your wonderful films but really I don't have enough money to go to cinemas. So if you please send me five dollars it will help to make me much happier than I am now. I know it is not good to want money from some one, but I shall teach you a Turkish sentence in order to get the money which you will send me. Here is the sentence: 'Bu gece ne gujelsinij.' This means, 'Tonight how beautiful you are!' You can tell it to women as a compliment. Now I have taught you a Turkish sentence, you will send me five dollars. I think it is alright. Alright?"

Ray Milland caught this one: "I heard on the radio that there was a young lady of 38 who offered marriage to you, but you were already married. You can give the young lady my name and address."

Unusual, all right, but not at all goofy was the letter Gary Cooper got from Hungary: "I you admire very much. Nowadays I am here two months a Polish relief after the finishing of the war between Germany and Poland. I have to you a great request, do you send the little photo with the autograph but not to me, where I am, but my parents in Poland because this is very difficult to get the letter. To this moment they do not have wrote and I don't know what is with my parents. Would you write on your photo that I am quite well. They speak well English language." Cooper sent a picture, autographed as instructed—and it may well have been the first word these Polish parents had of their son.

Horse Show Will Be Held Sept. 21 in Harms Woods

Members of the Town and Country Equestrian association will hold their third annual horse show on Sept. 21 and 22 in Harms woods, Morton Grove. Special classes of mounts for children and an exhibition by Elmer Gantry, blind jumping horse, will be features of the show. Proceeds will be used by the Sunbeam league to help underprivileged children. Among those making arrangements for the show are John C. Bowers, Frank W. Bering, Joy Morton II., and James A. Hannah.

House Robes of Jersey Are Shoppers' Joy

BY REA SEEGER.

Introducing something new and glamorous for fall and winter house coats or hostess gowns never seems to cause the designers much fuss. Veteran shopping sleuths have been known to gasp over the seemingly limitless supplies of beautiful models that arrive weekly. The latest excitements are of clinging warm jersey, not wool jersey but that specially made jersey for house robes. Draped with consummate artistry, these gowns or robes or hostess coats have all the picturesque allure of medieval court grandeur.

Jade green and scarlet are two colors that always click . . . this fall both the green and the red seem more heart warming than ever before. When the spice of spotted leopard skin printed velvet is added you have a house robe for the femme fatale. Long loose sleeves are faced back with an inside cuff of the spotted leopard skin velvet and the deep swinging hood at the back of the neckline is also lined with the same velvet. It's gorgeous with the green and breathtaking with the scarlet. Otherwise the robes are plain almost nunlike in outline.

If you spurn leopard skin this year you have a soul of iron, for it's the fur of the year in muffs, hats, cuff collars or in jackets or coats for daytime wear. However, these same jersey negligees or robes come without the leopard accent . . . you will see some beauties with long tight fitted sleeves handsomely gleaming with scroll motifs in gold thread embroidered on the chest and sleeve cuff. Or if you appreciate the charm of meticulously quilted designs you'll like the pockets, and shoulder sections padded and quilted to accentuate the long slim outlines of the rest of the robe.

WPA Reports on Library Activities in This State

Charles E. Miner, state Work Projects administrator, announced yesterday that WPA operates 280 rural library centers in Illinois and has supplied 1,178 WPA workers to 166 other libraries. He said that more than 2,000,000 persons attended concerts given by the Illinois WPA music project during the past year.

Numerology

By Evelyn Holmes

Sept. 12, 1940.

Universal day—Contact people. Get around socially but with an eye to advantage materially from such contacts.

Lucky numbers—Those born on the 3d, 12th, 21st, or 30th, will find that three, or any of the multiples of three, will be the most favorable where occupational matters are concerned. They should take advantage of the social aspects of that number to promote their personalities and talents. This is the number of expression and so should be used whenever that phase of problems is in question. Persons born on these dates will find interviews and contacts more propitious if made on the three days.

Year ahead—Gather in now and don't squander because the coming year asks you to give up much and be ready for termination of the run of your luck.

The pompadour fashion is an elastic one. It need not call for a sleek, harsh roll above the forehead; it can be a soft fringe—any arrangement that centers hair interest high on the brow.

It develops, from what the hairdressers tell us, that the mature women are scared to death of the pompadour hair fashion, just as they were terrified of the high hair fashion when it was a vogue. The big question seems to be: Will it make the mature woman look older?

Some day some one ought to ask "older than what?" Nine times out of ten the woman over 35 looks better—maybe not younger—when the line of her hair arrangement draws upward. And it's better to look smart than to look dowdy by trying to appear youthful.

Facial lines go downward as one becomes older. The downward hairline just emphasizes the sag, but hairdressers find it awfully hard to convince the older woman that hair straggling toward the shoulders doesn't automatically make her look younger. It's a popular illusion that a youthful hairdress is all a woman needs to fool herself and her public.

Watching several hairstyle demonstrations recently, we saw any number of variations of the pompadour that are stunning and appropriate for the mature woman. They give her a queenliness that's distinctive.

A pompadour fashion doesn't necessarily mean a pompadour; what it does mean is interest of emphasis in hair arrangement high on the brow. It can be a fringe or a coil or a soft high roll; it need not be one of those harsh, round rolls that characterizes the hairdress of the Gibson girl.

Methodists Warned Character Weakness Threatens America

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 11 [Special].—Bishop William C. Martin, Omaha, Neb., in addresses today and last night before the Illinois Methodist conference here, warned that America's dangers are from within, not from without.

"The greatest problem of America is not what Germany is going to do," he asserted, "but what America is going to do with herself. Everybody knows now that a nation can collapse from within when certain elements of character are missing. France is in the dust of humility, not because of outside forces, but because of inward collapse. There isn't any influence that has occurred to destroy France that is not working now in America, and I am not talking about the fifth column. Degrading influences make a nation die."

Complete reorganization of laymen's groups of the church was started today.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. H. Joseph Kaprall, 4822 North Ridgeway avenue, announce the marriage on Aug. 29 of their daughter, Edith, to Dr. Maurice R. Falstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Falstein, 3222 Carmen avenue. The marriage took place at 7:30 o'clock at the Copeland hotel. After a wedding trip to Michigan Dr. Falstein and his bride are at home at 6332 Winthrop avenue. The former Miss Kaprall was known to W-G-N audiences as Lynn Chalmers.

Miss Margaret McFadden, daughter of Mrs. Joseph J. McFadden of 5952 Magnolia avenue, and William Sparks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sparks of Buffalo Hart, in Sangamon county, will be married at noon on Sept. 21 in St. Gertrude's church. A reception and dinner will follow at the Knickerbocker hotel. Mr. Sparks and his bride will motor to the Great Smokies on their wedding trip.

Mrs. Page Trinder, 162 East Ohio street, announces the marriage last Saturday of her daughter, Anne, to Francis Corwin Jackson. The ceremony took place in the Church of the Redeemer.

Plans Drafted for St. Luke's Fashion Show

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

The repeated bombing of England and especially the damage to Buckingham palace, whether the little English princesses are in England or Canada, as some insist, the pros and cons of taking refugee children, vacation memories that still are as fresh as yesterday's posies—all these were topics of conversation yesterday at a luncheon meeting of the St. Luke's hospital fashion show committee.

But none of the conversation overshadowed the important business of the day, which was the annual fashion show for the benefit of the woman's board of the hospital on the afternoon and evening of Oct. 15 in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel.

Women may find it hard to evince the same interest in fashions this season that they have in happier and more peaceful years, but the hospital needs as much, if not more, assistance than before, so the committee expect this year's show to equal, and perhaps surpass, the 13 other successful shows that the group has given. They consider that they have achieved a coup d'état in persuading Schiaparelli not only to plan the wedding party but also to appear at the show and to give a short talk at each performance.

Yesterday's meeting was held at Mrs. Huntington B. Henry's home in Lake Forest. Some who were there were Mrs. John W. Gary, president of the board and general chairman of the show committee; Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, fashion revue chairman; Mrs. Frank Hibbard, and Mrs. Seymour Wheeler, co-chairmen of the special feature committee; Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson, who doubles as a member of the special committee and the publicity committee; Mrs. A. Watson Armour and her daughter, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. W. Irving Osborne Jr., and Mrs. Armour III., who comprise the exhibitors' committee; Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, who with Mrs. Henry heads the mannequin committee; Mrs. Henry's daughters, Mrs. Gordon P. Kelley, who with Mrs. Richard K. Juergens complete that committee, and Mrs. Michael Cudahy, who officially isn't a member of the board but who takes a great interest in its work because of her mother and sister.

Officers present were Mrs. Juergens, Mrs. Frederick McLaughlin II., chairman of properties; Mrs. John D. Ames, and Mrs. J. Beach Clow, make-up chairmen; Mrs. Harold C. Smith, Mrs. Frank P. Hixon, and Mrs. Harold Eldridge, assembling line and dressing room "monitors"; Mrs. Charles F. Glore, who will have the task of pacifying the photographers at the show; Mrs. Robert M. Adams, Mrs. John C. Pitcher, Mrs. Watson McLallen, Mrs. Earl Kribben, and Mrs. Morrison Waud of the publicity committee; Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson and Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams, who are in charge of the sale of boxes; Mrs. Sterling Morton and Mrs. Maurice P. Hanson of the shares committee; Mrs. Theodore A. Shaw Jr. of the tea and dinner committee; Mrs. Paul Willis, Mrs. Charles H. Morse, and Mrs. John A. Chapman, board members.

Women's Club Will Have Marcy Wescott as Guest

Marcy Wescott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay V. Wescott, and star of the musical comedy, "Too Many Girls," will be the especial guest of the North End Women's club at luncheon today. Miss Wescott made her first amateur appearance at this club, of which her grandmother, Mrs. William Westerlund, is a past president. Mrs. Marjorie W. Pitts will give a reception for her niece on Sunday and on next Thursday Miss Wescott will be the luncheon guest of the Women's Chicago Beautiful association in the Wedgewood room of Marshall Field's.

Announce Caroline Castle's Engagement to E. J. Doering III

BY JUDITH CASS.

NEWS of romantic interest concerns the announcement Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Castle made at a small tea yesterday of the engagement of their daughter, Caroline, to Edmund J. Doering III., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund J. Doering Jr.

The announcement did not come as a great surprise to the young friends who gathered to welcome home from a summer in California Miss Castle and her twin sister, Miss Josephine Castle, and their parents. The Doering's only son has been a devoted beau of "Donny" Castle for several years.

Bride-to-Be's Paintings Hung by Junior League.

Miss Castle, who made her debut at a tea-dance at the Casino in 1936 with her sister, attended the Girls' Latin school, the Master's school at Dobbs Ferry, and was graduated from Vassar. She is a provisional member of the Chicago Junior league and a talented young artist. Her paintings were exhibited in the league's last art show. Mr. Doering is a graduate of the Choate school and of Harvard university. He and Miss Castle will live here following their marriage.

Friends of the former Jane Tapper of Highland Park will be interested to hear of her marriage in Santa Barbara, Cal., on Aug. 12 to Blake Carrington. Mrs. William R. Tapper's daughter and Mr. Carrington went to Honolulu on their honeymoon, and are expected to start back to the United States tomorrow. They will make their home on his ranch, the Crown C ranch in Arizona, not far from the Hacienda Los Encinas ranch where the former Miss Tapper has spent the last three winters.

Mrs. Tapper's other daughter, the Baroness d'Almeida of Paris, and her husband and their three boys are out of war dangers in Portugal. They are making their home with Baron d'Almeida's family in a seaside resort near Lisbon.

Friends to Give Parties Before Walling-Wilson Rites.

Cheves T. Walling arrived from Wilmington, Del., yesterday to be here until after his marriage to Miss Jane Wilson next Tuesday in Winnetka. There will be a number of parties over the week-end for Miss Wilson and her fiancé, who is a son of Mrs. Willoughby G. Walling. Miss Marjorie Kelly is giving a dinner for them on Saturday night. Mr. and Mrs. Philip W. Moore Jr. are entertaining at cocktails before the dinner.

On Sunday there will be a family party at the home of the W. English Wallings at which Mr. Walling's sister, Mrs. Charles H. Ross, and Mr. Ross also will be hosts. Mrs. Walling Sr. will give the bridal dinner next Monday night at the Indian Hill club.

The first party for Mary Hale and Howard F. Gillette Jr. is one that his aunt, Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, is giving tonight. She has invited a group of the young engaged couple's friends to the regular weekly dinner-dance at the Onwentsia club.

Another party at the Onwentsia's dinner-dance, the last one of the season, is one Bruce Macfarlane is giving for Miss Helen Mary Bryan and John I. Marshall Jr., who are to be married on Sept. 21. Earlier in the evening Mr. Macfarlane will entertain at cocktails for Mr. Marshall and his fiancée.

Tea Today to Introduce Miss Helen Ruth Clayton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul Clayton will be at home in Winnetka from 4 until 7 o'clock this afternoon to introduce their daughter, Miss Helen Ruth Clayton, to their friends. Miss Clayton, a graduate of the North Shore Country Day school, attended Wells college last winter, but will enter the H. Sophie Newcomb college of Tulane university in New Orleans this fall.

The Claytons have a young houseguest from New Orleans, Mottram Torre, who will help to fill the gap at the party left by the absence of their son, Hugh Clayton, who has been attending the diplomatic school in Paris. Young Mr. Clayton has sent word that he is safe and well in Paris.

Miss Clayton and her 14 assistants will end the day dining and dancing at the Indian Hill club at a party Miss Marilyn Martin is giving for two other Winnetka buds, Miss Merikay Howard and Miss Jean Matthiessen.

There'll be nothing stuffy about a political rally at the Barrington picnic grounds on Sunday afternoon when a group of the near north side's most capable square dancers will compete with farmers from the Barrington countryside. A hot band will furnish the music and there will be a professional caller. Before the meeting starts—Wayland Brooks and Dwight Green are to be the speakers—the band and some of the dancers will drum up trade around Barrington in a hay filled truck Henry A. Roberts is lending for the day.

Mrs. Roberts' sister, Mrs. Nelson Thomasson III., and her husband, who are moving to Barrington next month, will be among the city slicker dancers. Others include Miss Denise Root, Ernest Eversz, the Nathaniel Duvals, Miss Virginia Skinner, the Robert K. Smiths, Peter Ball and Miss Jane Stude.

The Saddle and Cycle club has issued invitations to an early fall dinner-dance. The party will be held on Saturday night, Sept. 21.

When board members of the Chicago Junior league gather for their first fall meeting next Monday morning they will find the league's clubrooms in the Drake hotel newly decorated in yellow, coral and gray. The main lounge this season will be what formerly was the dining room, as the league has discontinued luncheon service. The dining room is decorated with murals by Mrs. Douglas Huntress. New plant boxes have been put at the windows overlooking the lake, and bookcases have been built in. The hallway is decorated with a modern paper of green, gold, and white stripes, and green Venetian blinds hang at the windows of the offices. Miss Virginia Winston, president of the league, has returned from Maine, and other board members are at home from summer holidays.

ENGAGEMENTS

Dr. and Mrs. John O'Connell of Highland Park announce the engagement of their niece, Miss Vivian Alexa, to James A. Lytle Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lytle, also of Highland Park. Miss Alexa attended Lake Forest college. Her fiancé is a graduate of the University of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. George Perakis of Riverside announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia, to John T. Dowell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Osgood H. Dowell, also of Riverside. The wedding will take place in January.

Soroptimist Club.

The Soroptimist club will meet this evening at Fred Harvey's restaurant, 308 South Michigan avenue, to discuss arrangements for the care and maintenance of two British refugee Soroptimist children.

Murder Is Not Mute

DOUBLE FUNERAL.

INSTALMENT XLVI.

Doyle had a brief and none too friendly session with the District Attorney, who was resentful because he had not been notified immediately upon discovery of the skeleton, and who was openly suspicious of Doyle's' dogged insistence that all he could contribute in the way of help was the canvas, the wooden heels, and the three bullets.

Together they went to Judge Blain's to get his report on the bullets. Doyle only half listened to the Judge's description of certain involved technical tests he had made with the bullets and a sheet of lead foil, which proved that the bullets had all three been fired from the same weapon. The hammer and bore of the weapon had left incontrovertibly identical markings on each bullet.

"But I might say," the Judge pursed his lips cautiously, "that in my opinion there's something queer about the gun that fired those bullets."

At that Doyle came to alert attention. He and the District Attorney demanded simultaneously, "what's queer about it?"

Blain said darkly, "Doesn't it seem queer that only one shot was ever fired at a time?"

Doyle replied impatiently, "Two times out of three, only one shot was needed. In Mrs. Wunsch's case, the murderer didn't dare wait to fire twice."

The Judge shook his head in disagreement.. "I'd say the murderer didn't dare fire twice because he didn't have a second shot in his gun. And I'd say it was nothing but darn good marksmanship that picked Texie and Truman off the first crack. But the law of ayerages made him miss Mrs. Wunsch. And don't tell me he wouldn't have fired again if he'd been able. For instance, take a fellow who goes out after a deer. And he sights one and aims and fires. Maybe the first shot brings the deer down, but like as not, you'll find he's fired twice. Part reflex action of his trigger finger, and part just making certain he's got his quarry.

Seems to me the same would be true if he's after a man. If he'd run the risk of firing once, he'd run the rick of firing twice."

The District Attorney said peevishly, "Why would a murderer handicap himself with a one-barrel pistol when it's easy enough to get a revolver?"

"Who said anything about a pistol?" Blain inquired. "My opinion is these bullets came from a rifle. 44 caliber. Foreign make."

"Foreign?" Doyle pounced. "The bullets or the rifle?"

"Can't tell about the rifle 'til I see it," Blain said. "But the bullets weren't made over here, that's sure."

Doyle scowled. "A rifle isn't an easy weapon to hide," he said. "We searched that house twice."

The District Attorney stood up. "The obvious thing to do," he said contemptuously, "is to find out who, in the Wunsch household, has been interested in hunting or target practice."

Doyle said, with an admiration so hearty as to verge on burlesque, "That's a hell of a good idea." Then he let the D. A. go off triumphantly to solve the case. But the moment the D. A.'s car had rounded the corner Doyle sprang to his feet.

"Give me a lift over to Doc Blake's, will you?" he implored the Judge. . . .

Dr. Blake shrugged. "As well as can be expected."

Doyle said, "I must talk with him."

"No good to come to me about that," the doctor said. "The Old Man will never talk again. The stroke paralyzed his vocal cords and the entire right side of his body. He's all but dead. He'll never talk or walk or use his right hand again. The only mercy is he'll soon be gone."

Doyle rose and paced the laboratory's narrow confines.

Dr. Blake peered thru his gleaming pince-nez.

"You don't think the Old Man knows anything about the murders?" he asked incredulously.

Doyle nodded grimly. "I think he knows all the answers."

* * *

The afternoon was taken up by the inquest, which recorded that Texas Wunsch and Truman Briault had died at the hand or hands of a person or persons unknown.

Wunsch had sworn there were no firearms on the estate, nor anyone interested in them. The deer with which his park was stocked were just for atmosphere, he maintained—not for sport. The District Attorney let it be known that in his opinion Wunsch was uneasy under questioning and was concealing something. And the District Attorney's men were searching the house and out buildings and grounds, for weapons or bullets or both.

The next day, Friday, the search was temporarily suspended in deference to the funeral services.

Doyle attended, at Wunsch's request, and noted the District Attorney's close observation of the mourners who gathered about the two coffins.

The Comtesse de Briault, as might be expected, put on a good show. She entered the oppressively flower scented drawing room, a queen of tragedy in dramatic black, knelt for an ostentatiously long period beside the white casket which held Texie's bones, praying earnestly, but when she arose to kneel beside her son's body, a suitable and terrible grief overcame her and she had to be led swooning to a chair, where she sat leaning heavily on her daughter.

Paula's face was carved of stone and her eyes were dry with a feverish brightness, as if they had been drained of tears and were burning out in agony.

Wunsch's broad shoulders shook, and he wept openly thruout the simple service.

Helen Voss maintained an admirable composure even when they carried the bodies thru the gardens and over the brow of the hill, to lay them to rest in a sheltered cove. But when Texie's coffin was lowered under its blanket of white orchids, Helen suddenly broke and her slender body was racked with sobs.

Miss Doty moved over and put her arm around the girl's shoulder. Miss Doty did not cry, tho her face showed great strain. And directly the service was over, she hurried ahead of the others—back to the Old Man who soon would be laid beside these two.

Doyle returned to the Seaview. He could not find it in his heart to do anything that day. In truth, he had a strong inclination never to return to the Wunsch estate. Why not drop out quietly with some trumped-up excuse? He knew that the District Attorney resented his presence on the scene and would welcome his withdrawal.

So why not dump the whole business on the District Attorney?

By the time he blundered thru to the distressing half conclusions Doyle had reached, the Old Man would have been laid to rest beside the murdered lovers, and the mystery of their deaths might be effectually buried with him.

But the next morning Doyle returned to the Wunsch estate to carry on his self elected task, let the guilt fall where it might so long as it fell justly.

He went into conference with Adolph Wunsch in the locked room behind the stairs. Wunsch was, as the detective had expected he would be, puzzled and put out at Doyle's insistence on an interview with his father.

"What can you hope to learn from him?" Wunsch questioned with some asperity. "Even if he could speak, what could he tell you? We've kept everything from him. He believes Texie is still traveling abroad. When he was wakened by the attack on Mrs. Wunsch I told him we'd had a robbery. He doesn't know anything at all about Truman's death."

Doyle nodded wearily. "I know. But I must talk to him — must try to establish some communication with him," he maintained doggedly. "Dr. Blake tells me the hearing of the left ear has not been affected. So I ought to get some reactions to what I say. You'll have to leave it to me to know how to interpret those reactions."

"He's so old," Wunsch protested. "So close to death. And except for the few years of comfort I've been able to give him, his life has not been an easy one. I don't want it to end on a note of horror." He looked at Doyle pleadingly; but Doyle would not let himself be swayed.

College Thesis Recommends This Beauty Routine

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

A couple of college students at Drexel institute in Philadelphia turned in a thesis on beauty care which may be of interest to you young women of similar age. They began with the premise that there can be no glamor without cleanliness. Soap and other bath necessities were set down as prime essentials. To these they added dressing table appointments such as tweezers, manicure equipment, face cream, facial tissues and a powder base foundation. For special evening dates, they allowed an eyebrow pencil, mascara, eye shadow and an eyelash curler.

In working out their beauty time budgets, to the regular morning routine the girls allot 20 minutes, which gives time for soap-and-water shower, application of a deodorant, brushing teeth, application of foundation base, hair arranging and makeup.

For noon interlude, they suggest a five minute treatment consisting of a quick face cleansing and fresh makeup application.

Before a dinner date their budget calls for 30 minutes, beginning with time for a tub bath, followed by complete new makeup, including eyeshadow and eyebrow brushing.

For bedtime they put aside 30 minutes to include a bath if one was not taken before dinner, cleaning teeth, brushing hair thoroly and a thoro washing of face, neck and hands if no bath is taken at this time.

These young women advised their fellow students to put aside two hours every 10 days for a thoro shampoo.

Oatmeal cookies are dear to the hearts and appetites of childhood. Drop cookies filled with raisins, rolled, crisp oatmeal cookies, and the ones with raisin, date, or fig filling keep well, when they're allowed to keep at all, and are economical to make.

Spices, brown sugar, and nuts make these oatmeal drop cookies more delicious even than you may remember them to be.

Oatmeal Nut Drop Cookies.
[About 4 dozen].

1½ cups sifted flour
3½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon ginger
½ cup butter, margarine, vegetable shortening or lard
¾ cup brown sugar, packed firmly
1 beaten egg
½ cup chopped nuts
¾ cup raisins
1¾ cups oatmeal
½ cup milk

Sift flour with baking powder, salt and spices. Cream butter or other fat with the sugar until light and fluffy. Add beaten egg, nuts and raisins. Alternately add flour and oatmeal with milk. Mix well. Drop dough by teaspoons onto a greased baking sheet and bake at 350 degrees for 18 to 20 minutes.

Oatmeal, Nut and Raisin Cookies.
[About 6 dozen].

2 cups sifted flour
¾ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup shortening
1½ cups firmly packed brown sugar
2 beaten eggs
1½ cups oatmeal
1 cup chopped nuts
1 cup chopped raisins
¾ cup buttermilk or sour milk

Sift flour with soda, salt and spices. Cream sugar and shortening thoroly and add eggs. Add oatmeal, nuts and raisins. Alternately add milk and flour and oatmeal. Stir thoroly and drop by teaspoons onto a greased baking sheet. Let stand a few minutes, then stamp the cookies flat with the bottom of a tumbler, covered with a damp cloth. Bake at 325 degrees for 15 minutes.

Filled Oatmeal Cookies.
[About 4 dozen].

½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 beaten egg
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 cups oatmeal
½ cup sour cream

Cream shortening and sugar until light. Beat in the egg. Sift dry ingredients together, and add oatmeal. Add alternately with sour cream to creamed mixture. Roll out thin on a floured board or pastry canvas, and cut with a round cookie cutter. Place a teaspoon of filling on a cookie, top with another cookie, and press the edges firmly together. Prick the top of each cookie with a fork and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, until golden brown.

Raisin Filling.

1½ cups raisins
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon flour
½ cup water
½ cup chopped nuts

Combine flour and sugar. Mix all ingredients but nuts together, and cook until thick. Add nuts. Cool and use to fill cookies.

Readers of Tribune Give $1,623.68 for the Free Ice Fund

Readers of THE TRIBUNE contributed $1,623.68 this year to the Free Ice Fund, as compared with their gifts of $1,381.36 last year. The ice fund is maintained each summer by the United Charities with the coöperation of TRIBUNE readers. So that the fund would provide ice for babies' milk, children's food, and relief for the sick and aged in 300 families, the United Charities supplemented the fund with $269.47 and gave $500 to other agencies for free ice distribution. These are the Children's Memorial hospital, $100; the Municipal Tuberculosis dispensaries, $100, and the Infant Welfare society, $300.

In addition to the Free Ice Fund, THE TRIBUNE also sponsored a fund for Camp Algonquin, the vacation ground for underprivileged children and their mothers on the Fox river.

Dressy Two Piece Costume

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

If it's a dressy two piece costume you wish for your first fall social occasions, may be suggest this model? It may be variously designed to suit individual preference, such as in sleeve length, collarline, and fabric selection. At the left is sketched a version made of one material, with only the collar on the round neckline as contrast. The sleeves are full length. The other design gives the blouse a V neckline with rolled collar, shortens the sleeves to bracelet height, and contrasts the blouse and skirt.

All types of silks and soft, sheer woolens will make up well. In practical fabrics this outfit will be just as suitable for business wear as for "dates."

The beret pattern is No. 3425. It is styled for one headsize only, adaptable to individual measurements. The cost is 10 cents extra.

Style No. 3072 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 4⅛ yards of 39 inch material for long sleeved blouse and skirt of one material, with ¼ yard of contrasting for collar; 2 yards for separate ¾ sleeve blouse, 2 yards for separate skirt.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the fall and winter Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

How to Build Character? Here's Answer

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

How can I train my child to tell the truth?

How can I train my child to be self-controled?

How can I train my child to keep his word?

How can I train my child to respect other people's property?

When should I begin character training? My husband says our little boy is too young for such instruction.

My mother says my little girl is not old enough. When should I begin her character training?

So run the questions.

When should you begin your child's character training?

No need to ask me that.

You've already begun.

Whether you decided to or not, you've already begun to train your baby's character, the character of your little boy or girl. The home you provide and how you use it, your own character, disposition and actions, and your husband's with your child and with other people, these constantly mold your child's character.

The development of character, which I like to say better than the building of character, is tied up with every activity of your child.

So the building of character occurs simultaneously with his whole development. If you understand your child and manage him wisely each step of the way from babyhood, you are building his character well. Suggestion, example, cause and effect, example, guidance, and example again, are the tools you use. And of them all, your example is one of the great factors in your child's early life during that time when he is, of necessity, close to you.

If you always keep your promises, if you always tell him the truth, if you show consideration for others, if you evince regard for other people's possessions, if you allow all reasonable independence, if you ask instead of command, you do more to guide the forces of your child's nature than you could do with a thousand little sermons and labels of right and wrong.

In every aspect of a child's life his character is developing, and much of how it develops depends on us, on how we accomplish the routine physical care, on what opportunity we give him for play and what we give him to play with, on many of the seemingly trivial everyday events of his life. These happenings develop and crystalize his character.

Brookwood Country Club to Close Season With Tea

The Brookwood Country club will close its summer season with the annual fall bridge tea next Saturday afternoon. Mrs. David J. A. Hayes of River Forest is chairman of the party, at which there will be a fall fashion show. Mannequins will be members of the club and their daughters.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

There is one type of bid which experts abhor over all others. They don't mind if their partners put in an occasional "psychic." They do this themselves and can usually "handle" such bids, both on the sending and the receiving ends. What they are quite unable to handle is the "gulpic," an opening bid which is neither fish nor fowl, neither sound nor psychic, but "in between." A bid, for example, such as East's in the following deal:

East, dealer.
Match-point duplicate.

♠ 6 2
♥ 8 4 3 2
♦ 10 6 4

WEST
♠ 9 8 7 4 3
♥ A 7
♦ K 5

EAST
♠ K J 10
♥ Q J 9 6
♦ Q 7 3
♣ 10 6 5

SOUTH
♠ A Q 5
♥ K 10 5
♦ A J 9 8 2
♣ A 8

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 heart	Double	Pass	2 clubs
Pass	2 no trump	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

East's one heart opening bid was indefensible from every angle. Far short of the two and one-half honor tricks for an honest opening, the hand was equally far removed from the psychic class, being much too strong. The only result East attained by his abortive effort was to throw his own partner off balance. West, a player with an exceptionally keen "ear" for the bidding, was certain that East had not bid a worthless hand, and, naturally enough, could not visualize such a "dog" as East actually held. West knew that with an opening bid opposite him, a strong hand at South, and a couple of honor tricks in his own hand, North must have a "bust," hence there was no sense in passing to two no trump in the hope of getting a crack at a higher contract.

South's failure to run from the double of two no trump convinced West that South was not afraid of a heart opening. Hence, to keep the heart ace back of South's strength, West opened a low spade. Declarer captured's East's ten with the queen and immediately led a low diamond toward dummy's ten. This put West squarely on the spot, not that it mattered whether he ducked or played the king. But West figured that declarer might have a long diamond suit missing only the king, and now was trying to "put over a fast one." So West jumped up with the king and shifted to the club queen, feeling that East must have the club ace and that the only way to defeat the contract was to take three club tricks and a couple of hearts on a lead thru declarer. To West's disgust, however, dummy's club king won this trick and a diamond finesse against East's queen produced four diamond tricks for the declarer. These, with the A-Q of spades and the A-K of clubs, rounded out the doubled contract and gave North-South a game on the board.

It would have been equally futile for West to have ducked on the low diamond lead toward dummy. The ten would have forced East's queen, no return from East could have collected many tricks, and later declarer would have laid down his diamond ace and caught West's blank king on the theory that West's penalty double virtually guaranteed the possession of one diamond honor.

On Current Discussions.

There are many things for friends and families to disagree about these days, national and international, and as one of the usual arguments between an isolationist and an interventionist (nasty word undoubtedly thought up by the isolationists) went on we thought of some comments of Mrs. Miniver's in Jan Struther's book of that name. Mrs. Miniver was getting a little weary of exchanging ideas, especially political ones, and of hearing other people exchange them.

It's all very well, she reflected, when the ideas have had time to flower, or at least to bud, so that we can pick them judiciously, present them with a bow, and watch them unfold in the warmth of each other's understanding; but there is far too much nowadays of pulling up the wretched little things just to see how they are growing. Half the verbal sprigs we hand each other are nothing but upended rootlets. . . .

COURAGE.

Words fade with years,
They blur with tears;

Or like a yellowed page
Grow dim with age;

Joy, and love, and youth,
And dreams, and even truth—

Time, one by one erases
Their meaning; in their places

Stands one, undimmed, unblurred,
Courage is that word..

Worriers.

Jerry Freshman tells the story of the two Jews sent to Germany to assassinate Hitler. They waited for him in a car parked near a corner he was scheduled to pass at 12 o'clock, weapons of death at hand. Twelve o'clock passed, 12:15, and 12:30.

"I hope nothing has happened to him," worried one of the would-be assassins.

Size 12, Blue, Persian Lamb Trim.

Miss Gladyce Filer, Chicago dress designer, received a rush order recently from a department store in Indianapolis. It called for one of her dress designs to be made up in a certain shade of blue—a cross between teal and navy—size 12, trimmed with Persian lamb.

There was no explanation with the order other than the customer was leaving for New York in two days and that the suit must be made up and delivered to the purchaser within 36 hours. This was accomplished. The customer, wearing a Chicago-designed traveling suit, left on the first lap of a trip that will not end until the first Tuesday in November. The customer: Mrs. Wendell Willkie.

Poor Marksman.

A young man was asked whether he wanted to try for a commission in the army.

"I don't shoot very well," he answered. "I think I had better go in on a straight salary basis."

The Housewife

The vases so popular in our grandmothers' day—the ones that are made in the shape of a woman's hand—are now seen frequently in Victorian decorative schemes. Have you seen the topaz and green glass ones, made in France, and large enough to hold a real bouquet of zinnias or early asters? They're most picturesque and appealing and not a bit expensive. And they do hold flowers so gracefully. These particular vases are of a woman's hand holding a flute-edged cone and are of quite heavy glass.

Child Unhappy with Too Strict Foster Parents

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

A child of divorced parents brings her problem to us today. As this 16 year old tells it, her mother was the victim of a drinking and hard-to-live-with husband. She divorced him when the girl was 9, and presently remarried a man who lives in another part of the country. The girl [Eunice, we'll call her, altho it is not her right name], was left behind with an aunt and uncle. The aunt is her mother's sister. They are childless, adored the youngster and wanted to give her something which her mother's divorced career denied her.

Now comes the question of boy friends in Eunice's life. Aunt and uncle are determined that she will not make her mother's mistake, marrying extremely young and marrying a man about whom she knows very little. So the drama of perhaps too-conscientious adoptive parents with a lone chick on their hands unfolds. They simply will not permit Eunice to entertain a boy in the home. She confesses to sneaking out and meeting them on corners, writing notes to boys and receiving them thru girl friends. And now young Eunice writes:

"I think my own mother would understand better. I wish I could go and live with her. I think she would let me have boy friends, but when I write to her begging her to let me come to live with her, she always has some excuse."

The solution? Is there one with mother what she is and the aunt and uncle set on bringing up the girl without benefit of boy companionship? If the latter wish to protect the miss against duplicating her mother's mistake they will let her bring boys home, entertain them there, encourage companionships and give the girl the assurance that they are her best friends and ever will remain her mainstay in the troubled years of young romance.

The Stage

"Ladies in Retirement," last season's melodramatic hit on Broadway, will open at the Harris theater on Sept. 30 as originally announced. It will be the first offering of the American Theater society, with the run limited to three weeks. Altho announced for a local opening once before, the play was suddenly slated to end its tour in San Francisco on Saturday night by its producer, Gilbert Miller. Fortunately, the Theater Guild has now taken over the management and will continue the tour as first planned, keeping the cast, headed by Flora Robson, intact. The American Theater society's second presentation will be William Saroyan's Pulitzer prize-winning "The Time of Your Life," with Eddie Dowling. It will open at the Erlanger theater on Oct. 28.

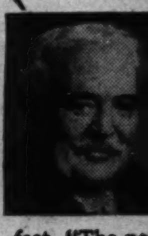
AMERICA'S FINEST HAM



THE HAM YOU CUT WITH A FORK

There's an old saying to the effect, "The nearer the bone, the sweeter the meat." This definitely is not the case with Wilson's Certified Bone-In Tender Made Ham. Because of Wilson's famous Secret Process (which even I do not know about), every morsel of one of these hams is equally tender, equally sweet and equally succulent. Cut and carve as you will at this ready-to-eat ham, it's all fine eating!

Have a Marinated Tender Made Ham Steak

Since it is preferable to have meat at room temperature before cooking, I am going to suggest that you marinate your next Wilson Tender Made Ham steak while it is losing its refrigerator chill.

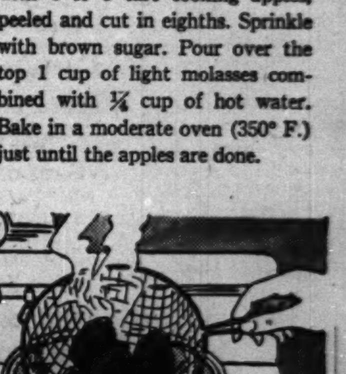
To marinate is simply to soak in a seasoned or spiced liquid. For this steak, mix 1 cup of orange juice with 2 tablespoons of lemon juice, 2 tablespoons of brown sugar, 1 teaspoon of mustard powder and 1 tablespoon of Worcestershire sauce. Pour this marinade over the steak. Let it soak for 1 hour, turn and leave it for another hour.

Then heat steak in a moderate oven (350° F.) for about 20 minutes, with the marinade poured over it. Serve piping hot on a garnished platter.

APPLES ARE IN!

The new cooking apples are in—crisp, juicy, plentiful and cheap. Combine them with Tender Made Ham and molasses to make a mouth-watering entree for lunch or dinner.

Cut enough Tender Made Ham to make about 3 cupfuls of half-inch cubes. Place in a casserole. Cover with 4 or 5 tart cooking apples, peeled and cut in eighths. Sprinkle with brown sugar. Pour over the top 1 cup of light molasses combined with ¼ cup of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) just until the apples are done.



Raisin-Ham Croquettes

Put through a food chopper sufficient of the shank end of a Wilson Tender Made Ham to make 2 cups of minced ham. Combine ham with 1½ cups of soft bread crumbs, 1 cup of thick white sauce, and ½ cup of seedless raisins which have been soaked a few minutes in boiling water and then well drained. Add 2 tablespoons minced parsley and salt and pepper to taste, and mix well. Form into 10 small patties. Dip in 1 egg beaten with 1 tablespoon of water, roll in fine dry bread crumbs. Deep-fry in Wilson's Certified All-Purpose Shortening (385° F.) until a rich golden brown. Serves 5.

The 90 million Americans who may go to work for Hitler

SOUTH of the isthmus of Panama, like a fat pear hanging upside down from a slender stem, lies a continent inhabited by 90 million people—South Americans who may have to work for Hitler.

Already the conqueror is reaching greedily for the South American pear. Already the Nazi advance agents crawl over it like beetles... searching out the soft spots... nibbling at morale... burrowing tunnels underneath the surface.

▶ Whether these moves by Nazi Germany mean Blitzkrieg or Handelskrieg—military thrust or trade war—they promise to put Uncle Sam on perhaps the hottest spot of his career.

For although the Americas have, of late years, given the "Good neighbor" idea more than lip-service, they are off to a late start. The two continents in this hemisphere have, for centuries, drawn their oceans about them like blankets... have had for each other that distrust which has its roots in ignorance.

Now, with the clock of Europe striking the eleventh hour, once again it appears that ignorance—like crime—does not pay.

▶ Colombia, with its two-ocean seacoast... Venezuela, teeming with oil... Ecuador, whose Galápagos Islands command the Southern approach to the Panama Canal... Bolivia, which may have to become sole U. S. source of tin... Argentina, Europe's potential breadbasket... Brazil, bigger than the 48 United States and four-fifths as large as Europe...

Through no act of its own, every one of these nations has, overnight, become a potential powder keg under Uncle Sam. With the U. S. still unprepared, with a two-ocean Navy four to six years away, there is good reason for furrowed brows in Washington.

▶ Should we give up hope? Watch the South American stars drawn into the Nazi constellation? See our trade arteries severed and our life blood drained away?

No. For, in addition to the moves being made in Washington, there exist forces which can help thwart the Nazi pull of gravity. These forces are the newspapers of both continents.

▶ Peru's El Comercio—101-year-old daily... Chile's El Mercurio—founded in 1827... Argentina's La Nación, La Critica, and the great La Prensa, one of the most influential newspapers in the world... Brazil's Portuguese-language Correio da Manhã... are newspapers of which any nation could be proud.

And since the Nazi hordes poured into Holland, South American papers have stepped up their U. S. news. The Brazilian or Argentine newsreader can now discuss the Third Term issue as intelligently as he can the Havana conference. Even U. S. comic strips are a daily feature. Popeye the Sailor caused a near-crisis in the spinach market.

▶ But what's true south of the isthmus is less true north of it. The average U. S. newsreader, business man, industrialist, knows less about Buenos Aires or Rio, than he knows about Berlin or Battle Creek. But he wants to know more! The U. S. press is now recognizing that it is faced with a tremendous challenge—the discovery of South America.

There are signs that progressive papers, large and small, are accepting this challenge. Crack correspondents—men like William Simms of Scripps-Howard; Walter B. Kerr Jr., of the N. Y. Herald Tribune, and Wayne Thomis of the Chicago Tribune, have been—or soon will be—filing stories direct from the trouble spots. Throughout the country, AP and UP South American dispatches are finding their way into print, instead of into Editors' wastebaskets.

▶ And the Weekly Newsmagazine, as the national U. S. newspaper, is in the forefront of this march of enlightenment.

Staff correspondents, researchers, and photographers for the entire TIME family—TIME, LIFE, FORTUNE, and the MARCH OF TIME movie—have all helped to build up a remarkable reservoir of South American facts, contacts, and first-hand experience.

This invaluable background constantly enriches TIME's news from the southern continent. And now TIME is further increasing its coverage... opening a new office in Buenos Aires, expanding its staff in Rio... digging for more and fuller stories from every Latin-American city.

▶ Moreover, TIME's news wires run both ways. TIME now supplies U. S. news to selected South American papers—news that, in these grave new days, makes important headlines.

True words and straight facts are weapons—weapons to be turned against ignorance, indifference, and fear. TIME is supplying these true words and straight facts in a battle unaccompanied by gunfire—but as critical to the U. S. as Saratoga or Gettysburg.

In these days of crisis, the free press is more than ever a vital force in making our democracy a living, working success. Therefore, TIME is seeking, in this series of advertisements, to give all the readers of this newspaper a clearer picture of what the press in general, and TIME in particular, are doing to keep the people of this nation safe, strong, free, and united.

YANKEES DIVIDE, TIGERS WIN; BATTLE TODAY

MOON MULLINS—HIGH MINDED

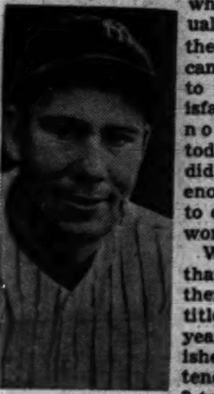
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.: Copyright, 1940, by News Syndicate Co., Inc.

DEFEAT FELLER, INDIANS, 3 TO 1; THEN LOSE, 5 TO 3

Bonham Scores 5th in Row.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Sept. 11.—The four time champion Yankees, the fellows who may eventually unscramble the torrid American league race to their own satisfaction, made no headway today. Neither did they lose enough ground to cause them worry.



Ernie Bonham.

With the class that has fetched them four world titles in as many years, they polished off the contending Indians, 3 to 1, in the first half of a double header, played in rain, semidarkness, and lemon showers. But the Yanks failed in the second struggle, 5 to 3, in five and a half innings. By that time nobody could see.

Included in the wreckage caused by the champions in the first struggle was the peerless Bob Feller, who thought he was going to collect his 25th victory of the year. Instead of that he was pushed to his ninth defeat. Having whipped the Indians' bellwether, the Yankees came forth with old Charles Ruffing in the second affair. They even gave him a two run lead at the start, but he collapsed under a five run deluge in the third. After a long delay because of rain there was a little more play, but it didn't bother Al Smith, the Indian lefty.

Tigers Return to Top.

As the result of the even break there wasn't much of a change in the flag standings. The one change was that the Tigers, having whipped the Boston Red Sox, returned to first place, where the Indians had been for 24 hours. The Yanks remained in third, but still the serious threat. The difference between the Tigers and Indians is a half game. The Yanks are a full game from the top. But they moved over to Detroit this evening, not at all worried about the situation. In a three game series starting with the Tigers tomorrow they expect to adjust everything.

The Yanks didn't do much to Feller in the first game, altho they did help their own cause by not swinging until they had him in a hole. They did just enough to prove that a few hits, well spaced or for distance, could accomplish the work of a dozen or more scattered blows. They reached the Iowa wizard for five safeties in his eight inning performance and none of the five went to waste. Two of the five came from the bat of Joe DiMaggio, who scored the first run and drove in the second.

Bonham Shackles Indians.

While Feller was failing in the most important job of his pennant winning effort, the Yanks were flashing their freshman, Ernie Bonham, recently called in from Kansas City. The giant kid from California showed himself a pitching master. He was hit five times in the first three innings, but the boy was only starting. In the six subsequent innings not one Indian reached base, so he recorded his fifth straight. In these five games he has issued only one pass.

The champions set forth in the second game as if they intended to follow up with a complete rout of the enemy. They touched off a two run lead against Smith in the opening inning, but the advantage held up only until the third. Babe Dahlgren erred on what should have been the second

Kromer Won't Quit; Reports to Michigan

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 11 [Special].—Paul Kromer returned to the Michigan football squad unexpectedly today, bringing with him the hope that perhaps he wasn't thru with football after all.

Paul Kromer.

Coaches and doctors counted him out last spring as the result of an injured knee, incurred in the opening game last fall. As a result he was not invited to return yesterday. However, Kromer, feeling that since he had been able to play softball all summer, he should be able to play football this fall, turned up anyway. Just how strong his knee is cannot be ascertained until he has tried it under game conditions.

Bob Ingalls, first string center, was injured in today's drill and was taken to the health service for observation.

ILLINI SCRIMMAGE.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 11 [Special].—Coach Bob Zuppke shifted several candidates when bracing weather enabled him to put the Illini thru a brisk scrimmage today. Bob Cherry and Ken Cheeley, centers, and Dave Dillon, end, went to tackle; Don Pasaka, end, to full back; Art Marlaire, end, to quarter back. Jack Turner, varsity sprinter, was tried at half back.

Scrimmage lineups were as follows:

Orange: Ends—Campbell, Busey, Phillips, O'Neill. Tackles—Cheeley, Cherry, Johnson, Giffin. Guards—McKenzie, Mari, McCullough, Ingle. Center—Wilford, Bader. Quarter back—O'Brien, McCarthy. Half backs—Easterbrook, Falkenstein, Brown, Turner. Full back—Pfeifer, Pasaka.

FIRST IRISH CASUALTIES.

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 11 [Special].—Two of Notre Dame's four weakest positions, left end and full back, were depleted further today when George Rassas and Bernie Crimmins were temporarily shelved with injuries as rain again hampered workouts.

Rassas, who is trying to replace Bud Kerr, Frank Biagia, and Pete Arbolt, last year's three lettermen, at left end, suffered a cut over the right eye. Crimmins, who was shifted from right half back to full back yesterday, pulled a leg muscle.

Today's double session was the second and last of the season. Classes start tomorrow morning.

OHIO TAKES TO AIR.

Columbus, O., Sept. 11 [Special].—Ohio State spent the day today concentrating on forward passes. Three triple threat backs, Quarter Back Don Scott, Full Back Jim Langhurst, and Left Half Back Jim Strausbaugh, literally kept the air filled with footballs. Coach Francis Schmidt plans a short scrimmage tomorrow.

WHITE SOX POUND LEONARD FOR 16 HITS; WIN, 7 TO 4

Rigney Beats Senators for 14th; Kuhel Gets No. 23.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox, after taking five whippings this season from Dutch Leonard of the Washington Senators, yesterday got a heap of revenge by blasting the able knuckle baller for 16 hits, the assortment being good for a 7 to 4 Chicago victory. The slugging festival was led by Joe Kuhel, who had a triple, two singles, and his 23d homer in four times at bat, and with nary a smack wasted.

The success enabled the Sox to take the season series from the Washington gentlemen, 12 victories to 10. It also gave Johnny Rigney his fourteenth favorable decision of the year.

Leonard, who heretofore had got tougher and tougher as each of his games with the Sox progressed, got softer and softer in the late innings yesterday. A two run homer by George Case in the fifth wiped out a 2 to 0 Chicago lead, and this seemed an ominous development in the light of past events. But the Sox made two runs in the sixth to break the tie and in the seventh added to their margin of victory on three runs produced by a homer and five singles.

Sox First to Score.

The Sox surprised themselves and everybody else by making a run off Leonard in the first inning. Skeeter Webb and Mike Tresh started the offensive with the kind of attack the Sox previously this season had made on the occasions when they were confronted by Leonard. They flied out. Then Kuhel launched his demonstration that Dutch isn't a superman, earlier Sox theories to the contrary. Joe banged a triple to right and scored on Solters' single to left.

The Sox started as tho bent on a basketful in the fourth, with Kuhel again the bellwether. Joe opened with a single and Solters also singled. Luke Appling singled to right, scoring Kuhel. One of Leonard's pitches bounced several feet out of Rick Ferrell's glove and Moose Solters was out trying to reach third. Taft Wright walked, but Mike Kreevich hit into a double play.

Senators Tie Score.

A single by Ferrell preceded Case's game tying homer in the fifth.

The Chicago fellows went ahead again in the sixth, Kuhel for the third time touching off the enterprise with a hit, this one a single. Solters forced Kuhel and Appling walked, after which Wright singled to center, Solters scoring and Appling taking third. Kreevich forced Wright, Appling scoring.

Five singles and Kuhel's homer netted the Sox only three runs in the seventh. Rigney opened with a single and forgot to stop at first, whereupon he was tossed out at second. Webb flied to Case, but Tresh singled and scored on Kuhel's homer. Solters, Appling, and Wright then knocked successive singles for the third run.

Rigney wilted somewhat in the ninth. Jack Sanford, Sherry Robertson, and Ferrell loaded the bases on successive singles. Jake Early batted for Leonard and fanned, then Case walked, forcing Sanford home. Robertson got home on Buddy Lewis' fly. Walker ended the game with a foul to Kuhel.

CHICAGO BEARS PLAY CALUMET STARS TONIGHT

The Chicago Bears, who have been hopping about the country attempting to play themselves into shape for the opening of their National Football league season a week from Sunday in Green Bay, stop off at East Chicago, Ind., tonight to engage the Calumet All-Stars in the annual St. Catherine's hospital benefit game. The game will start at 8:30 o'clock, and will be played in Roosevelt High school stadium.

It will be the Bears' fifth preseason exhibition. They will wind up their practice schedule in Kalamazoo Saturday night against the St. Louis Gunners.

CUBS TAKE TWO FROM DODGERS; OL' DIZ TRIUMPHS

Wins, 3-2, After Passeau Scores 18th, 8-5.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 11 [Special].—The Cubs unveiled the ex-celebrated Dizzy Dean this afternoon in the second game of a double header with the Dodgers and the old boy treated himself and 10,195 fans to a six hit, 3 to 2 victory after the Cubs had won the first game, 8 to 5.

The Cubs overwhelmed Whitlow Wyatt, Ed Head, Vito Tamulis, and Tex Carleton in the first game with a 14 hit assault, which included Bill Nicholson's 23d home run of the season. Claude Passeau's third try for his 18th victory of the season was successful. He gave up nine scattered hits.

Passeau was in trouble in the fourth and fifth innings, but never thereafter. The Cubs gave him a four run margin in four innings. Chicago sewed up the game with three runs in the seventh by driving Tamulis to cover on four hits, three of which were doubles.

Diz Pitches with Confidence.

Dean didn't seem to have much in the second game, but what he had was too much for the Dodgers. They swung unsuccessfully at his nothing ball. The glamor boy pitched with his old-time confidence.

Except for the two runs scored by the Dodgers, Ol' Diz was in difficulty only once, and that in the sixth inning when he dodged trouble by striking out Pete Coscarart with the bases filled.

After three months' absence from the big time, Dean tonight could claim something by way of a successful comeback.

The Cubs gave the champion Cincinnati Reds a big lift as the double defeat extinguished the last championship spark Leo Durocher and his once dashing band of athletes might have had. The Reds, winning two games, stretched their lead to nine full games, with 20 left to play. Brooklyn has 19 remaining.

FIRST GAME

Nicholson opened the Cub drive in the first inning of the opening game with his twenty-third homer of the season, a drive that cleared the scoreboard in right field. Wyatt survived the next two innings, but the Cubs blasted him for three more runs in the fourth. Leiber, first up, was hit by a pitched ball and after Bonura went out, Gleeson slapped a double to left. Collins was purposely passed to fill the bases and Mattick doubled to center, scoring Leiber and Gleeson. Collins then scored when Passeau flied to Vosmik.

The Dodgers started to whittle at the Cubs' lead in the fourth. Collins started the trouble when he dropped Wasdell's pop fly in front of the plate. Vosmik walked and the bases were filled when Coscarart beat out a bunt to Hack. Hudson fanned, but Wasdell scored on Franks' long fly.

The Cubs drove ahead in the fifth with another run on Nicholson's double and Leiber's single. The Dodgers, however, came back with two in their half of the inning. With two out, Wasdell singled to center and Vosmik drew a pass. Coscarart's double drove both runners home.

The Cubs sent Tamulis to the showers in the seventh, scoring three runs. Herman opened with a double and came home on a double by Bonura. Gleeson's third two base hit of the game brought Bonura home, and Gleeson scored when Hudson made a bad throw to first on Collins' infield bounder.

SECOND GAME

Grissom struck out Hack and Nicholson in the first inning of the second game, but Bonura whacked a home run into the left field stand in the second inning to give the Cubs the game's first run.

As early as the first pitch, Dean

Wildcats Have Plenty Backs but No Line!

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Alf Bauman.

Under the heading, Letter Men Lost, are the following names: John Haman, Hal Method, John Goldak, Don Guritz, Nick Cutlich, Frank Young, Bob Daly, Ted Grefe. This list includes every ranking Northwestern line man of 1939 with the exception of Corne Aarts.

There are several letter men returning, including a pair of acceptable ends, Jim Smith and Al Butherus. Big Alf Bauman, a tackle; Joe Lokanc, a guard, and Paul Hiemenz, who relieved Haman at center, also are included in the miscellaneous group of line candidates. Nevertheless, Northwestern's loss by graduation presents an insurmountable barrier.

Got Any Ideas, Reader?

Last season Northwestern defeated Wisconsin, Illinois, and Minnesota. It was beaten by Ohio State, the conference champion, by Purdue, 3 to 0, and tied by Iowa's Iron Men in the final game. If the 1939 line failed in these games, how can last year's substitutes, with a scattering of inexperienced sophomores, hope to do better?

This question undoubtedly has been worrying Line Coach Burt Ingwersen and Head Coach Lynn Waldorf, who will be starting his sixth season at Northwestern. Even with scant material available it will not be surprising if Northwestern comes up with one set of fair linemen. But major league football isn't played by one team any more. Superior numbers will overwhelm one team, and the only adequate protection is at least two men for each position.

Complete survey of Northwestern's prospects includes a second chapter far more encouraging. The Wildcats have fine back field talent, at least two men of approximately equal ability for each position. Now there are

DETROIT WHIPS RED SOX, 11 TO 7; REGAINS LEAD

Tops N. Y. by Game, Cleveland by Half.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 11 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers laid down an 18 hit attack to overcome some erratic pitching today as they defeated the Boston Red Sox, 11 to 7, and vaulted back into first place in the American league.

Charley Gehringer.

Coupled with the split at Cleveland between the Indians and the New York Yankees, the victory left the Tigers half a game, or four percentage points ahead of the Tribesmen and a full game, or seven percentage points up on the champion Yankees, who open a three game series here tomorrow.

Greenberg, Doerr Hit Homers.

The Tiger blows included Hank Greenberg's 31st homer of the season with Barney McCosky on base in the fourth inning. Bobby Doerr of the Sox smashed his 21st homer in the fifth with Manager Joe Cronin on base.

Fred Hutchinson, the $70,000 rookie of 1939, started for the Tigers but gave up in the third. Johnny Gorsica followed and lasted until a Boston rally in the seventh. Archie McKain came in to finish and get credit for his fifth straight relief victory. The Red Sox used Jack Wilson, Les Fleming, Joe Heving, Denny Galehouse, and Earl Johnson.

Tigers Score in Clusters.

Charley Gehringer hit two doubles and three singles and drove in four runs. McCosky had four singles.

Boston scored a run in each of the first three innings, but Detroit led with two in the first and as many in the third. Greenberg's homer was the high spot of a four run rally in the fourth. The Red Sox tied the score with two runs in the fifth on Doerr's homer and two more in the seventh that were set up by Doerr's triple.

In the last of the seventh McKain started a rally with a single that produced two runs for Detroit. The Tigers picked up two more in the eighth when a single by Gehringer sent two runners home.

Long lines of people crowded the box offices purchasing tickets for the series with the Yankees. Manager Del Baker of the Tigers plans to pitch Lynwood Rowe, Tommy Bridges, and Louie [Buck] Newsom against the Yanks in the order named.

Time Out for Entertainment

Followers of the Wake have an evening in store for them when they can forget about Stuka bombers, military objectives, and destroyer deals. That evening will come on Friday, Sept. 20, when they march home with a copy of the 1940 In the Wake of the News book.

They'll even forget about the draft when they get to reading those sage observations by Jazbo of Old Dubuque, those quips by Eddie Drake, and those verses by T. E. B. and Hilda Butler Farr.

This 64 page volume contains the best items published in the Wake during the last year. It will be on sale at all news stands for 10 cents. Mail orders, at 13 cents, are now being received by the Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street.

REDS, WALTERS BLANK BEES, 8-0; WIN SECOND, 3-1

Eddie Miller Makes First Error in 41 Games.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 11 (AP).—With their pitching aces, Bucky Walters and Paul Derringer, operating effectively, the Cincinnati Reds said their 1940 farewell to the Boston Bees today by sweeping a double header, 8 to 0 and 3 to 1. It was the 19th victory for each pitcher. In the second contest Eddie Miller of the Bees made his first error in 41 games. Score:

AKNUSTI ENTERS POLO FINALS BY WINNING, 11 TO 6

Westbury, N. Y., Sept. 11 (AP).—The Gerry brothers, Elbridge and Bobby, led their Aknusti foursome into the finals of the National open polo tournament today by defeating Winston Guest's Gulf Stream four 11 to 6.

The brothers scored four times each with Gerry Smith getting three goals. Alan Corey, at back, did expert work stemming the sporadic tries of the losers. Ben Phipps scored once for Gulf Stream with Mike Phipps scoring four times and Guest once.

The Aknusti team thus qualified to meet Stewart's Iglehart's Great Neck four on International field Sunday for the championship.

out with none on base. Given this opening, the Tribe charged thru with a series of hits good for five runs.

Art Fletcher, Yankees' third base coach, was the main target of those fans among the 33,471 who came equipped with fruit and vegetables. During the first game they sent lemons, bananas, and ripe tomatoes in his direction. Manager Joe McCarthy protested to the umpires, but they did nothing about it. A few pieces of fruit also were aimed at Charley Keller in left field and Earl Combs, coaching at first base. No hits were scored, however.

FIRST GAME

Feller fanned two of the three facing him in the opening inning, but the champions became unruly in the second. DiMaggio walloped a line two bagger into left. Heath galloped almost to the foul line to grab Keller's drive, which with a few more feet of carry, would have cleared the low barrier. Dickey was out on a liner to Weatherly, but an instant later Dahlgren changed the battle's complexion slightly by singling to center, DiMaggio scoring. Crosetti then walked and Bonham fanned.

A dinky hit started the Indians toward the tying run in the third. It was a bounder by Weatherly over Bonham's head with one out. Keller took Heath's fly for the second out. Then Boudreau hit a low fly to right and Selkirk attempted a shoestring catch, but slipped, the ball rolling to the wall for a triple, Weatherly scoring. Bell grounded out.

Gordon walked for the second time with none out in the sixth. Rolfe bunted to Bell, but Mack was so slow getting over to cover first that it was turned into a base hit. Selkirk also bunted, but on the fly to Keltner, who threw to first to double Rolfe. The throw hit the runner and rolled away. Rolfe dashed for second, but was nailed, Bell to Boudreau, Gordon meanwhile taking third on the error. He scored when DiMaggio bounced a soft single past Keltner.

It didn't take the Yankees long in the seventh to make it 3 to 1. Gordon, who had walked twice, picked out an overcautious pitch and sent it to the side of the 435 foot end of the grandstand for a triple. He scored after Rolfe's fly.

SECOND GAME

Lefty Smith opened his portion of the day's labors by walking Gordon and a bit later had reason to regret his carelessness. Rolfe slashed a liner into right, but Chapman made a successful grab. Selkirk singled to right, putting Gordon on third. DiMaggio poked the ball into short center to score Gordon. Weatherly, not counting on DiMaggio's speed, took his time and the Frisco flyer stretched his blow into a double. Rosar was purposely passed, but Smith couldn't relocate the plate, so Keller also walked, Selkirk scoring. Dahlgren's hopper to Boudreau was turned into a double play.

The Indians, after two hitless innings against Ruffing, got their start in the third when, with one out, Dahlgren missed Crosetti's throw on Chapman for a two base error. Weatherly sneaked a two bagger between Rolfe and third base, Chapman scoring. Heath singled to center and Weatherly ran in with the tying run. Boudreau tapped to Ruffing, who threw wild trying to force Heath, who went to third, Boudreau taking second. The pair ran home on Bell's double to left and Bell scored the fifth run on Keltner's single. Sundra stopped the rally.

Keller led off in the Yankee fourth by beating out a bounder to Mack. The rain came in a big way and after a long delay the tarpaulin was peeled back and play was resumed. Smith immediately pitched himself into a load of trouble, but he worked himself out of it with a minimum of damage. He walked Dahlgren and Crosetti, filling the bases with none out. Powell was sent up to bat for Sundra, but he fanned. Gordon sent a long fly to Heath, Keller scoring. Rolfe then popped out.

Badgers Hunt Guards; Move Gage to Line

Madison, Wis., Sept. 11 [Special].—A tentative first team of seven seniors, three juniors and a sophomore was selected today by Coach Harry Stuhldreher as the Wisconsin football squad engaged in its second day of practice.

The lineup included Ray Kreick and Al Lorenz at the ends, Dick Thornally and Elmer Tornow at the tackles, Gordon Gile and Dick Embick at the guards, Fred Ladewig at center, Johnny Tenant at quarter back, Bob Willding and Don Miller as half backs and George Paskvan at full back.

Thornally, a Chicago high school product, is the sophomore. The juniors are Kreick, Ladewig and Miller.

Stuhldreher and Line Coach Bob Reagan continued to search for replacements at guard, where Embick is the only veteran available. Gile has been shifted to guard after playing tackle last year and end in 1938 and Fred Gage, a quarter back for two seasons, also is being tried at guard.

IOWA LOSES NORGAARD.

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 11 [Special].—The University of Iowa football squad suffered its first setback today when Coach Eddie Anderson announced Jens Norgaard, veteran end slated for a first team berth, had dropped out to continue work in aeronautics.

Norgaard worked out yesterday, but found that his flying work conflicted with football drills. He is a member of the advanced flying school here.

PURDUE SCRIMMAGES AGAIN.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 11 [Special].—Four sophomore backs, Marion Carter, Bryan Brock, Jim Cary, and Bill Buffington, were given extended kicking drills today as Purdue wound up its double session drills. This quartet, along with the veterans John Petty and John Galvin, turned in the most finished performances. Coach Mal Elward, taking advantage of the last double drill, wound up the afternoon workout with a short scrimmage, the second in two days.

BILLMAN JOINS GOPHERS.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 11 [Special].—Appearance of John Billman, veteran lineman, for practice today cut down the list of important Minnesota absentees to one. Mike Welch, promising sophomore blocking back, will not join until later in the week. Billman was placed at right guard instead of tackle. The varsity donned headgears and the backs carried the ball thru tackle candidates.

George Franck, seven pounds under weight because of the flu, was excused today. Bob Paffrath filled in for him at right half.

RAABS MEET HERMANS.

Joan Clark of the Herman Drugs and Lena Gurnic of the Raab Tailors will pitch against each other in a softball game tonight in Rand stadium, 1900 East 75th street.

For Defense Only.

Rise up, America!
Do not stand idly by
While precious moments are fleeing by.
Gird thyself, as knights of old
In coats of mail met warriors bold.
Wait not a day, but now begin
To crush thy traitors from within.

Build! Build of iron and steel,
Battleships strong from stern to keel.
Into the sky armadas send
Of airplanes with bombs and speed no end.
Call up thy men, a million strong,
To make thy columns wide and long.

Depend not on the whims of chance,
As did our bleeding sister, France,
Nor on diplomatic wiles—
That almost lost the British Isles.
Recall that shorter hours and higher wages
Will not protect from bombing rages.
And that wealth, now held so dear,
Is worthless when the enemy's near.
Let all remember to think twice
This job calls for sacrifice!

For into thy hands it now is given
To uphold standards set by heaven.
To thee, from far across the sea,
Eyes turn to test democracy.
Rise up, America, as one man
And claim thy destiny!

Blatz Bowlers Roll 3,079 to Win 2 Games

The Blatz Brewing company team bowled 1,027, 1,038, and 1,014 for a 3,079 total in the Classic league last night at the Sheridan Recreation to win two games from Ambrosia. This puts Blatz in a three way tie for first place with Ruppert and Monarch. The Monarchs, shooting 3,003, won two from Michelob, the second game by one pin. Koenig-Brau took two from Ruppert, and Pabst defeated Schlitz twice despite a 3,051 total by the latter. Schlitz bowled 1,122 in the second game, which included a 265 game by Joe Traubenik. Marlowe Thompson bowled 245, 215, and 211 for a 671 total.

The Congress recreation team again swept its series last night to take the lead in the Congress women's major bowling league with six games won and none lost. Its victory was scored over the Milo Wiesner recreation five. The Budweisers rolled the evening's highest series, 2,588, to win two from Bruck's recreation and the Logan Square Buicks won a pair from the Pabst Blue Ribbons. Irene Engel of the Budweisers was high with 576. Florence Lange of the Newarts rolled high game, 234.

made it evident he didn't have the old "fog ball," but in the first two innings he threw several which fooled the Dodgers.

Dean walked Reiser to open the Dodger first, but Walker flied out. Medwick lined to Herman and when Bill tried for a double play he threw wild to Bonura. Phelps managed to get a walk, but Diz struck out Gallagher.

Dean retired the side in the second, striking out Coscarart. He started the third by fanning Grissom. Reiser singled to center, but Walker hit into a double play. In the fourth, Medwick led off with a double to right. Phelps fouled to Mack, but Medwick came home with the tying run when Gallagher singled to center. Diz retired the next two hitters.

Dean Escapes a Jam.

In the last of the sixth Dean rose to the heights when he fanned Coscarart with the bases filled and two out. With one out, Medwick walked. Phelps popped out, but Gallagher singled to center and Franks walked. The crowd gave Diz a big cheer when he fanned Coscarart.

The Cubs drew away to a two run lead in the seventh. Nicholson beat out a hit to Reiser, but was forced by Bonura. Gleeson tripled to right, scoring Bonura and Gleeson came home when Grissom fumbled Todd's grounder.

AUKER, BROWNS' LONG HITS BEAT ATHLETICS, 3-0

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 11 (AP).—Philadelphia's effort to pull up from the cellar was foiled today, 3 to 0, by the Browns, who thus widened their margin over the A's to two games.

Each team got only five hits, but the Browns' quintet off George Caster included triples by George McQuinn and Elden Auker, a double by Rip Radcliff, and Harland Clift's 18th home run. Score:

WARD AND THREE CHICAGOANS WIN IN AMATEUR GOLF

Champion Eliminates Knowles and Haas.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mamaroneck, N. Y., Sept. 11.—Marvin [Bud] Ward of Spokane, Wash., is still the amateur golf champion of these United States. He gave convincing evidence of his position again today by playing 29 holes in three under par in achieving two victories in the 44th national tournament at the Winged Foot club.

Ward, a master of determination who hits his shots with a professional finesse, started out by eliminating 54 year old Ellis Knowles of Rye, N. Y., 6 and 5. In that performance, he was three under par with an outward nine of 34 and a deuce on the 200 yard tenth. There was a deal more labor involved this afternoon in Bud's 3 and 2 conquest of Freddie Haas, erstwhile Walker Cup player and Intercollegiate champion from New Orleans, but he managed to stay even with the card.

Ward Meets Abbott.

In tomorrow's first 18 holes, Bud meets Pat Abbott, the California actor who once won the National Public Links title and who went to the 1938 final. The bracket including Ward and Abbott also lists Willie Turnesa, who was two under par in his opening matches today.

Dapper William draws Duff McCullough of Pittsburgh, a tough gent in any tournament. If he should win, Willie's afternoon opponent will be the winner of a match between two other former champions—Jess Sweetser of New York and 1922, and Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati and 1936.

This same lower bracket includes Ray Billows, the former Wisconsin youngster, who provided the only excitement of a day unusually drab for one containing two sudden death rounds. Ray squared his morning match with Bill Dear of Plainfield, N. J., at the 18th hole and then had to toil five extra holes before winning. Tomorrow he draws Harry Haverstick of Swarthmore, who was runnerup for the National Intercollegiate championship in June.

Chicagoans Are Present.

The lower bracket is interesting enough, what with four former champions in it, but the upper side also has its qualities. It contains three Chicagoans and they are in a spot to gain a place in Friday's 36 holes semi-finals. Tom Sheehan, former Chicago Heights boys who now registers from Detroit, meets his friend, Wilford Wehrle of Tam O'Shanter, and the second match brings George Dawson, 39 year old Glen Oak veteran, up with Otto Greiner. Otto is the University of Baltimore senior who spoiled an all-Chicago foursome by defeating Jack Hoerner of North Shore, 2 up, after Jack had him 3 down. A back nine of 34 was the answer to Greiner's success.

Sheehan and Wehrle both had to work today. Tom, one time Notre Dame captain, went 20 holes in putting out Skee Riegel, former West Point football player, and then had to rally to beat the talented Scotty Campbell of Seattle. Wehrle's victories were 1 up over Toby Lyons of Cambridge Springs, Mass., and 2 to 1 over Leo Martin.

UPPER HALF BRACKET.

Albert E. Campbell, Seattle, Wash., defeated Edward Meister Jr., Warrensville, O., 2 and 1.

Richard D. Chapman, Mamaroneck, N. Y., defeated Neil E. White, Culver City, Cal., 2 and 1.

SECOND ROUND.

Sheehan defeated Campbell, 2 up.
Wehrle defeated Martin, 2 and 1.
Dawson defeated Clare, 3 and 1.
Griener defeated Hoerner, 2 up.
Burke defeated Coffee, 5 and 4.
Strafaci defeated Cochran 1 up, 19 holes.
McCarthy defeated Holt, 5 and 4.
Chapman defeated Kovach, 3 and 2.

Henry J. Kowal, Indianapolis, Ind., defeated Pat Mucci, West Orange, N. J., 4 and 3.

W. B. McCullough Jr., Abington, Pa., defeated Henry Pabian, Steubenville, O., 5 and 4.

SECOND ROUND.

Fischer defeated Bishop, 1 up.
Turnesa defeated Allen, 4 and 3.
McCullough defeated Moreland, 1 up.
Ward defeated Haas, 3 and 2.
Billows defeated Allman, 5 and 3.

Karl Bock Wins Illinois Senior Golf Championship

Karl Bock of North Shore, whose game belies his 56 years, shot a 36-40-76 to win the 18th annual Illinois Seniors Golf association championship at Exmoor yesterday.

A field of 150 competed in the event in which the field is limited to players 50 years of age and over. Classes were based on ages with class A confined to players 70 years and over.

Officers elected at the annual meeting, which followed the banquet, are M. J. O'Brien, Exmoor, president; Henry I. Green, Urbana, first vice president; C. C. Hopkins, Glen View, second vice president; Roger Sherman, Indian Hill, third vice president; Frederick W. Hill, Skokie, secretary, and William V. O'Brien, Exmoor, treasurer.

Directors installed for two year terms were Walter S. Carr, Knollwood; Ross H. Kidston, LaGrange; Warren Shoemaker, Indian Hill; High Boles Kehoe, Flossmoor; H. A. Lundahl, Skokie, and Judson F. Stone, Glen View.

Bob Dearborn won the 18 hole low gross prize in the 32d annual Masonic day invitation tournament yesterday at Beverly. Dearborn posted 38—42—80, nine over par, which was one stroke better than the cards turned in by Bill Lain, former club champion, with 39—42—81, and M. C. Phillips, with 43—38—81.

Leslie Berry led the field of 200 with low net of 89—21—68. Phillips, 81—9—72, and B. O. Pinch, 103—31—72, tied for second. Don Sproul, 84—11—73, and W. G. Franke, 91—18—73, were next.

The low net event, limited to players 50 years of age and over, went to L. C. Wiswell with 83—10—73.

Skokie defeated Ridgemoor, 14 to 11, in the final game of the Northwest Golf league at Evanston Country club yesterday. The victory gave Skokie first place with 136 points. Other scores:

Evanston beat North Shore, 20½ to 15½; Park Ridge tied Westmoreland, 15½ to 15½; Edgewater won from Sunset Ridge, 8½ to 7½.

MISS WILLIAMS LOSES ON 19TH IN WESTERN GOLF

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 11 (AP).—Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., national women's champion, was forced to the 19th hole today to win her second round match in the Women's Western Amateur Golf tournament. Miss Jameson defeated Ellamae Williams, Chicago and Illinois state champion.

Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., defeated Mrs. Frank Currie, Seattle, 6 and 4. Diminutive Elizabeth Hicks of Long Beach, Cal., scored another one-sided victory, eliminating Mrs. Helen H. Bertagnole of Salt Lake City, 6 and 5. Jeanne Cline, 16 year old Bloomington, Ill., girl, lost to Mrs. J. K. Priebe of Seattle, 1 up.

Tomorrow Miss Hicks plays Miss Miley, who defeated her on the 20th hole in a Florida tournament last winter. Miss Jameson meets Nancy Hurst of Portland, Ore., who eliminated the women's western junior champion, Georgia Tainter of Fargo, N. D., 4 and 2.

FORMER PITCHER DIES.

Mathew Searles, 60, star pitcher of former Chicago indoor baseball teams, and who died of a heart attack Tuesday night, will be buried this morning from the funeral home at 5501 North Ashland avenue.

Joins Cards Today

Cards Sign Schneidman, Star Blocker

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

The Chicago Cardinals' search for first flight veterans to steady the many youngsters Coach Jimmy Conzelman must depend on struck pay dirt in Green Bay yesterday. The Packers gave Conzelman his pick of two blocking backs and the new Cardinal coach took Herman Schneidman, former Quincy High school and University of Iowa star, who played on two National league championship teams at Green Bay.

Schneidman returned to Green Bay this year to start his sixth season in professional football after retiring voluntarily at the start of last season to devote his time to a new business enterprise in Quincy. He played considerable of the Chicago All-Star game and was used a great deal four days later when the Packers whipped the Washington Redskins in an exhibition.

Practices with Team Today.

After the Redskin exhibition, Schneidman asked to be excused to return to his business in Quincy. Coach Curley Lambeau granted the request. When the Cardinals asked for an option on any blocking backs the Packers might release, Lambeau offered them Glenn Olsen, also of Iowa, a promising rookie, and said that if Schneidman was willing to play football nearer his home and business, Green Bay would release him. Conzelman contacted Schneidman and the former Hawkeye owner Charles Bidwill came to terms yesterday. Schneidman will report for practice today.

Signing of Schneidman gives the Cardinals another experienced back, whose value is enhanced by his familiarity with the Notre Dame system and six years of study of rival offenses. He weighs 200 pounds and stands 5 feet 10½ inches.

Mason, Johnson Released.

In the announcement of Schneidman's signing, the Cardinals also revealed the release of Joel Mason, end from Western State Teachers college, and Ray Johnson, a full back from Denver university.

Mason was released to make room for Bill Dewell, former Southern Methodist star, who reported yesterday after pitching Muskogee into the Western association playoffs. Dewell was regarded as one of the country's greatest ends two years ago.

The National Amateur

LOOKS TO O. B. KEELER

The Biographer of Golf and American Golf Champions. For 27 years has followed all the great matches. Knows all the top flight golfers of today and yesterday.

(By special wire to the Chicago Tribune.)

PRESS TENT, WINGED FOOT GOLF CLUB, MAMARONECK, N. Y., Sept. 11. — As these lines are written 16 gallant survivors of the first two rounds of the national Amateur championship are going into "sudden death" or 18 hole bouts on Thursday. And I think I know who is going to come out on top.

In the roster are Marvin "Bud" Ward, defending champion; a couple of former champs, Willie Turnesa, 1938; Johnny Fischer, 1936, and Ray Billows—runner-up in 1937 and 1939; Patrick Abbott, runner-up in 1938 and the medalist in the present competition; Dick Chapman of Greenwich, with a score of 140, one over the record.

A cluster of other competitors can give any golfer a walloping when the finger is on them. Today the finger was on Ray Billows in round 1, when he holed a 6 footer to square his match — and traveled 5 extra holes to win with a birdie on the 23d in the day's long match.

Bud Ward was playing 3 under par all day, winning 2 matches, the second from Freddie Haas, who had touched off five 3's in the second 9 of his morning match to get a whack at the champ.

Dick Chapman, the medalist; Willie Turnesa, and Wilford Wehrle all won into the 3d round handily, while Strafaci had to win the last 3 holes and then an extra one, for his matinee victory.

Probably no first round in the book has equalled this one for close, hard fought, and overtime matches. Nine of the morning bouts reached the home greens and 3 went to extra holes—2 going to the 20th, and 1, the Billows affair, going to the 23d. Abbot and Strafaci both were involved in extra hole combats.

MARVIN WARD—Defending champion and Leading amateur in the U.S. Open of '39. A pair of 3s on the last par 3 holes kept Bud from repeating the "double win" feat of Chick Evans and Bobby Jones.

WILLIE TURNESA, Amateur Champion of 1938. Playing best game of his career this season. Has the further advantage of being acquainted with practically every blade of grass at Winged Foot.

JOHNNY FISCHER, the tall and studious Kentuckian, won the U.S. Amateur Championship at the difficult Garden City course in 1936. He has played on two Walker Cup Teams.

RAY BILLOWS—the Cinderella Boy of Golf, runner-up to Johnny Goodman in 1937 and to Bud Ward last year at Chicago—comes to Winged Foot a prime favorite—knowing the great course intimately.

DICK CHAPMAN, the Greenwich, Conn., perfectionist. Studies golf more enthusiastically than any other amateur. Has threatened in the National for 3 years—knows Winged Foot like a book.

B. PATRICK ABBOTT, Pasadena Star, won the 1936 Public Links title. Coming East "just for the ride" he went to final round at Pittsburgh in 1936—runner up to Turnesa.

Grandpa Couldn't Take It With Him!

GRANDPA tried hard to save his hair. He rubbed his scalp faithfully with everything from bear oil to onion juice—but somehow his hair just kept slipping back, until grandpa became bald.

Today things are different. Grandpa's grandson notices his hair thinning at the temples, his scalp itches, and he has dandruff. So he consults a Thomas expert. The Thomas expert examines his scalp, determines the exact causes of his hair loss, and then overcomes these troubles with the 20-year proved Thomas treatment. Abnormal hair fall soon stops; dandruff disappears; and new hair actually starts to grow again on the thin and bald spots. Again modern scientific precision triumphs!

You, too, can avoid baldness and promote normal hair growth by consulting a Thomas expert. He'll examine your scalp—without charge or obligation—and show you what Thomas is doing for 1600 other men each day—and show you what Thomas can do to help you to have a good healthy head of hair.

AGRICOLE WINS JUVENILE TRIAL AT HAWTHORNE

Takes Dearborn Purse from 6 Eligibles.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The Shady Brook farm stable, which won last season's Hawthorne Juvenile handicap with Connaught, will be well represented in the renewal of this $5,000 event on Saturday. This situation was assured when Agricole, which is teamed with Cadmium as the Shady Brook entry in the stake, beat a field of six other eligibles in yesterday's Dearborn purse, a six furlong tuneup for the juvenile.

Jockel Bill Thompson, leading rider at the Hawthorne meeting, brought Agricole up with a rush in the stretch to catch Jake Lowenstein's Heartman in the last furlong and win by a length and a half. John Marsch's pair, Drumont and To a Tee, were third and fourth, respectively.

South Is Unhorsed.

Agricole was quoted at a little better than 4 to 1 in the betting, the Marsch entry having been established the favorite at 3 to 2, while Heartman was second choice at 5 to 2. Prices on the winner were $10.20, $6, and $3.

Air Hostess Sets Pace.

Following the mishap to Asael D., Jockey Johnny Adams sent Air Hostess out to set the pace, and Jack Richard hustled Heartman in pursuit. Agricole was outrun in the early stages, striding along in fifth position quite a way back.

On the turn, Heartman went after Air Hostess in earnest. Piatt's filly lasted as far as the stretch, then gave way. Meanwhile Agricole was beginning to close ground. He came up resolutely during the run thru the straightaway and drew alongside Heartman at the eighth pole. After a brief duel, he began to draw clear. He completed the six furlongs in 1:12 2-5.

N. U. HAS BACKS, TOUGH CARD AND LINE TROUBLES

"Our material has seesawed for several seasons," Waldorf explained yesterday. "We now have a fine group of backs, altho strangely enough 11 of the 12 men on three teams played left half back in high school. The line is the problem. Last year we had veteran line material, but had to develop sophomore backs."

There are at least two other bright spots in Northwestern's outlook. Not even the most rabid alumnus can expect the Wildcats to win the conference championship. And the Bill DeCorrevont publicity specter that has haunted Northwestern for two years has vaporized.

It is agreed that DeCorrevont is a right smart half back, but his case has been rationalized. Because of an appendectomy in July, De Correvont is conditioning himself without contact drill. The fact that he's punting a bit is evidence that by mid-October he will be fully recovered.

They Have Spirit.

There is another factor. In Capt. Dick Richards, blocking quarter back, who suffered a pulled muscle yesterday, Northwestern has a fine leader. All the varsity seniors—Butherus, Smith, Lokanc, Aarts, Hiemenz, Paul Soper, Ollie Hahnenstein, Edwin Madsen, are hard workers. This is not Northwestern's finest football squad, but it may play more football in relationship to its abilities than any, because the Wildcats have spirit.

Four important shifts have been made in personnel. Half Back Don Kruger, Chicago junior, is dividing time with Capt. Richards at quarter back. Paul Soper has been moved from left half to full back, where his wide sweeps probably will be more effective than Don Clawson's.

Warren Karlstad, sophomore left tackle, has been sent to right tackle in an effort to compensate for the loss of Fred Dahlkamp, who was injured in an automobile accident last month. Dahlkamp's injury was a terrific blow to Northwestern plans. Finally, Otto Graham, Waukegan, Ill., sophomore, who can pass and run amazingly well, must learn the right half back assignment as well as those for left half.

Blockers Have Experience.

The current tackle selections are Aarts and Karlstad on the right side and Bauman and Leon Cook, a junior, on the left. George Zorich, a senior who never has won a letter, and Nick Burke, a sophomore, are ranking right guards. Buss Heagy and Paul Kiefer, juniors, are fighting for the job behind Lokanc at left guard.

Northwestern got away to a splendid start Tuesday with a squad of 62 players participating in a double drill. Double drills will continue until a week from Monday, when classes start.

FORD TO START WORK SOON ON ENGINE PLANT

Aircraft Project to Cost 11 Millions.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 11.—The Ford Motor company will start work within a few days on an $11,000,000 plant for the production of 2,000 horse power Pratt and Whitney airplane motors for the army, Edsel Ford, president, disclosed today.

Edsel Ford.

Engineering work on the plant is being rushed altho no contract has been signed with the war department. The plant, which will contain 600,000 or 700,000 square feet, will cost $4,000,000, and tooling and machinery $7,000,000. Ford said shipments of engines will begin in six to eight months.

The Ford order is for 4,000 of the engines and the government has requested that they be produced at the rate of 15 a day, Ford said.

Ford also revealed that the company is working on plans for a liquid cooled engine for high speed combat planes which will develop 1,200 to 1,500 horse power.

Contribution to Defense.

The engine will be a Ford contribution to national defense efforts, he said. Ford estimated the cost of a high-powered airplane engine at $10 per horse power.

The new airplane engine factory, which will be built on the 1,200 acre Rouge plant, will require a production force of 10,000 skilled workers. Much of this working force will be drawn from the Ford personnel, but it may be necessary to go outside the organization for many skilled mechanics.

Helping to meet the demand for skilled workers, the various Ford training schools are now giving instructions to about 2,500 young men. The major Ford training school has facilities for 2,000 boys and young men in a four year course. Graduates of this school are highly trained. In addition Ford maintains a short term apprentice school with three or four month courses.

Commenting on the 1941 cars, Ford said that all three of the company's lines will be entirely new. There will be two lines of Ford cars—de luxe and super de luxe—presenting the most complete change in design since the V-8 engine was introduced nearly nine years ago.

Longer Wheelbase.

The wheelbase has been lengthened and as a result of this and other engineering advancements riding quality is improved notably. Bodies of the new Fords are longer and much wider, with seat widths increased as much as seven inches. Running boards have virtually disappeared. Driver's visibility has been increased.

The 1941 Mercury will come in eight body types, including two which are new—a coupe and a station wagon. The wheelbase has been lengthened and there are numerous chassis improvements, including new balanced front and rear springs. Faster acceleration is accomplished by a change in the transmission. The Mercury also is considerably wider than the 1940 models.

Ford said the 1941 Lincoln-Zephyr line will contain more than 60 improvements and refinements. Four body types will be offered.

New Line of Lincolns.

Lincoln is presenting an entirely new streamlined Custom and Continental line. The Lincoln Custom has a 138 inch wheelbase and contains many innovations. The press of a button opens windows. This is accomplished by a hydraulic lift. A hydraulic adjustment of the front seat is also provided. The Lincoln Continental will be brought out in two bodies, the cabriolet, which proved successful last year, and a coupe.

Ford said that the outlook for the automobile industry is highly favorable and the company's 1941 goal is 1,000,000 cars. The new Lincolns will be shown to the public on Sept. 20 and the Ford and Mercury cars on Sept. 27.

It was learned authoritatively that the much discussed six cylinder Ford car will not be introduced to the public at the present time.

U. S. Plywood Offering of 50,000 Shares Is Sold

New York, Sept. 11 [Special].—An underwriting group headed by Eastman, Dillon & Co. offered after the close of the market today 50,000 shares of common stock of United States Plywood corporation at $25.75 a share. The entire offering was later reported sold. Of the 50,000 shares offered, 30,000 shares represent new financing for the company. The remaining 20,000 shares are being sold for the account of certain shareholders who will receive the net proceeds.

Senate Passes Bill for Loans to So. America

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 (AP).—The senate approved legislation today to provide $500,000,000 of loans thru the Export-Import bank. The move is designed to bolster Latin American economy against Nazi influence.

The loans, proposed by President Roosevelt in a message to congress July 22, are designed to assist in "orderly marketing" of Latin America's surplus products resulting from the war disrupted European markets, promote United States trade with the South American nations, and develop sources in this hemisphere for materials essential to defense plans, such as tin and rubber.

Reject Taft Amendment.

The senate defeated, 41 to 25, an amendment by Senator Robert A. Taft [R., O.] to restrict the loans to the latter function and voted down, 46 to 22, another amendment by Senator John A. Danaher [R., Conn.] to place a $50,000,000 limit on future loans to any one nation. It then passed the bill 43 to 27.

The measure now goes back to the house, which previously had passed it in a different form. The house version increased the borrowing power of the Reconstruction Finance corporation by $1,500,000,000—one-third for the Export-Import bank and the remainder for loans to domestic defense industries. This $1,000,000,000 domestic lending authority was not contained in the senate bill.

Bar Johnson Act Violation.

The senate added a provision, not contained in the house measure, to insure that no loans would be made in violation of the neutrality laws or the Johnson act.

Senator Robert F. Wagner [D., N. Y.], who sponsored the senate bill, termed it an essential part of the defense program and Senator John E. Miller [D., Ark.] said it would be impossible to defend the western hemisphere if this nation "lost its economic grip" in South America.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], however, declared that "you cannot lean upon this instrumentality to defend the economic life of the United States," and that any attempt to do so would be to "lean on a broken reed."

TRUSTEE SELLS LAST OF GRIGSBY ASSETS FOR $1,100

The last remnants of the Grigsby-Grunow company, once a major radio manufacturer with assets listed at 35 million dollars in 1929, were sold yesterday for $1,100 at the final meeting of creditors before Wallace Streeter, referee in bankruptcy. The company has been in receivership since 1933.

For $300, Joseph Homan purchased the right to use the name "Majestic" in New Zealand, two small lots of stock and title to two lots on the northwest side. Harry Jaffe paid $800 for claims of the trustee to refunds on overpayment of real estate taxes.

Streeter took under advisement the applications for allowances in connection with the receivership. They were $25,000 for Frank M. McKey, trustee, in addition to $51,314 previously allowed, and $65,000 for A. L. Schapiro, attorney for the trustee, in addition to $70,000 already allowed.

Association of Commerce Names Zoning Committee

The Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday announced the appointment of a special committee to keep in touch with the Chicago Plan Commission on such civic projects as zoning, slum clearance, construction, and local transportation. Members named to the group by Oscar G. Mayer, president of the association, are Joseph K. Brittain, John Clarkson, J. B. Clow, Wade Fetzer Jr., Frank Hecht, Fred Kramer, Eugene A. Rummler, E. L. Ryerson Jr., and William R. Wright.

Am. Telephone Reports Gain in July Profit

Improvement in earnings as compared with a year ago was reported yesterday by American Telephone and Telegraph company for July and the seven months ended July 31.

Hurlbut W. Smith reports typewriter orders soar.

July profit was $605,811, against $578,206 in the 1939 month, and seven month net income was $91,592,025, compared with $80,678,486. The July figures covered operating activities only and were after taxes, but did not include interest and other revenues received. The seven month figures include dividends received in the six months ended June 30.

Dividends received from subsidiary companies which form the major part of the company's income are not accrued in the accounts monthly, but are included usually in March, June, September, and December quarterly reports as "other income."

L. C. Smith Profit Larger.

The company's gross operating revenues expanded. For July they rose to $9,514,802, from $8,721,007 in July, 1939. Seven month gross from operations was $68,958,871, compared with $63,695,923 in the 1939 period.

In an annual report for the L. C. Smith & Corona Typewriters, Inc., Hurlbut W. Smith, president, reported a small gain in the company's earnings and said unfilled orders are the largest since 1918. Profit for the fiscal year ended June 30 was $366,219, equal to $1.04 a share, compared with $344,698, or 96 cents a share, in the preceding year.

Much of the year's net income was earned in the last half of the year, when profit was $304,392, against $164,259 in the corresponding 1939 period, Smith said.

Standard Gas Earns More.

Standard Gas and Electric company and subsidiaries, in a report for the six months and 12 months ended June 30, also announced increased profits. Six month net income rose to $3,577,458 from $2,097,222 in the 1939 period, and 12 month profit was $4,797,647, compared with $2,202,800. The parent company's 12 month net income was $908,469, compared with $86,095 in the preceding 12 months, and six month earnings rose to $300,316 from $215,204.

SENATE GROUP VOTES PROFIT TAX MEASURE OPPOSED BY TREASURY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 (AP).—The Senate Finance committee, overriding last minute treasury objections, gave its approval today to an excess profits tax bill drastically revised from the form in which it passed the house.

After being closeted with Secretary Henry Morgenthau for about an hour, the committee voted 14 to 7 to report the measure to the senate.

It would boost the normal corporation tax rate by 3.1 per cent, making a 24 per cent rate for corporations earning more than $25,000.

It would levy an excess profits tax ranging from 25 per cent to 50 per cent on income above the average for the four year period 1936-39, except that any corporation would be permitted to earn 8 per cent on its invested capital free from the tax, plus a $10,000 specific exemption.

Existing profit limitations on government contracts for construction of warships and airplanes would be suspended and industries would be permitted to charge off against profits over a five year period the cost of new defense manufacturing plants.

PERMIT SENDING FUNDS ABROAD TO AMERICANS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 (AP).—The treasury today authorized the sending of money to Americans stranded in invaded European countries.

Under Presidential orders "freezing" financial transactions between the United States and these countries, such payments were permitted only on special licenses. Today's order supplements a recent one authorizing the resumption of remittances to relatives and friends in foreign countries.

The new order permits sending up to $250 a month to any one American abroad provided the money is for "necessary living expenses." An additional $250 is authorized if the extra money will be used to help the American come home.

Payments may not be made out of foreign funds now "frozen" in this country, but must be from one American to another and involve only United States currency.

BOARD APPROVES CONTINENTAL'S EXPANSION PLAN

A three year expansion program with expenditure of an estimated $25,000,000 was approved yesterday in Chicago by the board of directors of the Continental Can Co., Inc., J. F. Hartlieb, president, announced after the meeting.

The plan calls for the enlargement of the company's research can manufacturing and engineering facilities in several of the 58 plants in the United States, Canada, and Cuba, Hartlieb added.

Details of the program and the individual plants which will be affected were not announced.

Pontiac Makes First Showing of 1941 Cars

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 11 [Special].—The 1941 line of automobiles built by the Pontiac division of the General Motors corporation was formally introduced to the public today by H. J. Klingler, general manager. All models are longer in wheelbase, roomier, and have more powerful engines.

An innovation is a choice of a six or an eight cylinder engine in all models in the entire line. The six cylinder engines develop 90 horse power and the eights 103 horse power.

Three Lines Presented.

There are three lines of cars. The junior series is the De Luxe Torpedo on a 119 inch wheelbase and available in six models. Overall length is 201⅛ inches. Second is the Streamliner Torpedo on a 122 inch wheelbase. The senior line is the Custom Torpedo, also on a 122 inch wheelbase.

The design of the Streamliner Torpedo is new. The luggage compartment is streamlined so that an unbroken line from front to rear is shown. In the De Luxe Torpedo and Streamliner Torpedo doorsteps are concealed by a flare in the lower edge of the door. Front seat width in all models has been increased so that three passengers can be accommodated easily.

Interior features include new instrument lighting control, safety hood lock operated from a control below the instrument panel, and automatic lighting inside the car when a door is opened.

Engine Design Retained.

The basic design of the Pontiac engine has been retained, but numerous refinements and improvements have been made which are said to contribute more power and better performance. One of the most important of these improvements is a new built-in oil filter.

Klingler said the weight in the frame has been distributed better, resulting in easier riding and improved performance. Springing has been improved and an overcenter booster spring has been attached to the clutch pedal to assist in the release of the clutch. Other changes include the sealing and prelubrication of many chassis parts so that under ordinary driving conditions no further lubrication is needed for the life of the car.

URGES WEEKLY HOLIDAYS TO CUT BANKING HOURS

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 11 (AP).—Col. Philip B. Fleming, federal wage and hours administrator, suggested here today that some banks might find it easier to comply with the wage and hour laws by closing Saturday mornings or Wednesday afternoons.

Addressing the Iowa Bankers association convention, he said banks "in a number of localities are now operating successfully on a 40 hour week and are remaining closed on Saturday morning."

"In some communities," he continued, "it might not be possible to remain closed all day on Saturday, but perhaps it would be possible to close at noon on Wednesday."

NORTH WESTERN ROAD NEAR END OF COURT RULE

Reorganization Plan Approved by Judge.

BY LLOYD NORMAN.

The Chicago and North Western Railway company may emerge from federal court reorganization proceedings in one to two years it was indicated yesterday after Federal Judge John P. Barnes approved the plan of the interstate commerce commission for revamping the road's financial structure. The North Western has been under court supervision since 1935.

The approved plan erases the equity of holders of $22,395,120 of the company's preferred stock and $158,444,725 of common stock. It reduces the capitalization of the proposed new company to $449,974,309 from $547,567,847 of the present company at the end of 1938.

Judge Barnes declared in his 53-page opinion that the ICC plan was not the "best possible plan," but that it is fair and equitable and should be pursued in moving the property out of court as rapidly as possible.

Permits $436,478 in Fees.

The court allowed $436,478 for administrative expenses to 53 individuals or firms representing 17 different interests in the proceedings. Fees asked by attorneys, committees, and technical experts in the case totaled $822,082, of which the ICC had allowed $442,844 as a maximum limit to be approved by the court.

Judge Barnes allowed the maximum set by the ICC in each case, except the fee for one group of attorneys for the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which was cut from $21,366 to $15,000.

The estimate that the reorganization of the railroad would be completed within two years was based on the assumption that objecting groups, mainly the stockholders, would not file an appeal from Judge Barnes' decree.

Requires Poll of Creditors.

After a draft of the decree is signed by the court, objectors to the plan are permitted 60 days in which to perfect an appeal. If none is taken the decree may then be certified by the court and submitted to the ICC, which will then start the slow moving machinery of balloting by all the various classes of creditors included in the plan.

If two-thirds of each class of creditors approve the plan, the federal court then confirms the plan and directs the reorganization managers to proceed with the details of setting up the mortgages and provisions of the new securities created for the new company. If the necessary vote of any one class of creditors is not obtained, the court may still confirm the plan if it believes it to be in the public interest and fair.

Charles M. Thomson, trustee of the North Western, estimated that the road would emerge from court proceedings in one to two years if no obstacles of new litigation are placed in its path.

Second Road to Near End.

Attorney Kenneth F. Burgess, representing institutional investors in the North Western, said that the voting by the different groups of creditors would require about six months and that the work of selecting reorganization managers, providing the new securities and exchanging them for the present securities, would take another year or more.

The North Western is the second large middle western road and one of the few leading carriers in the country to enter the final stages of reorganization under section 77 of the amended federal bankruptcy law. The other middle western road is the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railway.

"The property of the debtor [the North Western] has been undergoing reorganization for over five years," Judge Barnes said in his opinion, "a fact that cannot be a matter of pride to any one connected with the case. Certainly, it is of more importance that this case be now taken out of court promptly than further efforts be made to perfect a plan."

This was in reply to objections to the plan raised by the railroad, stockholders' committees, and trustees for three bond issues assumed by the North Western and by the trustee of

Plan 40 Million Expansion of Forge Industry

A $40,000,000 program for expansion of heavy forging facilities of plants which will shape steel for the battleships, artillery and other weapons to strengthen the defensive arm of this country was announced yesterday by Edward R. Stettinius Jr., of the national defense advisory commission.

Disclosure of the program was one of several indications of continuing briskness in the pace of business. One railroad signed orders for more than $3,000,000 of rails, another took steps to finance purchase of $2,089,200 of new rolling stock, and the Reconstruction Finance corporation was understood to be considering an application for a loan for construction of a synthetic rubber plant.

Study Available Capacity.

Stettinius did not say where the expanded forging facilities will be located. The first task, he said, will be to gather information on the location and capacity of equipment already available, and the extent to which new capacity will be required.

Declaring that the defense program will require enormous amounts of forgings for use in battleships, cruisers, airplane carriers, naval guns, heavy artillery, shells, and other armament, Stettinius said:

"Definite plans have been formulated in conjunction with representatives of the army and navy for expanding the country's forging facilities to the point where they will be adequate to fulfill all requirements of the army, navy, and maritime commission."

In some cases, he said, the government will advance the funds necessary for expansion, but in others the individual companies involved will provide the capital under the usual form of government contract.

Expand Ordinance Plant.

Stettinius also announced that additional forging equipment for shafting will be installed at the naval ordnance plant at South Charleston, W. Va., and that the navy department plans to acquire a 14,000 ton press and other equipment which it will lease to steel companies. These projects are in addition to the $40,000,000 program.

The purchase of rails, totaling 65,000 tons, was authorized by the New York Central's directors for the road's 1941 track requirements. Subsidiaries are expected to place additional orders.

The war department awarded two contracts to schools to train technicians. One award was to Aircraft Industries corporation, Glendale, Cal., for $117,600 to train 392 regular army men as sheet metal fabricators.

Casey Jones School of Aeronautics, Inc., Newark, N. J., received an $18,900 contract to train 42 army men in aircraft welding.

OUTPUT OF STEEL INGOTS MAY SET ALL TIME PEAK

Production of steel in 1940 will exceed the all time record volume of 1929 if mill schedules for the rest of the year maintain the August rate of 1,361,859 tons a week, Iron Age said yesterday in its weekly review of the industry. It estimated 1940 output at 64,000,000 net tons, compared with 62,132,445 in 1929.

So far in September incoming steel orders have shown a moderate decline from the August level, the publication said, but observed that the production rate this week nevertheless is higher than for the week prior to the Labor day holiday. Iron Age estimated the current rate at 92½ per cent of capacity, 10½ points above last week's schedule, and 1 point above that of the preceding week.

"The August total of steel ingots, amounting to 6,033,037 tons, was the third highest on record, ranking next to those of last October and November, and was within 2 per cent of the November record total of 6,147,783 tons," the publication said.

No. 1 heavy melting steel scrap advanced 50 cents yesterday at Pittsburgh to a range of $20.00 to $20.50 a ton, the highest price paid in months.

Council Group Votes Gas Station License Transfer

The city council license committee recommended yesterday that the city code be amended to permit owners of gasoline stations to transfer their licenses once during the year. The present code forbids transfers. Members said the purpose of the ordinance was to allow owners who sell their stations to realize something from the unused portions of their licenses. The average cost of a license is $150. The transfer fee would be $2.

CHICAGO STOCK BOARD ADOPTS LONGER HOURS

New York Refuses Similar Plea.

Governors of the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday voted to lengthen the hours of trading in an effort to achieve a larger volume of business. Governors of the New York exchange, faced with the same problem of dwindling transactions, decided against extended sessions.

The Chicago board left to the exchange's executive committee the decision on the effective date of the change in hours, but the switch is expected to be made on Sept. 30 if arrangements can be completed.

Under the new schedule, daily sessions are to extend from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m., one hour later than at present, with Saturday trading continuing until 11:30 a. m.—30 minutes longer. This would give the exchange a six hour session and a 2½ hour Saturday trading period.

The New York exchange governors voted down, practically without debate, a petition for extended sessions presented by about 80 member firms. The extension sought in the petition would have maintained the synchronization in hours of the two exchanges after the Chicago switch.

New York exchange officials were said to be watching the Chicago experiment with interest, with indications the decision against changing hours may be reconsidered in the light of Chicago's experience.

Chicago has never had a market entirely independent of New York, since both markets open and close at the same time. The San Francisco exchange, which continues trading after the Wall street close, has developed a degree of independence in a number of securities traded also in New York.

Action of the Chicago governors was based on recommendations made by a special committee and the exchange's executive committee following studies of methods to increase the utility of the exchange. The first step in this renewed campaign was taken in July when the board voted to waive until Dec. 31 the usual fees for the original listing of securities.

Extends Exchange's Use.

Commenting on the extension of hours, Arthur M. Betts, chairman of the Chicago board, said:

"At present, the productive machinery of the exchange in Chicago and the middle western territory it serves is fully utilized for barely one-half of the business day. The extended trading sessions will make available for profitable use an hour which is one of the most productive in middle western business life.

"It is a departure from tradition which will require harder work, patience, and the earnest coöperation of all of us in the business in order to render efficient and conscientious service to our customers."

John C. Stewart, partner of Thorsen & Stewart, was elected a governor of the Chicago exchange yesterday to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Warren A. Lamson. Stewart, a member of the exchange since 1930, and active as a floor broker, is a son of the late Bishop George Craig Stewart, who was head of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago.

New York Stocks.

New York, Sept. 11 (AP).—A quiet advance in the stock market was brought to an abrupt halt today by Prime Minister Churchill's warning that Hitler could be expected to attempt the invasion of England within a week.

Traders, who for nearly four hours had been pushing prices higher by fractions to full points, suddenly decided to withdraw from action, perhaps to await the actual attack.

When the closing bell sounded, the Associated Press average of 60 selected stocks was off .1 of a point at 43.5, a figure .4 point lower than the noonday standing. The turnover totaled 453,090 shares, most of it in the last two hours, compared with 363,820 yesterday.

The session started with something approaching optimism. Fractional gains among steel and aircraft issues spread to most of the other classifications. Berlin's noonday warning that 10,000 plane loads of bombs were about to be dumped on London daily met with no reaction. The advances went to about 2 points in many cases.

But when Churchill spoke, the decline was prompt. Even so, the losses were not large. The close found 199 of the traded issues higher and 290 lower than on Tuesday.

Ahead at the close were such prominent issues as Boeing, Douglas, Sperry, American Can, Westinghouse Electric, Johns-Mansville, Eastman, and Sears Roebuck. Well behind were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, United States Rubber, American Telephone, Phelps Dodge, du Pont, Allied Chemical, New York Central, Chesapeake & Ohio, Standard Oil of New Jersey, and Dow Chemical.

In two membership transfers, sales were arranged at $40,000 and $38,000. The last sale prior to today's was made at $40,000.

Traders on August 30 were short 474,033 shares of stocks listed in the New York exchange, compared with 479,243 at the end of July, the exchange announced.

New York Bonds.

New York, Sept. 11 (AP).—Unlike stocks, the bond market cast aside any fresh alarm implied in Prime Minister Churchill's speech today and moved higher on average despite some slackening in the forward pace after the speech was delivered. The industrial, rail and utility groups in the Associated Press averages advanced from .1 to .4 of a point and the low yield section held steady.

The foreign dollar division reflected more nervousness than did domestic issues, but there were a number of substantial advances to offset modest declines.

Laclede Gas 5½s of '53 featured the domestic list with a gain of about 3 points.

United States Governments closed 8/32 of a point higher to 3/32 lower.

Chicago Stocks.

Trading continued mixed on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday in turnover of 18,000 shares. Middle West, the volume leader, dropped ⅛ point to 5¾. Dollar volume of transactions for August showed a 6 per cent gain over July but a 48.3 per cent drop from August, 1939, the exchange announced. The total was $7,045,160, against $6,631,435 in July, and $13,625,276 in August, 1939.

Bank Stocks.

Northern Trust shares were 2 points higher yesterday in Chicago bank stock trading. Continental Illinois eased half a point. Other leading issues were unchanged.

WHEAT FUTURES BURY EARLY LOSS UNDER FAIR GAIN

After overcoming early weakness to climb about a cent a bushel, wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade finished yesterday's trading with price gains of ¼ to ½ cent a bushel.

The higher estimates of American grain production helped depress wheat early in the session, but later reports of improved Canadian export business caused a rebound. The day's peak prices were trimmed after Winston Churchill, British prime minister, warned of an early attempt by the Germans to invade England.

Corn prices held within relatively narrow price limits, with traders inclined to go slow on either side of the market pending further weather developments in the more northern section of the corn belt. Closing trades were unchanged to ⅛ cent higher. Oats finished ½ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower. Rye advanced ⅛ to ¼ cent. Soy beans closed ⅛ to ½ cent lower on scattered commission house selling.

Killing frost was reported as far south as Huron, S. D., two weeks ahead of the average date, but failed to have much effect on the market.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Cool weather and recent declines in pork prices from the high level early last week has stimulated consumer demand, packers reported yesterday. Altho further slight reductions occurred in wholesale channels, there was a better outlet to retail butcher shops. Top light loins wholesaled at $21 a hundred pounds, off $4 in eight days.

The improved demand for pork was reflected in hog buying, which was brisk at mostly strong to 10 cents higher prices. "Lard hogs" were comparatively scarce and fully 10 to 15 cents higher.

The range of cattle prices widened further. Top grades held firm, on a par with the 1940 peak, while other steers and yearlings declined 15 to 25 cents a hundred pounds. Heifers ruled steady to 25 cents lower. Steady prices were paid for most beef cows.

Commodities

Commodity futures markets continued irregular yesterday with the trend toward lower levels. Sugar and wool tops were the only active staples to show any steadiness.

Copper futures slid 0.08 to 0.07 cent a pound lower, with September contracts at 9.80 to 9.87 cents. In the cash market, last week's new price of 11½ cents a pound held steady on quotations by large producers, but custom smelters and smaller producers quoted 11.37½ cents. Both the futures and cash markets reflected last week's vast turnover when the higher price went into effect.

Straits tin futures closed unchanged and there were no sales in lead and zinc. Cash markets for those metals held firm.

Rubber futures continued to lose, closing 0.05 to 0.09 cent a pound lower. September was 19 to 19.02 cents. Cash rubber was off 0.06 cent at 19.19 cents. Hide futures, which had been showing considerable strength, lost 0.11 to 0.19 cent a pound.

Aided by increased speculative interest, domestic sugar futures closed unchanged to 0.02 cent a pound higher despite a dip of 0.01 cent in cash raw sugar to 2.70 cents a pound. September domestic contracts closed at 1.74 cents bid.

The market was mildly stimulated by reports of a possible reduction in the import duty of 90 cents per 100 pounds on Cuban sugar. A scattered covering movement held world futures steady and the list closed 0.00½ to 0.01 ½ cent higher.

Wool top futures steadied on cash buying and short covering and finished 1 cent higher to ½ cent lower, with October contracts at 97.5 cents bid. In the cash markets, wool tops continued their recent advance, gaining 1 cent to close at $1.07.

Santos coffee futures held up in the face of substantial September liquidation. Final prices were unchanged to 0.03 cent a pound lower, with September at 5.28 cents.

WARM WEATHER SPEEDS RIPENING OF EARLY CORN

Late Planted Grain Still Not Safe from Frost.

Recent fair and warm weather helped speed much of the corn crop toward maturity, the weather bureau reported yesterday. Much late corn, however, will require considerable favorable weather before it will be safe from frost. The crop is being harvested in parts of the southwest, and some corn has been cut in Wisconsin.

Cutting of corn to fill silos and for fodder is under way in many sections in the central west, the bureau reported. Threshing of small grains is nearing completion. Seeding of winter wheat is well under way in some sections, but is delayed in others. Soaking rains would be beneficial over the greater part of the grain belt west of the Missouri river, the bureau said.

Iowa Crop Developing Late.

The bulk of the Minnesota corn crop will be safe from frost in about 10 days, the bureau said. Only 23 per cent of the Iowa crop is safe now, or 17 per cent less than normally, and the average stage of development is about 13 days later than normal.

The bulk of the Illinois corn crop will be beyond frost danger in two to three weeks, the bureau estimated. Corn is beginning to ripen in southern Indiana and most of the Missouri crop has matured.

Soil moisture is now ample in the northern part of the state, but rain is needed elsewhere. Condition of corn ranges from poor to good. A small amount of soy beans has been cut for hay.

ILLINOIS C. OF C. ASKS AID IN DRIVE TO REVISE STATE'S TAX METHODS

Coöperation in a tax modernization program was requested yesterday by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce from the Chicago Association of Commerce and 219 local chambers of commerce. In a letter from C. G. Ferris, executive vice president of the Illinois chamber, the secretaries were asked to present the plan for official action to the local taxation committees, legislative committees, or similar groups.

C. G. Ferris.

Efforts to obtain local support are part of the plan to familiarize every Illinois taxpayer with basic faults in the present taxation system and means of remedying them. Initial steps to be sought by the state chamber's taxation committee, which is headed by Oliver E. Mount of American Steel Foundries, are:

[1] A uniform system of accounting and periodic audit of public expenditures; [2] enforcement of existing budget laws; [3] amendment of existing laws relating to tax delinquency to make such laws adequate to the purpose intended; [4] reduction in the number of local governing units in the state, and [5] revision of assessment methods for more uniform procedure and equitable valuations.

PLAN FASHION WEEK PROGRAM AT NOON TODAY

The State Street council will sponsor a luncheon at 12:15 o'clock today in the Crystal room of the Palmer House to explain plans for State Street Fall Fashion week, which will start next Monday. Fall merchandise will be displayed during the week in a coöperative program by merchants.

J. C. O'Brien, chairman of the council's committee on publicity and advertising and publicity director of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., will preside today. Speakers will be Seymour Shane, chairman of the committee on business of the council and vice president of the Boston Store, and Herbert Blumer, associate professor of sociology at the University of Chicago. An advance showing of fall fashions to be found on State street is scheduled also.

Windows of State street stores will be unveiled simultaneously at 10 o'clock Monday morning, Sept. 16. Light standards on State street from Lake to Congress streets will be decorated with fall foliage, and special advertising campaigns are planned.

Sears Celebrates 54th Anniversary with Sale

Sears, Roebuck & Co. will begin its 54th birthday celebration today by starting its annual anniversary sale which will last for 15 days. Preparations have been under way for several months, and millions of dollars has been spent for special merchandise, according to M. C. Penticoff, manager of the Sears Chicago group.

"In reorganizing a property large or small," the court asserted, "it is generally possible to formulate more than one fair and equitable plan. But after a fair and equitable plan has been formulated and worked over for months and years, as has this plan, it is a foolish waste of time, energy and money to discard it even for an equally good plan.

"It is true, unfortunately, that because of delays there comes a time in most proceedings for reorganization when the most important thing is to get the property out of court as speedily as possible. That time had arrived in this case before any suggestion was made by any one that a consolidation was desirable and the commission [I. C. C.] was right in its refusal to delay the proceedings for the purpose of considering consolidation.

Accepts Earnings Estimate.

The North Western had asked the court to consider the advantages that a consolidation with the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad might bring in boosting prospective earnings. The North Western had objected to the I. C. C.'s estimate of normal prospective annual earnings of $14,625,000 as being too low.

Judge Barnes said that 3 years had elapsed before any attorneys had laid before the I. C. C. any consideration of the supposed advantages of a consolidation. The court accepted the I. C. C. estimate of annual earnings in a normal future year as "sufficiently optimistic."

The contention of the North Western and its stockholders has been that the railroad can earn sufficiently when normal operations are attained to provide a basis for including the present stockholders in the capitalization of the new company.

Judge Barnes quoted the I. C. C.'s opinion that $28,568,000 a year in earnings would be required to pay all the fixed charges on the new company's debts and 6 per cent dividends on the preferred and common stocks. He also noted the I. C. C.'s conclusion that the approved capitalization of the new company is 50 per cent more than can be supported by earnings reasonably to be expected in normal years.

Blames Bus Competition.

Judge Barnes said he regretted to state that the I. C. C.'s reasons for not estimating higher earnings for the road were supported by the evidence. The I. C. C.'s study indicated that the North Western was a short haul carrier, dependent to a large extent on passenger traffic, and was especially vulnerable to competition from the motor truck, bus, and automobile, and pipe line. The road had suffered, according to the I. C. C., from competition, loss of export trade and a shift in the sources of its traffic.

Quoting from the I. C. C. report, Judge Barnes recalled that the North Western stock was at one time considered an investment of great value, "but conditions relied upon when bought at high prices no longer exist."

Concerning the elimination of the present preferred and common stockholders, the opinion said, "That finding is overwhelmingly supported by the evidence and the court is forced to conclude as did the commission that the stockholders should not participate in the allocation of securities."

Reduces Fixed Charges.

In addition to slashing the North Western's capitalization, the ICC plan reduces fixed interest charges of the new company to $3,382,079, compared with $16,549,740 in fixed charges for 1938. Provision, however, is made for contingent interest charges of $5,989,529, depending on earnings, for new income bonds.

Total charges of the reorganized company would be $17,778,207, including fixed and contingent interest, sinking funds, funds for additions and improvements, and provisions for new preferred stock dividends.

The proposed capitalization would consist of fixed interest debt of $117,019,556; contingent interest debt of $105,058,904; preferred stock of $106,996,076, and common stock with stated value of $120,899,773.

DAY by DAY on the FARM

By HOMER CNEISZ

Feeder Steer Dies

Sept. 11, 1940.

THIS year's cattle feeding program at the Du Page county farm got off to a bad start late in the summer when 10 of the 80 feeder steers on pasture there got sick and had to be removed from the herd and treated by a veterinarian. One steer died last week. Two still are sick. The others apparently are recovering.

In addition to the loss of one steer, the loss in weight on the other nine is thought to be considerable. Two steers died last year while on pasture.

The veterinarian who treated the sick animals said he found no evidence of infection that might spread to others in the herd. He said the trouble was a digestive disturbance, but was not sure of the cause. He thought it might have resulted from the steers eating too much new grain and recommended that no feed, other than pasture, be given the others for a few weeks.

Grazing in Timber Area.

The farm workers are of the opinion that eating too many leaves from vines and shrubs in a timber pasture might have caused the trouble. None of the steers had shown any signs of illness from the time they were brought to the farm last spring until they were given access to a woods pasture during the hot weather early in August.

Altho there was plenty of grazing in an adjoining clover field, the steers spent most of their time in the woods, where they had better protection against flies.

One of the ailing steers was injured several weeks ago and has been kept in the barn since. No one ever knew what caused the injury. The veterinarian thought it might have been lightning. The animal has recovered sufficiently to eat well and is fed corn, oats, corn sirup, and alfalfa hay. It may be put out on pasture again later in the fall.

Bluegrass Is Plentiful.

Since rains revived the pastures the cattle have had fine grazing with a choice of clover, alfalfa, timothy, and lots of bluegrass.

The steers are to be shifted today to a field of soy beans. They also will have clover and alfalfa in other parts of the same field. The plan is to keep the steers in the lot at night for a few days, give them dry hay each morning and put them in the pasture about noon. This is precaution against further trouble by allowing them too much green protein feed.

The soy beans to be grazed originally were intended for silage, but the manager decided to finish filling the silos with third cutting alfalfa and to use the beans for pasture. All the silos have been filled with alfalfa and clover. No corn silage will be made at the farm this year.

3 BIG SECURITIES OFFERINGS MEET STRONG DEMAND

Investment Market Gives Signs of Reviving.

Reviving activity in the investment market coincident with the placing in effect of the Securities and Exchange commission's new policy of shortening the "incubation" period on new securities was indicated yesterday. Three large issues totaling more than $21,000,000 placed on the market during the day met a brisk demand, dealers reported. Other big offerings appeared in prospect, including three which will total $77,500,000.

Syndicate books were closed at an early hour on the $15,000,000 offering of Dow Chemical company debentures in a heavy oversubscription, Smith, Barney & Co., head of the syndicate, reported. Later in the day the debentures were quoted at a premium over the offering price.

Stock Offering Is Sold.

Ready sale also was reported for the $3,500,000 of Houston Natural Gas corporation bonds which went on the market, and for an offering of 25,000 shares of United Biscuit company preferred stock which was priced at 102.

The Dow Chemical and Houston Natural Gas issues were the first two large issues to be cleared by the SEC in less than the 20 day period formerly required as the elapsed time between the registration and offering dates. A recent amendment to the securities act of 1933 gave the SEC discretionary power to cut the waiting period. Investment bankers had objected that the 20 day delay impeded new financing thru which productive capital flowed into industry.

In the case of the Dow Chemical debentures the waiting period was 13 days, and only 7 days elapsed before the Houston Natural Gas issue was cleared.

Utility Bonds in Offering.

The quick disposal of yesterday's offerings, following oversubscription of a $6,000,000 Western Auto Supply debenture issue marketed on the preceding day, turned brokers' attention to forthcoming issues.

Among offerings expected soon are $29,000,000 of Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric 3¼s, $32,000,000 of International Paper company bonds and $16,500,000 of San Antonia Public Service company 3½s.

Dow, Jones & Co., reported that Southern California Edison Co., Ltd., is considering refunding $73,000,000 of first and refunding mortgage 3¾ per cent bonds and $35,000,000 of series B first and refunding mortgage bonds.

The news agency also said Southern California Gas company is expected to file with the SEC late this week a refunding bond issue amounting to $30,000,000.

COLEMAN LAMP VOTES THIRD '40 EXTRA DIVIDEND

Reed Roller's Additional Payment 15 Cents.

Directors of the Coleman Lamp and Stove company yesterday declared an extra dividend of 25 cents a share in addition to the regular quarterly payment of 25 cents, both payable Sept. 30 to shareholders of record Sept. 21. This is the third consecutive quarterly extra disbursement of 25 cents to be paid by the company this year.

The Air Reduction company voted to pay a 25 cent regular and a 25 cent extra dividend on Oct. 15 to stockholders of record Sept. 30. The company paid similar extras in July and April.

In addition to its usual quarterly dividend of $1.50, the Merchants Bank of New York will pay 50 cents extra on Sept. 30 to shareholders of record Sept. 20. Extras of 25 cents were distributed in each of the two preceding quarters.

Vote Larger Extra.

After paying extras of 5 cents in each of the two preceding quarters, Reed Roller Bit company boosted the extra to 15 cents for the third quarter and declared a regular dividend of 25 cents. Both are payable Sept. 30 on stock of record Sept. 20.

Directors of the Harris Trust and Savings bank authorized the usual quarterly payment of $2.50, to be distributed Oct. 1 to stockholders of record Sept. 17.

INTO THE AIR.

Is it true that Briggs is trying to lessen its dependency on the automobile industry by getting into aviation? What are the company's operating results?—W. C.

Answer: The Briggs Manufacturing company this year entered the aircraft industry in a major way in an effort to diversify its activities. It established a separate aircraft division staffed in part with the operating personnel of the Barkley-Grow Aircraft corporation.

This division has been engaged by the United Aircraft corporation to manufacture complete metal wing assemblies for navy observation scout planes. The Briggs research division is also developing an engine for naval aircraft.

Briggs ranks as the largest independent manufacturer of automobile bodies. The company has an annual capacity of one million units. Chrysler and Ford are its leading customers. Briggs also makes small automotive parts. When automobile activity lags the company uses its Detroit plants to make pressed steel plumbing ware.

With the single exception of 1932 Briggs has operated profitably in each of the last 20 years. Consolidated net income, earnings per share and dividends per share in recent years follow:

1935	$9,266,199	$4.68	$3.00
1936	10,411,077	5.26	4.00
1937	9,390,743	4.75	4.00
1938	840,459	0.42	1.00

Consolidated net income of the company and subsidiaries in the first half of 1940 was $4,240,389, equal to $2.14 a share, against $2,036,789, or $1.03 a share in the first half of 1939.

Capitalization of the company consists of 1,979,000 shares of no par common stock. Dividends on the stock have been paid steadily since 1933. In 1940 dividends on the stock totaled $1 a share thru June 28.

M'CRORY STORES.

Answer: The McCrory Stores corporation has more than 200 units operating in 24 states. Most of the stores are in the east.

ADMITTED ASSETS.

What is meant by the term admitted assets?—R. U.

Answer: Admitted assets represent the value of property which insurance companies are permitted to list as prescribed by state insurance commissioners. These values may vary from market or book values.

RFC ASKS EARLY MILWAUKEE ROAD PLAN APPROVAL

The Reconstruction Finance corporation favors reorganization of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad as soon as possible as a matter of public interest, its attorney, Cassius M. Clay, Washington, D. C., told Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe yesterday. Judge Igoe is holding a hearing on a plan of reorganization for the road which was approved by the Interstate Commerce commission in February.

Kenneth F. Burgess, representing insurance companies holding over 73 million dollars of bonds, and Fred N. Oliver, representing mutual savings banks which hold bonds of over 26 million dollars, said the institutional investors which they represent also favor approval of the plan.

Personal Loans

On Your Own Signature

Here salaried men and women [single or married] can get $25 to $250 or more entirely on earning capacity and personal responsibility. We prefer to make these loans the way most people like—without security—without endorsers.

NO WAGE ASSIGNMENTS

Simply do this:
1. Make application. [Can be in person or by phone.]
2. Come in, sign and get the cash.

Pick Your Own Payments

Take a year, or more, to repay. You know best how much you can afford each month—you name the payment which best fits your income.

PRIVACY

We keep the entire transaction strictly between us. Your employer, friends or relatives are not notified.

SIMPLE TO GET

Our loans are made on the simple basis of your ability to make small, regular payments, and if you can, you should not hesitate to see us for a loan, at once. Come in or telephone.

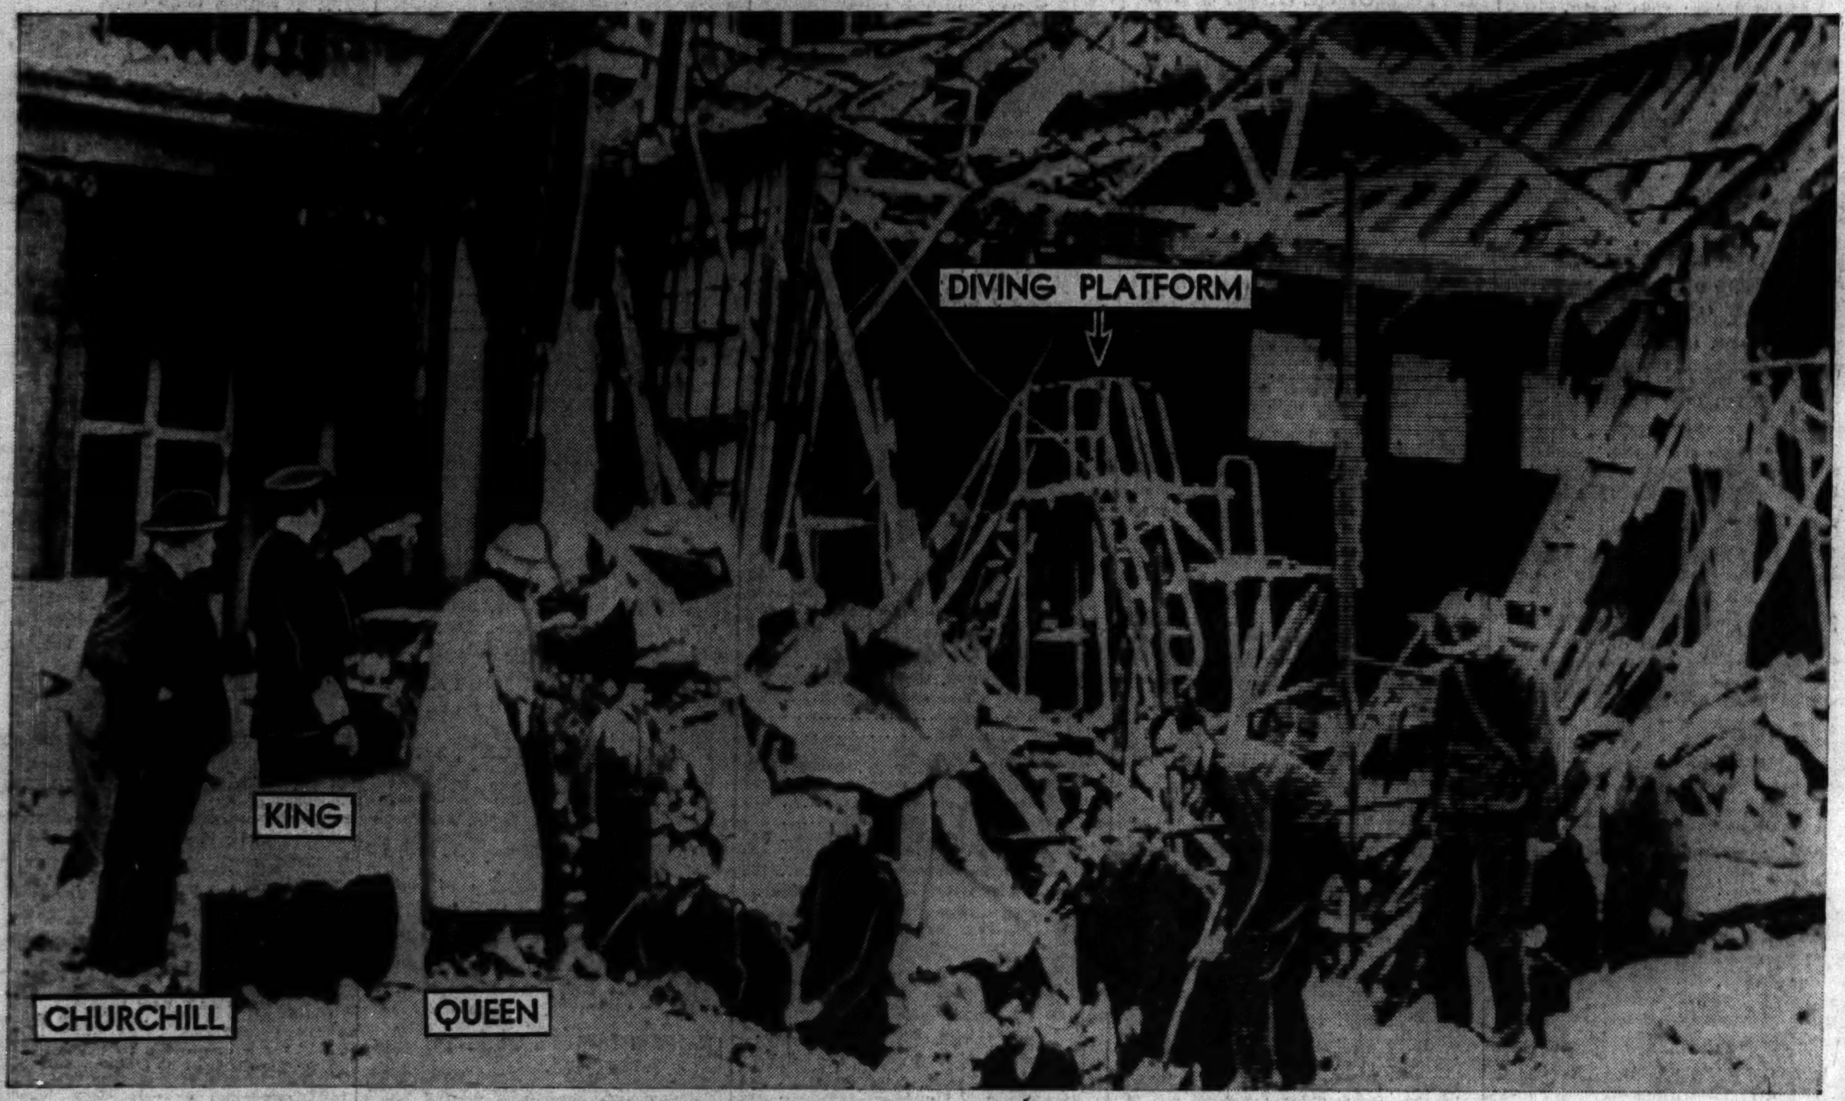
British Guns Smash "Revenge" Raid on London—Bomb Damage at Buckingham Palace Shown



[Associated Press Wirephoto: Sent from London yesterday by cable.]

The British king, queen, and prime minister inspecting bomb damage yesterday at Buckingham palace in London. A swimming pool jutting from north section of palace was most severely damaged in explosion of delayed action bomb. The rulers were not in palace at the time.

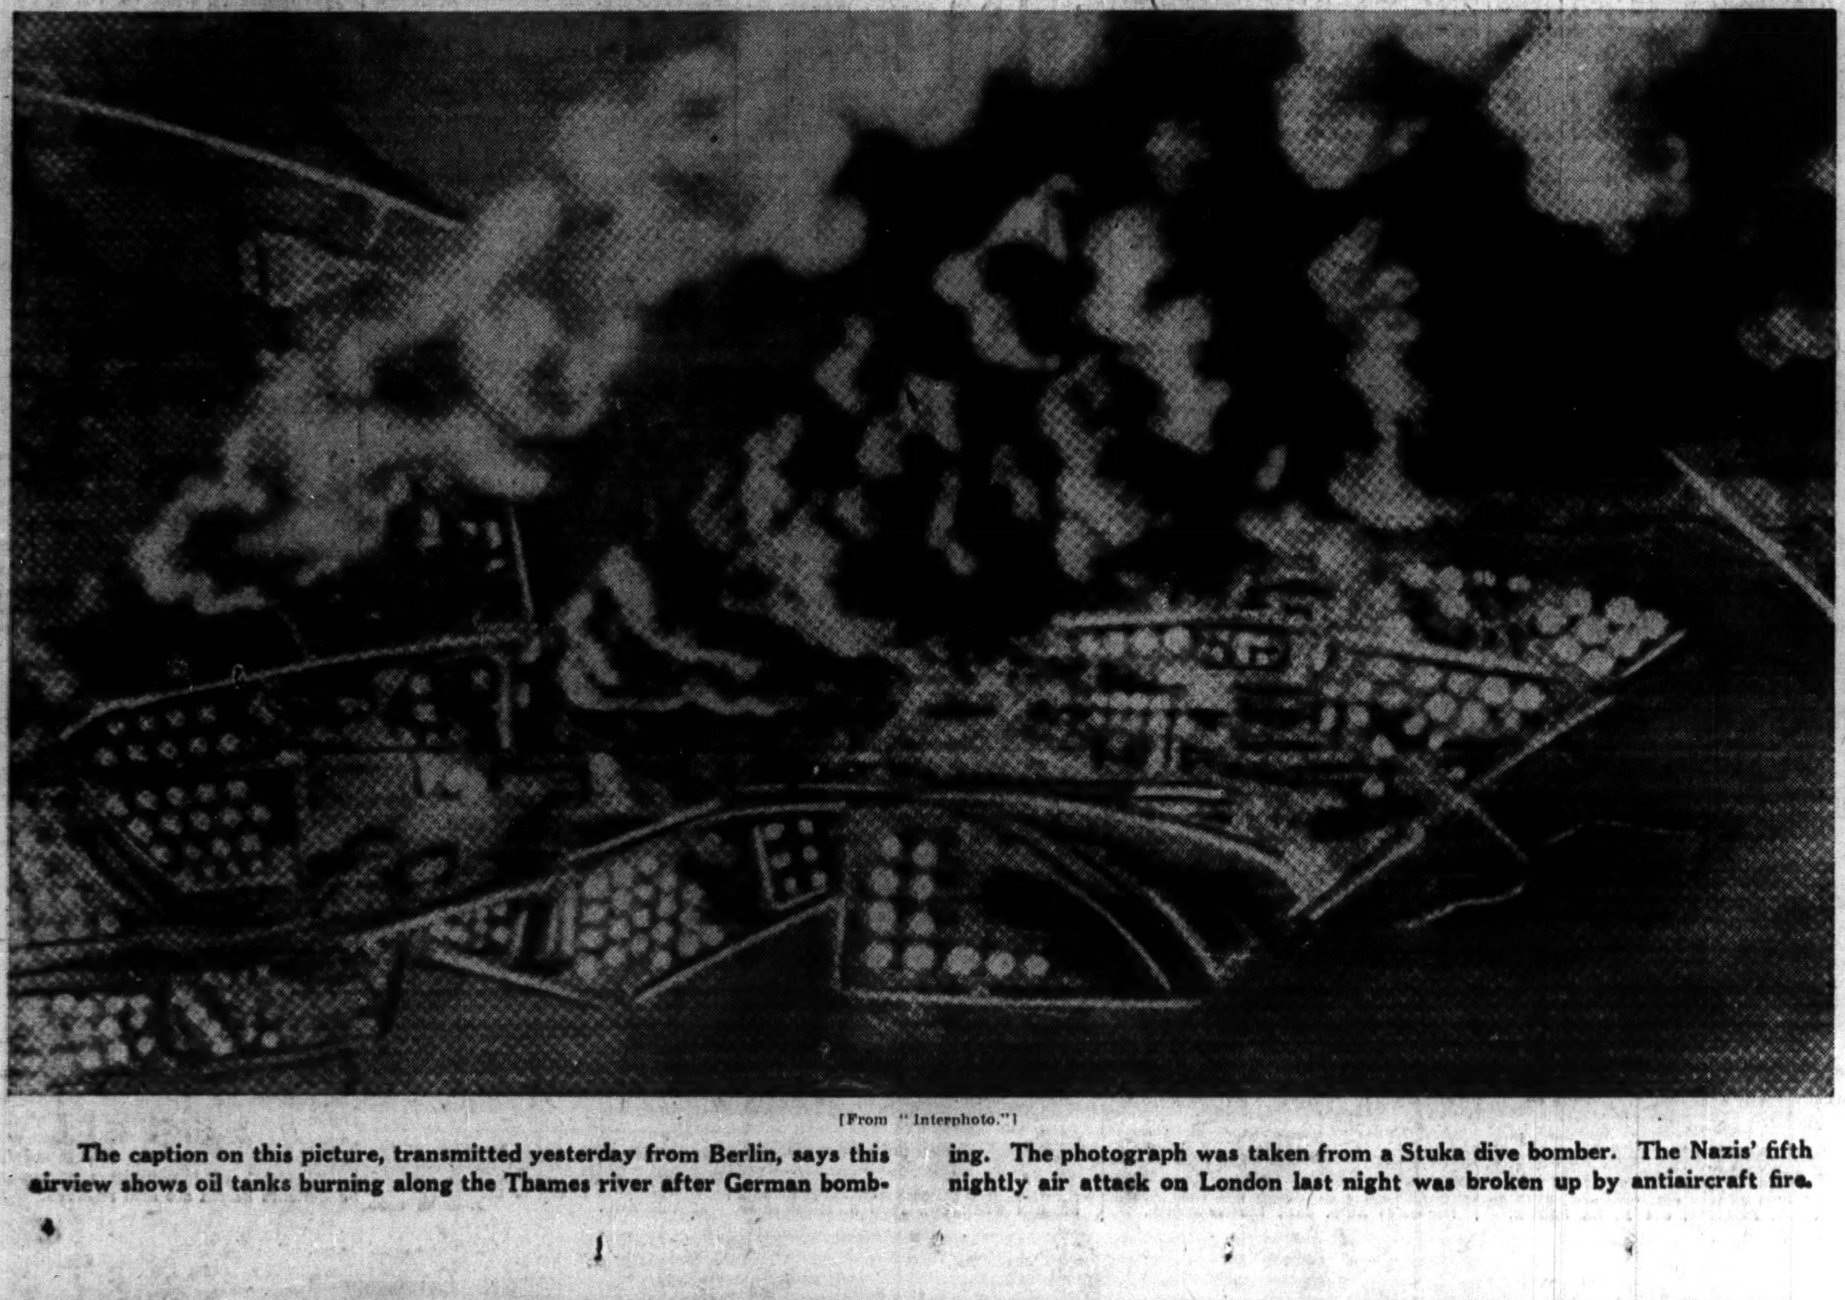
Aerial view of Buckingham palace, residence of king and queen in London, with captions explaining where bomb exploded and locating important features of the building and grounds. Windows and masonry on north side of building were damaged by the blast.



[From "Interphoto."]

The caption on this picture, transmitted yesterday from Berlin, says this airview shows oil tanks burning along the Thames river after German bombing. The photograph was taken from a Stuka dive bomber. The Nazis' fifth nightly air attack on London last night was broken up by antiaircraft fire.
